HOD AND LABORER UNIONS STRIKE BUT FAIL TO STOP ALL CONSTRUCTION

Other AFL Crafts Continue to Work Where Possible — Carpenters on Job Despite Jurisdictional Dispute.

AFL building laborers and hod carriers walked off their jobs in St. Louis and St. Louis county today in a jurisdictional dispute with AFL carpenters but failed to effect a complete construction shutdown.

The laborers accepted an invitation to meet this afternoon with associated general contractors, who have announced, however, they are unable to settle the jurisdictional fight. An effort also was being made by the Building and Construction Trades Council to get the carpenters and laborers into a meeting with other business agents. Joseph Payne, executive secretary, said the council did not want a work stoppage and has been seeking to compose the differences between the two unions.

Other AFL building crafts continued working, where possible, and the Building and Construction Trades Council, with which the laborers and hod carriers are affiliated, was endeavoring to arrange a truce in the long-standing jurisdictional dispute. Carpenters, who announced they would continue working, reported on jobs today, as did other crafts, which were able to carry on construction phases not requiring laborers.

Points at issue between the carpenters and the laborers involve the removal and cleaning of wood forms used in concrete construction, and the handling of lumber and millwork on a job before it is actually nailed into place. Erwin C. Meinert, executive secretary of the Carpenters' District Council, charged that laborers are seeking "to control jobs." Meinert said the carpenters' union "fostered the laborers' organization, and now they are trying to dominate the building situation, not only here, but throughout the country." The carpenters, Meinert added, "are not in controversy with anyone, and will continue working."

Strike Telegrams Sent.

Notice of the strike was given by the Laborers' District Council on Saturday in telegrams to the Master Builders' Association and the Municipal Contractors' Association, composed of 60 large contractors. The walkout also affects residential contractors who are members of the Home Builders' Association.

Jobs affected wholly, or partly, by the laborers' walkout include new construction at Anheuser-Busch, Inc., Continental Oil Co., Missouri-Portland Cement Co., L'Ouverture School, Viking Freight Lines, Commercial Building, St. Louis County Courthouse and others. At the new county courthouse this morning 15 laborers failed to show up, and bricklayers, who reported for work, went home. Working on the job were 17 steamfitters, seven plumbers, seven stone masons, three electricians and two glaziers.

Crafts directly affected by the laborers' work stoppage are bricklayers, plasterers and cement finishers. Plumbers need laborers in the early stages of construction, but carpenters, lathers and electricians can get along without them.

The strike held up two contractors engaged in construction for the Atomic Energy Commission at Mallinckrodt Chemical Works. Laborers reported to the job, but did not go to work. Mallinckrodt officials have requested the Laborers' international union to intercede to get the laborers to return to the government job.

Idle laborers gathered at their two headquarters, 3700 Enright avenue and 8614 Manchester road, in Brentwood. No disturbances were reported, but police and deputies were alerted in the event of trouble.

No Interference.

Police details were sent early today to the new Mississippi river bridge approach, at the foot of Franklin avenue, where Earl Jenkins, ousted former business agent of the Laborers, is reported to have been working on a laborers' gang, and to the Pork House Market, 2029 Shenandoah avenue, a large remodeling job. Carpenters went in the Pork House to work at 8 a.m. without interference.

The walkout was threatened last week, but was deferred after major contractors and the two unions arrived at what appeared to be the basis of a settlement of the issues. The plan was repudiated by the executive council of the Laborers' District Council. Rejection, it was learned, was due largely to the objections of Paul Hulahan, acting business agent of Laborers' Local 42, who was not invited to the "peace meeting" because the carpenters did not want him there. Hulahan urged the laborers' executive board to repudiate the tentative plan, and the 32-man board took the action he recommend.

Hulahan recently was reinstated to laborers' union affairs, after being ousted in 1941 with two other local officers in an investigation of their handling of $151,000 in union funds. He was elected acting business agent of Local 42 several months ago to fill a vacancy, pending an election in June.

A carpenter observed today: "When Hulahan came back we knew there would be trouble with the laborers."

POLICE 8-HOUR VIGIL TRAPS 5 IN FUTILE $200,000 THEFT JOB

They Spot Man Buying Drill and Rope, Trail Men Who Bore Through Cement Walls.

NEW YORK, March 28 (UP)—Detectives spotted Albert Brengle, 35 years old, buying an electric drill and a rope ladder Saturday morning. They trailed him all day until he joined four other men.

Then they trailed the gang until all five broke into a Brooklyn office building. Police reinforcements were called and eight hours later the gang came back out of the building to be arrested immediately. But the gang carried no loot.

Police went inside to see what had been going on during the eight hours. They found the men, to avoid setting off burglar alarms, had bored through two thick cement floors in a futile effort to reach a jewelry store safe containing $200,000 worth of jewels.

The five admitted several other burglaries to police, all more successful.

The prisoners were booked as Alexander Oliver, 26; Stephen Kramer, 24; Brengle, 35; Albert De Angelis, 26, and Samuel Mastropietro, 28. All five were charged with burglary, grand larceny and possession of burglar tools.

B-26 CRASHES ON FUJIYAMA, SNOW SLOWS HUNT FOR CREW

Helicopter Spots Wreckage of Light Bomber That Carried Four Men.

TOKYO, March 28 (AP)—Four to six feet of new snow and a fog today hampered ground parties in their search for the wreckage of a B-26 light bomber that crashed yesterday on the slopes of Fujiyama. The plane carried a crew of four.

Wreckage was spotted by the crew of an Air Force helicopter. They saw no signs of life. Four soldiers of the United States Third Rescue squadron were nearest the wreckage when the search was halted for the day. They were 7000 feet up the 12,000 foot mountain.

PARK AVENUE'S LAMPPOSTS CRITICIZED AS SPOILING VISTA

But Saving Even One Life Is More Important, Says Head of Group.

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—New lampposts along fashionable Park avenue esthetically are not easy on the eyes, an art society says.

In a letter yesterday to Mayor William O'Dwyer, officers of the Municipal Art Society said the posts have "broken up the giant sweep of the vista on what was our most beautiful avenue."

The $125,000 project to give the avenue 175 per cent more light and reduce auto accidents began early last year.

Edward B. Lockwood, president of the Park Avenue Association, said the poles spoiled the vista "to a certain extent," but he added "It's more important to save even one life in traffic than have an unblemished view."

Girl, 16, Killed and Thrown in River, Joked About Her Sister's Illicit Love Affair.

By ROBERT MUSEL

MILWAUKEE, March 27 (UP)—Sixteen-year-old Patricia Birmingham thought it was funny that her 17-year-old sister, Kathleen, was pregnant from an illicit love affair.

She joked about it to her own boy friend, confided it to her high school classmates and remarked slyly on her sister's figure in front of her unsuspecting parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Birmingham.

Desperate, unable to face a shame he knew must become known in a few weeks at the most, Kathleen's lover, 19-year-old Milton Babich, begged Patricia to keep the secret until he could manage an elopement.

Two Homes All But Wrecked.

Today, Patricia is dead, her body dragged from the Milwaukee river where Babich confessed he dropped it, wired to a concrete block—a method he read about in a comic book. Kathleen is on the verge of nervous collapse. And two pleasant middle-class homes are all but wrecked.

The Babich case happened in Milwaukee, but it could have happened anywhere.

"Something has come over our young people," said Mayor Frank Zeidler, "perhaps something has happened to the American home in the aftermath of war."

Mayor Zeidler knows. Last October, his city was stunned by the discovery of one of the worst juvenile vice rings in midwestern history—20 teen-age white girls, Negro youths and older men who frankly confessed sexual excesses that police said were almost "beyond belief." The girls were not identified but some of them were known to have come from "good homes."

Discovery Follows Morals Raid.

This followed a raid by the morals squad on a party in which eight boys and girls were found intoxicated, at least one pair in the bedroom, while automobiles filled with other teen-agers raced away from the house when the police arrived.

While the city still was taking action on the juvenile vice ring, another teen-age drinking orgy was reported to police, who caught 24 boys and girls from 15 to 18 in the home of a woman who said she saw nothing wrong in minors drinking at home—"it keeps them off the streets."

Yet, Milwaukee's record for a city of its size, 700,000, is not bad. There are worse.

Signs of Nation-Wide Problem.

"What has happened here serves to indicate, however, that juvenile delinquency must be a tremendous problem the whole country over," Mayor Zeidler said.

Milwaukee's current sensation, the Babich case, is gruesome enough in its bare outlines but some of its aspects will interest social investigators beyond the scope of the crime itself.

Patricia apparently considered her sister's pregnancy a matter for jest—a curious attitude perhaps indicative of the changing ideas of what is right and wrong among young folk. That is what Milwaukee's church and civic leaders are setting out to fight.

Woman, Hit on Head With Pistol By Youth in Holdup, Pursues Him

Miss Rose Esther, 64-year-old clerk in the Eighteenth Street Cut Rate Drug store, Eighteenth and Chouteau avenue, was struck on the side of the head today by a Negro youth in his unsuccessful attempt to hold up the store.

Despite the stunning effect of the blow, delivered with a pistol, Miss Esther followed the youth out the front door and for 30 or 40 feet west on Chouteau avenue. Drops of blood on the sidewalk marked her route.

Miss Esther, who lives above the drugstore operated by her brother, J. Landis Esther, told police she was alone in the store when the youth entered and asked for a cold remedy. When he was unable to recall the exact name of the drug, he left the store briefly and returned with the name written on a piece of paper.

As Miss Esther bent over to read the paper, she was stunned by a blow on the left temple. "I heard a loud noise and thought I has been shot, because I saw a pistol in the robber's hand as he turned away and fled," she related. Police could find no evidence a shot had been fired.

As the youth fled west on Chouteau, Miss Esther followed him until she saw him run north through a vacant lot and disappear. Nothing was taken from the store. Miss Esther refused to be taken to City Hospital for examination. She received first aid in the store from a passerby.

TWO OF 'BIG FIVE' HOODLUMS IN K.C. ARE QUESTIONED IN RIMANN KILLING

By THEODORE C. LINK
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, March 28—Two of the notorious "big five" group of hoodlums who dominated the underworld here during the regime of Boss Tom Pendergast were questioned yesterday by detectives in the investigation of the killing of Wolf C. Rimann in gangland fashion last Thursday in downtown Kansas City.

Lt. Charles Welch and detectives of the homicide squad questioned Charles Gargotta and Tony Gizzo, top-flight gangsters of the north side Italian faction.

Gizzo, who said he is now a salesman for the Canadian Ace Brewery, the Chicago-Capone controlled brewery, told the officers he had no idea of entering the liquor business, despite reports reaching the police that Gizzo and Gargotta were two of the Italian faction that Charles Binaggio, Capone representative here and one of the chief backers of Gov. Forrest Smith, wanted to get the distributorship of the Schenley Distilling Co. for western Missouri and Kansas.

Warned by Binaggio.

Rimann went to New York and managed to obtain the distributorship despite warnings by Binaggio and others that the "Schenley distributorship belonged to the Italians."

Another friend of Gov. Smith was reported here to have interested himself in who got the Schenley account. He is Raymond A. Edlund, vice president of the Manufacturers & Mechanics Bank and treasurer of the State Democratic Committee.

Edlund, a colonel on the Governor's staff, was reported to have warned Rimann the distributorship he was seeking "belonged to Binaggio." The banker denied this, however, terming the report "the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard."

Edlund told this correspondent Rimann was a customer of his bank and he knew about the Schenley deal, just as did many other persons in financial circles here.

"I wouldn't have hesitated to warn Riman if I thought he was in any danger—just as any person would do—but the fact remains that I didn't because I didn't know that much about the deal," the banker asserted.

Campaigner for Smith.

A prominent campaigner for Gov. Smith, just as Binaggio was, Edlund said he had known Rimann for 25 years, part of that time because of their mutual interest in golf, and part because Edlund's bank was one of five with which Rimann did business.

Edmund pointed out that the company organized by Rimann to handle Schenley products did not have its account with the Manufacturers & Mechanics Bank but with the City National Bank.

When the State Democratic Committee was reorganized last September, Edlund had the support of Binaggio for treasurer, as well as the indorsement of the Democratic gubernatorial nominee. In a contest between the Binaggio and Pendergast factions over election of members from the two districts in Jackson county, the Pendergast group had

HOUSE COMMITTEE APPROVES PUBLIC POWER FUNDS IN INTERIOR MEASURE

Republicans Say They Will Continue Fight Against Projects in Debate on Floor — Tie Vote on Issues.

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—The House Appropriations committee laid the groundwork today for a public-versus-private power fight in a $577,324,408 Interior Department money bill for the year beginning July 1.

It approved almost in full, plans of big Government-owned projects to expand their power transmission facilities in the West, the Northwest and the Southwest.

Republicans who fought the program in committee said they would continue the battle when the bill comes before the House for debate, probably tomorrow.

15 Pct. Reduction.

While the committee applied a general 15 per cent reduction on most construction projects financed in the bill, it approved the entire power program of the agencies operating under the Department of the Interior. It based the reduction on the theory that the program as originally mapped out can be completed cheaper because of lower construction costs.

The committee invited department officials to come back for more money if costs fail to drop according to expectations.

The $577,324,408 spending availability approved includes $536,211,908 in new cash and $41,112,500 in contract authority for which future appropriations may be needed.

This compares with $616,805,020 in cash requested by the President and $54,300,000 in contract authority, or a reduction of $80,593,112 in cash and $13,187,500 in contract authority.

The new cash recommended is $126,821,934 more than Congress gave the department for the present fiscal year ending June 30.

Funds for Reclamation.

Almost half the cash, $317,790,037, was allotted by the committee to the Reclamation Bureau. This is $55,538,463 less than the President asked but $71,170,898 more than the bureau was given this year. The committee gave the bureau full authority to use force-account, or hired, labor on construction projects. The last Congress limited the use of hired labor work as contrasted to contract labor furnished by private contractors.

The committee rejected only one transmission line—that of the Fort Peck (Mont.) project known as the Havre-Shelby line.

Other Programs.

Southwestern Power Administration: $4,000,000 in cash and $5,000,000 in contract authority approved; $4,000,000 in cash and $5,800,000 in contract authority been requested.

Bonneville Power Administration: $29,927,500 in cash and $15,725,000 contract authority granted; $33,000,000 cash and $18,500,000 contract authority requested.

Bureau of Indian Affairs: $52,127,971 granted; $59,001,520 asked. The committee commented that in the past there has been "too much effort toward explaining annually how deplorable is the plight of the Indian and relatively little effort toward actually helping the Indian. . . ."

National Park Service: $28,056,000 granted; $29,485,600 requested.

Fish and Wildlife Service: $10,735,800 granted; $11,143,000 asked.

Geological Survey: $15,513,000 granted; $17,900,000 asked.

Bureau of Mines: $23,337,500 granted; $23,946,500 asked.

Territory of Alaska: $43,404,100 granted; $52,404,100 asked. An outlay of $25,692,000 and contractual authority for $7,000,000 to build

11 MEN RESCUED FROM FLYING BOAT DOWN IN PACIFIC

PEARL HARBOR, March 28 (AP)—Eleven men were rescued from a sinking Navy Catalina flying boat in the middle of the Pacific last midnight. Navy LSM 448 picked up the airmen nine hours after their plane went down, a brief radio report said.

Among the nine crewmen aboard the plane, with two passengers, were Aviation Radioman P. M. Conley of St. Louis, and Ens. R. D. Osborn, Pana, Ill. They were members of a ferry crew which had picked up the plane in Kwajalein, in the Marshall Islands, and were flying it to their new station at San Diego, Calif. The landing ship was ordered to take the rescued men back to Kwajalein.

After putting down on the rough sea the flying boat radioed it was leaking and could not stay afloat much longer. The Navy rushed 15 planes to the area. Life rafts were dropped. Some of them smashed.

An Air Force B-17 from Hickam Field hovered over the bounding flying boat until the rescue ship arrived from a position 75 miles to the north.

U.S. SUPREME COURT VOIDS ALABAMA NEGRO VOTE CURB

Throws Out Amendment Requiring Citizens to Explain Any Clause of U.S. Constitution Before Balloting.

WASHINGTON, March 28 (UP)—The Supreme Court affirmed today, by an 8-to-1 decision, a lower court ruling invalidating a provision in the Alabama constitution requiring prospective voters to explain to the satisfaction of election boards any article in the United State Constitution.

The lower court had ruled that the provision—known as the Boswell amendment—was designed to restrict Negroes from voting. It was adopted in 1946.

A three-judge United States court for the southern district of Alabama declared the provision unconstitutional. The Mobile county board of election registrars appealed. It had been enjoined from carrying out that section of the voting requirement. But the Supreme Court refused today to hear the appeal. In affirming the lower court's ruling, the Supreme Court did not issue an opinion.

Justice Stanley F. Reed was the only member of the tribunal voting in favor of granting the Mobile board a hearing on its appeal. He felt the Supreme Court should do so "in view of the fact that a constitutional provision of a state is involved."

The law was challenged in the lower court by 10 Negroes, some of whom were refused registration because the board said they failed to explain properly the Constitution. That court ruled that white applicants were not required to pass the test and that two of the plaintiffs were denied registration solely because they were Negroes.

The lower court said the Boswell amendment imposes "an exceedingly high, if not impossible standard" — one over which Supreme Court Justices disagree.

It said that, while race is nowhere mentioned, the amendment was sponsored by the Alabama Democratic executive committee "to make the Democratic party in Alabama the 'white man's party.'"

The registrars' appeal said Supreme Court review was important to get uniform administration of the law. It said the injunction applied only to Mobile county, not to Alabama's other 66 counties.

GIRL, 2, DROWNS IN POND; FOUND BY FARM OWNER

Jeannine Schudde, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Schudde, 23 Sunset drive, Sappington, drowned today in a small pond on the farm of Robert Wohlschlaeger, Kennerly and Tesson Ferry roads.

The body of the child was discovered by Wohlschlaeger, who said he saw it floating on the water, which is about four feet deep.

The child's mother, Mrs. Bernice Schudde, told a Post-Dispatch reporter she had been doing the family washing today and delayed calling the children for lunch until shortly after 1 p.m. The children were Jeannine and her sisters, Carlotta and Carleen, twins, 4 years old.

"They had been playing in the yard," Mrs. Schudde said, "but when I went to get them for lunch they weren't here, so I walked up the road toward Wohlschlaeger's farm. They often play there.

"As I walked up the road, I saw the twins come running toward me. They were screaming: 'Jeannie is dead.'"

Wohlschlaeger told Fire Chief Robert Manley of Mehlville Volunteer Fire Department that he had seen the children playing near the pond about noon and had told them to go away. Later, while working in a nearby field, he saw the Schudde child's body and pulled it out of the water.

Firemen used an inhalator and administered oxygen for 45 minutes before a physician pronounced the child dead.

Wohlschlaeger operates a truck farm. Jeannine's father is industrial relations manager for the electric division of Vickers, Inc., with offices at 1815 Locust street.

WOMAN IN IRON LUNG GIVES BIRTH; SHE, BABY DOING NICELY

Barber Father So Excited He Gives Customer $1 to Get Shave Elsewhere.

LOS ANGELES, March 28 (AP)—Willard Dare, a barber, got excited when informed over the phone that he had just become the father of a baby girl. He had reason to be.

He said he shoved a $1 bill into the hands of a lathered customer he was shaving and told him to get the job finished down the street.

He rushed to the hospital to learn his wife and the six-pound four-ounce infant were doing nicely. He was much relieved. His wife, Virginia, 28, is an infantile paralysis victim, and has been in an iron lung since last Nov. 15.

GIRL, 14, INJURED IN AUTO CRASH ON 'RUNAWAY TRIP'

Three Teen-Age Companions Held — Car Used by Group Said to Have Been Stolen.

A 14-year-old girl of the Epworth School, Webster Groves, was in a serious condition today in a hospital at Pana, Ill., and her three teen-age companions were held in the Shelby county jail at Shelbyville, Ill., in the aftermath of a "runaway trip" that started in Webster Groves last Wednesday.

The injured girl is Mary Ellen Dickerson who was said to be suffering a spinal injury received when a small foreign-make automobile which had been stolen, police said, crashed into a tree early yesterday on United States Route 51, three miles south of Pana. She was taken to Huber Memorial Hospital.

Her friends, held by Sheriff C. A. Clausen for St. Louis county authorities are Betty Jo Kiser of Mexico, Mo., also from the Epworth School; Thomas L. Scott Jr., formerly of 427 Oak street, Webster Groves, and John Dattoli Jr., whose parents reside at the Laclede Hotel, 520 Chestnut street.

Girls Run Away from School.

Miss Elva Perry, directress of the Epworth School at 110 North Elm avenue, said the girls ran away Wednesday morning and apparently met the boys in Webster Groves. The school is operated by the Methodist Church and the Greater St. Louis Community Chest as a home and elementary school for girls from broken families.

Scott, who recently was sentenced to six months in the county jail at Clayton for theft of a motor scooter, told Sheriff Clausen in Shelbyville that they met the girls and drove to Sullivan, Mo. There they ran out of gasoline and camped on the bank of the Meramec river.

The first automobile they used was not a stolen machine, Scott and Datolli said. Mary Ellen and Betty Jo said it had been stolen. Police are checking to determine which version of the story is correct.

Steal Small Auto.

The four made their way back to Webster Groves last Saturday and stole the small car in which they were riding when the accident occurred. Police are investigating to determine ownership of that machine.

Scott and Dattoli said they were enroute to Chicago when Scott fell asleep at the wheel. The boys told Clausen they were going to get jobs in Chicago. After the wreck, the boys were seen carrying Mary Ellen to an abandoned farm house at the side of the road. The farmer who saw them,

WAY IS CLEARED FOR 15-MONTH EXTENSION BEFORE CONTROLS EXPIRE

Senate Wins Dispute Over Basis for Ceilings, Drops Plan for 10 Pct. Rise—Quick Approval Expected.

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Senate-House conferees agreed today on a 15-month rent-control extension bill requiring a "fair net operating income" for landlords.

The agreement clears the way for House and Senate action on a new rent-control law before the present law expires Thursday at midnight.

Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, said the compromise bill will be brought up in the Senate as soon as a draft of the agreement is put in shape.

Senate Fight Predicted.

Senator Taft (Rep.), Ohio, told reporters he expected a Senate fight against it; that Senator Bricker (Rep.), Ohio, probably would lead it.

The House is expected to consider the bill tomorrow, if the Senate passes it late today.

The provision requiring a "fair net operating income" for landlords is the one the Senate insisted on for handling possible rent increases. The House conferees rejected it Saturday. That caused a deadlock over the weekend.

Landlord Relief Provision.

"In making and recommending individual and general adjustments to remove hardships or to correct other inequities, the housing expediter and the local boards shall observe the principle of maintaining maximum rents for controlled housing accommodations, so far as is practicable, at levels which will yield to landlords a fair net operating income from such housing accommodations.

"In determining whether the maximum rent for controlled housing accommodations yields a fair net operating income from such housing accommodations, due consideration shall be given to the following, among other relevant factors; (A) Increases in property taxes; (B) unavoidable increases in operating and maintenance expenses; (C) major capital improvements of the housing accommodations as distinguished from ordinary repairs, replacement, and maintenance; (D) increases or decreases in living space, services, furniture, furnishings or equipment; and (E) substantial deterioration of the housing accommodations, other than ordinary wear and tear, or failure to perform ordinary repair, replacement, or maintenance."

Adoption of that provision tosses out:

1. The section in the Senate bill which provided for some rent increases up to 10 per cent.

2. The provision in the House bill which required the Government to fix rent ceilings at a level to assure landlords a "reasonable return on the reasonable values" of their property.

Short of Truman's Request.

The measure, as finally agreed on, is considerably short of what President Truman had asked for. He wanted a 24-month extension of controls and a tightened law.

However, congressional leaders said Truman made no criticism of the bill, as it was shaping up, when they had their weekly conference with him this forenoon.

It was taken for granted that Truman would sign the bill, once it reaches him.

There was no immediate certainty as to just what effect there might be on rents from the provision requiring a "fair net operating income" to landlords.

Sparkman's Interpretation.

Senator Sparkman (Dem.), Alabama, said he interpreted it as ruling out consideration of any mortgage payments and interest in calculating a "fair income" to the landlord.

Sparkman also said that in his opinion "this (new formula) amounts to practically what the housing expediter is doing now with respect to the hardship provisions under the present law."

The hardship provision of the existing law requires in general that rents be at such a level as to prevent the landlord from operating in the red.

Why did the Senate conferees insist on inclusion of the word "operating"? Senator Douglas (Dem.), Illinois, explained:

Two comparable dwellings are each worth $5000. Suppose the government decides that 5 per cent is a reasonable return from rent. That would be $250 a year on each. But one of the houses has a mortgage which costs the landlord $200 a year; if you include this cost in a reasonable return formula, the rent would have to yield $200 plus the $250.

Hence, Douglas added, it would be necessary for the Government to fix a higher rent ceiling on the mortgaged place than on the mortgage-free dwelling.

St. Louisan's Mothball Tip Used In New Zealand to Bar Bird Nests

The state hydro-electric department of far-away New Zealand is trying out the suggestion of Mrs. Emma Brinkmann of St. Louis that mothballs may prevent birds from building nests in the department's power installations.

Mrs. Brinkmann, who lives in an apartment at 1215 North Seventh street, mailed her suggestion last November when she read the department's newspaper advertisement asking for help in its bird troubles. She told how effective mothballs, wrapped in cheese cloth, had been in keeping sparrows off her porch.

The other day, Mrs. Brinkmann received a letter thanking her for the suggestion. The hydro-electric department, with an office at Auckland, said it was experimenting with the mothballs but would have to devise some way to keep rain from disintegrating them.

Another St. Louisan, E. P. Palmer, a teacher, also offered a suggestion. He recommended the use of "smelly" oil, perhaps crude oil, which was effective several years ago in repelling a flock of blackbirds in a Missouri town.

SFORZA ARRIVES TO SIGN ATLANTIC TREATY, DISCUSS ITALY'S PROBLEMS

First of Foreign Ministers to Reach U.S. for Ceremony—Senate Vote on Alliance Months Off, Lucas Indicates.

By JOHN SCALI

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Count Carlo Sforza of Italy today led the parade of foreign ministers converging on Washington to sign the North Atlantic Treaty.

Sforza arrived by plane in New York one week ahead of the time when 11 to 12 foreign ministers are scheduled to sign the security pact that would link their nations into a tight defensive alliance.

The foreign ministers of Britain, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg, meanwhile, neared the United States aboard the liner Queen Mary to be on hand for the occasion. Another group, headed by Robert Schuman of France, is scheduled to reach the United States by plane Thursday and Friday.

12 Nations May Sign Pact.

Sforza came to the United States backed up by a vote of confidence in the Italian Senate which yesterday voted 188 to 112 to permit Italy to join the Atlantic alliance.

Italy thus has lined up with the United States, Britain, Canada, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, Norway and Denmark in the pact. Iceland's acceptance is expected this week. Portugal also has been invited to join, so that the total actually signing may be 12.

Sforza is expected to discuss some strictly Italian problems with the State Department. These would include Italy's oft-repeated desire to keep her former African colonies under United Nations trusteeship.

Joseph C. Satterthwaite, director of the State Department's Office of Near Eastern and African Affairs, touched on the colony issue last night. He said in a radio roundtable that the United States believes Italy should be allowed to held administer one of these—Somaliland—under a U.N. trusteeship.

Plans for Atlantic Pact.

The present schedule calls for the foreign ministers to hold a closed-door meeting Saturday to make final arrangements for the Atlantic pact signing ceremony two days later in the Government auditorium on Constitution avenue. President Truman will be on hand for the signing and may use it as a form of delivering a major foreign policy address.

After the pact is signed Truman will formally submit it to the Senate. About the same time, he is expected to forward to Congress a request of perhaps one billions dollars or more for arms aid to enforce the treaty. The pact will not be binding on the United States until the Senate approves it by a two-thirds vote.

Senator Lucas (Dem.), Illinois, forecast today that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will hold about a month of hearings on the treaty. He made that prediction after the weekly meeting of congressional leaders with President Truman. Secretary of State Dean Acheson sat in on the conference.

Lucas also said the Senate will not vote on the treaty until after "must" domestic legislation is out of the way. That suggested that a vote may be many weeks off.

Truman also talked with Budget Director Frank Pace Jr. today about the proposed arms aid to western European nations. Pace said he expects to receive a draft of suggested legislation "maybe this week." Truman told him, Pace said, to give the program "very careful consideration." He added that consideration may require considerable time. The Budget Bureau will work it over before anything is sent to Congress.

Senators Debate Pact.

The senatorial argument about whether the United States should join the treaty went on over the weekend. Senators Knowland (Rep.), California, and Baldwin (Rep.), Connecticut, argued for the treaty and Senators Malone (Rep.), Nevada, and Jenner (Rep.), Indiana, argued against it in a radio debate yesterday.

Senator Donnell (Rep.), Missouri, who has posed some difficult questions for proponents of the treaty to answer, raised another objection in a radio broadcast. That was that there is no provision for expelling signatory nations, even if their governments should be taken over by the Communists during the 20 years of the pact.

"Under the pact such (Communist) nation would nevertheless remain a party to it," Donnell said. "It appears that it would be within its rights in asking that it have all information possessed by the other parties. For the United States to enter into the solemn engagement of a treaty which would bind us to such a course of conduct is so unwise as to be almost inconceivable."

Meanwhile Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, was reported to have told friends he thinks it might be wise for Acheson to face Donnell, Senator Watkins (Rep.), Utah, and possibly others who are not committee members before the Foreign Relations Committee. He was quoted as saying this might be preferable to putting the burden on committee members of trying to interpret Acheson's and the State Department's position second-handedly in later Senate debate.

Henry A. Wallace, another radio speaker yesterday, asserted that the United States will have to pay "up to 80 billions of dollars" to rearm western Europe under the North Atlantic pact. He said the State Department and the Army will try "to conceal this fantastic cost from the American people." The 1948 Progressive party presidential candidate assailed terms of the pact.

JOHNSON SWORN IN, PLEDGES 'UNITED' MILITARY SERVICE

'American People Expect It and They Shall Have It,' Asserts New Secretary of Defense.

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Louis Johnson was sworn in today as Secretary of Defense and promised that the Army, Navy and Air Force "will be united as one in the service of the nation."

"The American people expect it and they shall have it," the 58-year-old Clarksburg (W. Va.) attorney said shortly after taking over the office from retiring Secretary James V. Forrestal.

Forrestal, the nation's first Defense Secretary, had held the post since it was created by the Armed Services Unification Act in June 1947. Prior to that he had served as Secretary of the Navy in the cabinets of President Roosevelt and President Truman.

The ceremony was the most elaborate the capital ever has seen for installation of a Cabinet officer. A crowd estimated at 15,000 watched as the oath was administered by Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson in the open, five-acre center court of the Pentagon.

Statement on Policy.

In a statement Johnson outlined his aims. He promised that:

"Our defense policy will consist in mustering the maximum of strength, within the limits of our economy and our democracy, to . . . make America secure by discouraging any potential aggressor."

He went on to say the three major branches of the armed services "will be united as one." Presumably he referred to inter-services differences that have existed among the three branches.

Johnson's statement said:

"The size of the defense job we have is not of our choosing. It has been thrust on us by the tension of the world today. America is committed to defend its own national interest and the principles of world democracy.

"This is the President's foreign policy, to which both parties of the Congress have agreed and which the American people indorse.

"Our defense policy will consist in mustering the maximum of strength, within the limits of our economy and our democracy, to back up that foreign policy and make America secure by discouraging any potential aggressor.

"To achieve that goal we shall attain the necessary measure of strength in all three branches of national defense. They will be united as one in the service of the nation. The American people expect it, and they shall have it.

"Behind the armed services are the people themselves. I know that I can count on the help of Congress, the press and all devoted Americans.

"With God's help and guidance we are determined that American youths will not again have to take part in the tragedy of a war.

"We want peace, if we can humanly get it with honor and freedom. But if there is aggression, we are calmly confident that we can stop it. . . ."

Mrs. Johnson sat in the front row, proud and smiling. She was clad in a blue suit, fur neckpiece and a blue straw hat. She wore a yellow orchid. With her was Mrs. Perle Mesta, well-known Washington hostess, who worked closely with Johnson in the political campaign when he so successfully raised funds for President Truman's campaign that the party had a surplus.

Dignitaries in Audience.

In the audience were members of the Cabinet, including Attorney General Clark, Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, and Secretary of Interior Krug. There also was a large delegation from the American Legion which Johnson at one time headed.

Army Secretary Royall, Navy Secretary Sullivan and Air Force Secretary Symington headed a delegation from the military services. High-ranking officers present included Gen. Omar Bradley, Army chief of staff; Adm. Louis Denfeld, chief of naval operations; and Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff. Many members of Congress were on hand.

Before the ceremony the Marine band played songs of the armed services. As retiring Secretary Forrestal came to the platform with Johnson and Vinson the band sounded four ruffles and four flourishes.

Then the band played the national anthem just before Vinson administered the oath to Johnson, who was Assistant Secretary of War from 1937 to 1940.

PARLIAMENT GIVES ITALY GREEN LIGHT ON ATLANTIC PACT

ROME, March 28 (AP)—Italian adherence to the North Atlantic Treaty was formally assured last night as the Senate voted its approval.

The government-controlled upper chamber then turned down a leftist proposal for treaties of friendship with Russia and its satellites.

Premier Alcide de Gasperi said he would consider such treaties with the Russian bloc only after the Soviet Union withdrew its opposition to Italy's entry into the United Nations. Russian vetoes have kept Italy out of the U.N. so far.

The vote to take Italy into the North Atlantic alliance was 188 to 112. It was the final parliamentary step necessary, since the Chamber of Deputies—the lower house—approved the treaty last week, 342 to 176. Communists fought the defense pact bitterly, in and outside of Parliament. The Senate vote came after 50 hours of debate.

The vote turning down the proposal for treaties with Russia and its satellites was 176 to 105.

BRIDGES URGES ECA BILL TIGHTEN TWO AID RULES

Wants Goods to Be Clearly Labeled 'Made in U.S.' and Close Check Made of Use.

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Senator Bridges (Rep.), New Hampshire, complained today that sabotage and Communist propaganda prevent Europeans from knowing what the United States is doing for them under the multi-billion dollar recovery program.

As Congressional leaders brought pressure for early Senate passage of the $5,580,000,000 authorization for the Economic Cooperation Administration, for the next 15 months, Bridges said he and Senator McCarran (Dem.), Nevada, would demand tightening of two phases of the foreign aid program:

1. Rigid requirements that all foods, machinery, supplies and raw materials be conspicuously labeled to show they come from the vast ECA program financed by the United States. This is in line with demands under previous relief programs that United States shipments carry a "made in America" label.

2. Closer inspection "on the spot" in Europe of actual use of goods, materials and supplies to see that this use is in line with plans and intentions.

The Bridges-McCarran amendments were added to a stack of other proposed changes and speeches. Together, all these may upset plans of Democratic leader Lucas of Illinois for Senate passage early this week. Republican floor leader Wherry of Nebraska said it may be Wednesday or later before a vote is reached.

Bridges served as chairman of a special Senate-House "watchdog committee" which had the job of checking on the original big United States Recovery plan for Europe. His group learned that ECA labels were torn from many packages and supplies, he said. In some cases railroad cars and other equipment from which ECA emblems could not be removed arrived in a damaged condition attributed to Communist sabotage, he said.

In today's Senate debate, Senator Jenner (Rep.), Indiana, denounced American foreign spending as "Broadway splurging" that could lead only to Fascism here. He said this country is "squandering" its way to economic ruin.

"I do not believe in bipartisanship," he said. "I am of the firm opinion that had the Republican party taken the issue of foreign spending to the people in the 1948 elections there would have been a far different result from the balloting."

Jenner said the entire European recovery program might well be ended.

The House Rules Committee today, cleared ECA authorization legislation under a rule allowing four hours of general debate, starting Wednesday. The committee authorized the offering of unlimited amendments to the bill, with no limit on how long the members can talk on each amendment.

ISRAEL RECOGNIZED BY TURKS

ANKARA, March 28 (UP)—Turkey today became the first Moslem country in the Middle East to grant de facto recognition to Israel.

5000 STORM STORE FOR SALE OF SUITS, COATS AT $11 EACH

BOSTON, March 28 (AP)—Five thousand men and women stormed Filene's basement today for a first-since-the-war sale of about 5000 men's suits, topcoats and overcoats at one price—$11.

H. D. Hodgkinson, general manager of Filene's—which calls itself the world's largest specialty store—estimated 3000 persons were jammed into a separate basement section three minutes after the doors opened at 8:30 a.m. The remainder of the store does not open until noon on Monday.

A crowd almost as large stood outside five entrances waiting to get in.

A crew of 200 salesmen sought to handle the milling throng. The first customer made a quick decision. The sale was rung up at 8:31. Only the packed aisles prevented sales from proceeding at a faster clip.

All suits and coats were on racks on which large signs designated sizes. Each suit coat bore a number. The vest and pants already were boxed and bore a number.

The general plan seemed to be: Grab a suit coat of the right size and then try to reach a salesman—all of whom wore large identifying buttons. All sales were for cash and there were no alterations.

Original price tags on the marked-down garments had ranged from $27.50 to $50.

Soviet Aims Praised as 'Peace' Conference Ends 3-Day Session

By JOHN H. WINANT.

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—With a promise to continue its work and with a salvo of praise for Soviet "peace" aims, the controversial "world peace" conference has ended.

The three-day meeting of the Cultural and Scientific Conference for World Peace closed last night. Some 18,700 persons jammed Madison Square Garden to cheer its last session while pickets jeered outside.

Speakers at the session, called a "Unite for World Peace" rally, struck a general note of praise for Soviet "peace" aspirations, asserting that leaders of the U.S.S.R. are anti-war and anxious for global peace.

Outside, a police-estimated crowd of 2000 pickets milled about as the rally opened. They carried placards assailing the conference and chanted slogans charging it was Communist-dominated.

Those who attended the session paid from 60 cents to $3.60 for admission.

Committee Set Up.

Delegates meeting yesterday afternoon in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel approved resolutions that call for strengthening the United Nations, co-operating with peace movements throughout the world and calling to the attention of United States government the decisions of the conferees.

A special action committee was set up to consider specific recommendations to carry out the resolutions. Dr. Allen M. Butler of the Harvard Medical School, a member of this group, said it would meet today.

A. A. Fadeyev, Soviet author and chief Russian delegate, won loud applause from the audience in Madison Square Garden last night with an assertion that "our country, the Soviet Union, stands for peace and friendship among peoples, because we are first and foremost a state of plain people."

Other speakers echoed his theme.

Domingo Villamil, a Cuban who said he is a Roman Catholic Communist, denounced those who "are encircling the Soviet Union and hatching a third World War."

Jiri Hronek, head of Czechoslovakia's mass communications division, said Czechs "love the Soviet Union, which they regard as a guarantor of peace, progress and national independence."

During the Madison Square Garden rally, names of opponents of the conference were booed and hissed repeatedly, as was the name of Cardinal Josef Mindszenty, primate of Hungary who was convicted of treason by the Communist-dominated Hungarian Government.

In passing its resolutions yesterday, the conference voted to have conference sponsors band themselves together as the Cultural and Scientific Committee of the National Council of the Arts, Sciences and Professions.

Although the N.C.A.S.P. was the sponsoring organization for the meeting, a number of persons of the more than 500 individual sponsors are not members of that group.

One Heated Debate.

One resolution, debated heatedly and then sent to the permanent committee, called on the conference to send representatives to another world peace meeting to be held in Paris next month.

The State Department has said the Paris session will be under the same leadership as the Polish cultural conference in Wroclaw last August.

The session here also adopted a resolution on "cultural freedom" which called on "artists, scientists and professionals" to guard their freedom of expression.

Speech by Shostakovich.

Russian Composer Dmitri Shostakovich spoke at a fine arts panel discussion and asserted "new aspirants to world domination" are feverishly arming themselves for mass destruction.

"With special ardor they are perfecting new kinds of weapons," he said.

"They build military bases thousands of miles from their frontiers, they trample upon international obligations and treaties designed to bring peace.

"They reject proposals for concluding pacts of peace and they systematically and with premeditation wage campaigns of lies and slander in order to prepare public opinion for the transmission of the so-called cold war to outright aggression."

The diminutive composer, who later played the piano for six minutes during the Madison Square Garden rally, did not identify "new aspirants to world domination."

Shostakovich played the second movement of his own Fifth Symphony at the Garden rally.

He received a deafening ovation at the end of his playing. A critic said his playings, however, was only routine.

An official of the conference announced last night that 2823 persons registered for its three-day session. American delegates, he said, represented 22 states and 83 universities, colleges and technical institutions.

Government Coalition Seats 1082 Councilors, General's Party 389 and Communists 37.

PARIS, March 28 (AP)—Interior Minister Jules Moch, a Socialist, said today France has taken a "swing to the right" in the cantonal (county) elections, in which the Communists took a licking.

The cantonal elections ended yesterday. Final results showed that 133 Communist incumbents were defeated and only 34 Communist incumbents were returned to office. The parties making up the middle-of-the-road coalition government led both Communists and the De Gaullists of the extreme right, although the De Gaullists won more seats than any single party.

In Socialist ranks, 150 incumbents were defeated and only 279 of 429 former office holders were returned to their jobs. Socialists have been left of center, but have not been traveling with the Communists.

Popular vote figures were not released for the present. Last week, in the first round of cantonal elections, Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Rally of the French People (RPF) carried about 28 per cent of the popular vote, more than any other single party, and it appeared the De Gaullists continued that trend yesterday.

The Ministry of Information announced that the parties making up the present government won 1082 seats to 389 for the De Gaullists and 37 for the Communists. Ninety-nine seats went to independents. The De Gaullists, however, claimed to have elected 536 councilors instead of the 389 officially reported for them.

The four major groups making up the government bloc are the Socialists, the Popular Republicans (MRP), the Radical Socialists (moderates) and a small rightist group. Radical Socialist Henri Queuille is premier.

The election has no effect on parliament or the cabinet, but was important chiefly as an indication of popular feeling. However, there was no voting in Paris, where the Communist vote is generally large.

Between the first and second rounds of the election, many candidates withdrew. In numerous districts the issue simply became one of Communism and anti-Communism. In the first round an absolute majority of votes was needed to elect. On the second round a simple plurality of votes won. In the week between candidates and parties made deals, principally at the expense of the Communists. Voters in many districts therefore could not vote for the party they favored but only for the party they disliked least.

MO.PAC. EMPOWERED TO LEASE FACILITIES IN HOUSTON, TEX.

Plans for enlarging and modernizing freight terminal facilities at Houston, Tex., were revealed today when United States District Judge George H. Moore issued an order authorizing Missouri Pacific Lines to lease certain of its facilities in Houston to the Houston Belt and Terminal Railroad.

The order was requested by Paul J. Neff, chief operating officer of the railroad for the trustee, Guy A. Thompson. Neff testified the annual saving to Missouri Pacific made possible by the consolidation, enlargement and modernization of the H. B. & T. facilities would be an estimated $300,000.

Joint application to the Interstate Commerce Commission seeking approval of the terminal unification plan will be filed immediately by the four interested railroads—Missouri Pacific, Santa Fe, Rock Island and Burlington.

7 AIRMEN RESCUED FROM ISLAND NORTH OF MAGNETIC POLE

U.S. Ski Plane Picks Up Crew of Cargo Craft Which Crash-Landed.

EDMONTON, Alberta, March 28 (AP)—A ski-equipped United States Air Force Dakota late yesterday rescued seven American airmen from the barren waste of Ellesmere island inside the Arctic Circle.

The seven had crash-landed Thursday in a C-82 cargo plane while on a 1100-mile flight from Frobisher Bay on Baffin island to Resolute Bay on Cornwallis island. Their plane was north of the magnetic pole and 700 miles off course when it ran low on fuel.

At the Greenville (S.C.) airbase, six of the seven airmen were identified as First Lt. Harold B. Murray, First Lt. Geriand D. McCrea, First Lt. Walter L. Kemp, Sgt. Edward L. Blatz, Sgt. Alvin H. Griffith and Staff Sgt. Samuel C. Lilly. The men were all assigned to the Seventy-fifth Troop Carrier Squadron. Home-town addresses were not available. Base officials said they did not know who the seventh person aboard the plane was.

Details of the rescue were lacking. Air Commodore Martin Costello, in charge of rescue operations for the Royal Canadian Air Force, sent a two-word message: "Evacuation successful." Earlier reports from the downed plane said the men were unhurt and well.

An armada of United States and Canadian planes joined in a search after the cargo plane reported by radio it was forced to land because of diminished fuel supply. The missing plane was first located Saturday.

The Dakota which took the marooned men out was flown to the area from Thule, Greenland. The rescued men were to be taken to Thule and thence to Goose Bay, Labrador.

U.S. INDICTS EX-EMBASSY AID IN BERLIN ON TREASON CHARGE

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—A federal grand jury today indicted Herbert John Burgman, former employe of the United States Embassy in Berlin, on treason charges. He is accused in 69 counts of broadcasting Nazi radio propaganda during the war.

Burgman, 52 years old, and a native of Hokah, Minn., was employed for 20 years as a clerk and statistician in the Berlin Embassy prior to the outbreak of World War II.

The indictment charges that after Pearl Harbor he refused to return to the United States with other American diplomatic personnel.

He is the twenty-fifth American to be indicted for treason in World War II. His wife and son live in Germany.

GEORGE PREDICTS MUDDLE ON TAXES IF ISSUE IS RAISED AT THIS SESSION

Says Cut in Excise Levies Is Likely, Thus Putting New Load on Incomes — Wants Chop in Spending Instead.

Today in Congress

WASHINGTON, March 28 (UP) —A Democratic tax spokesman said today that any attempt to boost income taxes this year would bring a clamor for reducing excise levies.

Chairman George (Dem.), Georgia, of the Senate Finance Committee said this is one reason why Congress should put off action on President Truman's request for a four-billion-dollar increase in corporate and personal income taxes.

If Congress should take up a general tax bill at this session, he said, the members could not resist pressure to cut excise taxes on such items as furs, cosmetics and railroad tickets. That would mean, said George, that the income tax boost would have to be about five billions, instead of the four billions urged by Truman, to make up for the excise cut.

George suggested an over-all 5 per cent reduction in administration appropriation requests as the best way to avoid a deficit without a tax increase.

House Republicans already have lined up behind a bill by Minority Leader Martin to whittle excise taxes down from their wartime levels. A similar measure has been introduced in the Senate by Senator Wiley (Rep.), Wisconsin.

Truman Urges Rent Action.

Congressional leaders reported after their weekly conference at the White House today that President Truman said he hoped for quick action on rent control. In response to a question, Senator Lucas (Dem.), Illinois, said Truman did not indicate whether or not he is disappointed in the form of the legislation as it is shaping up. Meanwhile the House-Senate conferees approved a compromise rent bill providing a "fair net operating income" for landlords.

Truman made no mention of his nomination of Mon C. Wallgren to be chairman of the National Security Resources Board. There had been speculation that he might try to get the nomination out of the Senate Armed Services Committee which has tabled it.

Lucas forecast that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will hold about a month of hearings on the Atlantic pact. He said the Senate will not vote on the treaty until after "must" domestic legislation is out of the way. That suggested that a vote may be many weeks off.

After the White House conference House Majority Leader McCormack said he plans to have the House recess from April 14 through April 25. Lucas of Illinois said the Senate "can't afford" to take an Easter recess.

New Pension Dispute.

Representative Rankin (Dem.), Mississippi, asked the House Veterans' Committee to begin work tomorrow on a new pension bill to replace his measure sent back to committee by a 208-to-207 vote last week. The new bill would be limited to World War I veterans of limited income with monthly pensions of $72 for those 65 and over.

Representative Carroll (Dem.), Colorado, urged Congress to ditch the Rankin bill and consider a plan to help aged and needy veterans by liberalizing the social security system. He said his plan would be a lot cheaper than the Rankin proposal and would give World War I and II veterans far more protection.

Senator Bridges (Rep.), New Hampshire, charged that Marshall plan officials have failed to let Europeans know how much this country is doing for them. He proposed that the European recovery program be extended for only three months to allow time for a thorough study of its operations. The Administration is pressing for favorable action on a bill authorizing $5,580,000,000 to continue the Marshall plan for the next 15 months.

The House Civil Service Committee was told today that the proposed postal rate adjustments would increase the Reader's Digest's second class postal costs by 600 per cent. Business Manager A. L. Cole said he was "appalled" at the increases proposed by Postmaster General Donaldson.

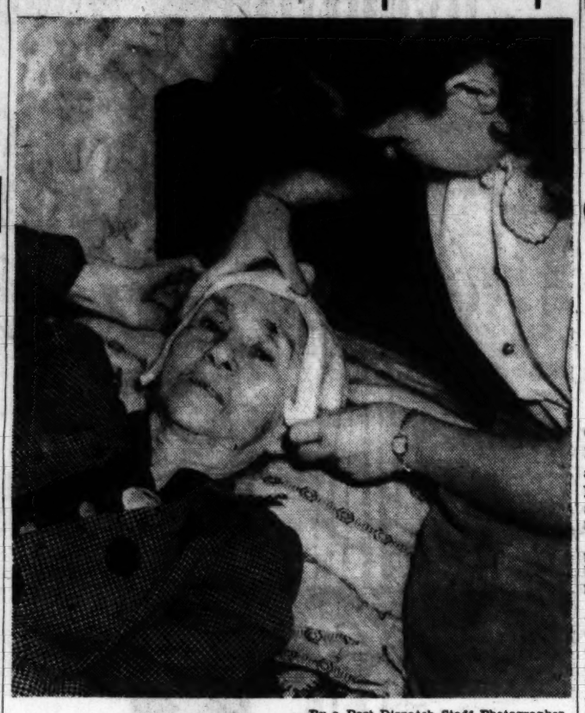

If the proposal is put into effect, he said, it would increase the present 1½ cent a pound rate to 6.3 cents in the first year and 9.4 cents a pound in the second year.

The Digest's second class postage bill last year was $377,000 and its first and third class postage bill was $1,250,000. He limited his testimony before the committee to second class mail.

The House Rules Committee approved a bill to repeal federal taxes on oleomargarine. It agreed to three hours of general debate and opportunity for amendments. The bill probably will reach the floor next week. The measure removes federal taxes on all margarine but prohibits shipment of yellow margarine in interstate commerce. Some states already have laws barring the sale of yellow margarine. Under the bill, it could be sold in other states only if a margarine plant for coloring facilities were located there.

COCKFIGHT HELD AT OLD ROADHOUSE IN MADISON COUNTY

Several Hundred Attend Illegal Event at Guarded Building.

Several hundred cockfighting enthusiasts gathered yesterday at an abandoned roadhouse about three miles south of Chain of Rocks bridge, in Madison county, to enjoy the illegal sport.

The fights were staged by an organization which operates through southern Illinois and rural Missouri, the Post-Dispatch learned. No regular schedules are maintained but announcements of coming cockfight attractions are made at each event.

The Madison county pit is located in a ramshackle building just off United States Highway 66 on Chouteau Slough road. The building's windows have been boarded up and the flooring removed from what was once a dance floor to form an octagonal dirt pit for the fighting cocks.

Entrance to the arena is through the rear door of an adjoining tavern and is guarded by two men who admit only persons having membership cards. A bookmaker is seated at one side of the pit and there is a great deal of betting among spectators.

Illinois law makes spectators, operators and participants of cockfighting subject to fines ranging from $3 to $200. State's Attorney Austin Lewis of Madison county said he had asked Sheriff Dallas Harrell to investigate reports of the illegal activity. Sheriff Harrell, asked about the cockfighting investigation, had "no comment."

'CALLING CARD' LEFT AT THEFT SCENE LEADS TO ARREST

James R. Lonsberry, former convict, was held for investigation at St. Louis county jail today, after leaving police his "calling card" when he broke into a Ferguson cocktail lounge early Saturday and stole $650.

Lonsberry dropped his checkbook with his name on it outside the lounge, 8 Blackburn avenue. Police found it and arrested him shortly after. He admitted the theft and took police to his home at 15 North Duchesne avenue, Florissant, where they recovered the money, hidden behind a picture and a radio.

He implicated a companion, who has denied taking part in the burglary. Lonsberry was arrested and charged with theft of an automobile last December.

LYON SCHOOL BROKEN INTO, RANSACKED OVER WEEKEND

The Lyon School, 7417 Vermont avenue, was entered and ransacked by vandals over the weekend, Frank Cervenka, school custodian, told police yesterday. Walls and ceiling of a second floor corridor were sprayed with a fire extinguisher.

A desk in the principal's office was ransacked, and the glass in the door of the office was broken. Contents of desks in other rooms were thrown about so much that the extent of possible thefts was not immediately available.

KILLED IN FALL FROM WINDOW

Anton Filliez, 5753 Kennerly avenue, was pronounced dead on arrival at Jewish Hospital early today after he apparently fell from a first floor window of his home to the concrete pavement of a basement areaway 12 feet below.

Filliez, a gardener, was 74 years old. His wife, Mrs. Amelia Filliez, told police who found the body that her husband had been under the care of a physician for a heart ailment and that he apparently lost his balance when opening the window to get some air.

ROBBED OF $130 AND JEWELRY

August Reineri, 1250 Pennsylvania avenue, University City, reported to police today that burglars entered his home last night and took $130 in cash and jewelry valued at $920. Entry was gained by forcing a rear door.

$886 in Office Articles Stolen.

Office and other equipment valued at $886 was stolen over the weekend from a hauling firm office at 2727 Union boulevard, the owner, Richard Merrell, notified police yesterday. Items taken included an adding machine, electric typewriter, check-writing machine, revolver and tires.

MAN HELD IN DEATH OF BRIDE REPORTED TO HAVE WIFE HERE

Children of Dead Woman Sue for Title to Farm in St. Francois County.

William C. Mahurin, ex-convict formerly of St. Louis, who is held at Farmington, Mo., in the death of his "lonely hearts' club" bride, still is married to a St. Louis woman, it was stated in a civil suit filed in St. Francois County Circuit Court last Saturday. The disclosure brings to six the number of Mahurin's marriages.

The suit was filed by Melvin L. Hertzman, attorney for two children by former marriages of Mrs. Lottie Chapman Fisk Mahurin, who purportedly died from the effects of burns suffered March 16 at her farm home near Farmington. The petition, asking that title to the St. Francois county farm be given to the children, was accompanied by a photostatic copy recording the marriage of Mahurin and the former Miss Adele Robertson, a St. Louis milliner, Sept. 21, 1946, in St. Louis.

Hertzman stated that the former Miss Robertson told him she lived with Mahurin at 3633 Cote Brilliante avenue until last October, when she left him. She said she did not obtain a divorce, and the attorney said there is no record of a divorce in the city or St. Louis county.

Mahurin married the former Mrs. Fisk, a divorcee, last December. He reported she was burned fatally in the explosion of a kerosene stove the day after they moved into their farm home, but authorities reported there was no evidence of explosion or fire in the farmhouse. Mahurin is held on a first degree murder warrant and on a perjury charge. The matter will be presented to a special grand jury this week.

ONE OF THREE IN COUNTY JAIL BREAK IN SEPTEMBER CAUGHT

Samuel S. Nastari, one of three prisoners who escaped from St. Louis County Jail last Sept. 6, has been arrested in Denver, the Federal Bureau of Investigation reported there today.

COMPANY CLOSES CENTRALIA MINE IN WHICH 111 DIED

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CENTRALIA, Ill., March 28 — Closing of the coal mine in which 111 men were killed two years ago was announced today by a Peabody Coal Co. official. The action came without advance notice.

Lloyd Anderson, southern Illinois division supervisor for Peabody, said: "We are closing the mine as of today."

David H. Devonald, operating vice president of the company at Chicago, told the Post-Dispatch the mine had served its purpose during the period of coal scarcity but was uneconomical to operate now that coal is plentiful again. Peabody has nine mines in Illinois.

"The mine is absolutely safe," he said, in answer to questions. "It had a very good federal report and there has been no inspection trouble. It is simply a matter of economy."

Men Not Notified.

The miners drew their last pay March 12, before the United Mine Workers memorial holiday. William Rowekamp, recording secretary of UMW Local 51, said the men had received no notice that it was their last pay. Weekly pay runs to $60 to $75 each.

"Where are we going to get a job?" Rowekamp asked. "There isn't any in Centralia, that's sure. When a man works in a coal mine all his life, that's all he can do usually."

Devonald said he did not know whether the mine would be reopened later or whether the miners would be absorbed by other mines.

Rowekamp, who has worked in the mine for 36 years, said employes were mystified by the abrupt closing and had received no explanation from the company. Production has been running between 2200 and 2400 tons a day, and there has been no complaint about output and no controversy with the union, he asserted.

"All we know is the whistle blew just once instead of three times," Rowekamp continued. "That means no work."

Company Recruited Miners.

To rebuild the working force after the explosion, Peabody had recruited miners from other sections, many of whom had bought homes in Centralia in order to take jobs in Mine No. 21, as the rechristened mine was called.

The Peabody Coal Co. announced on May 16, 1947, it had bought the mine from the Centralia Coal Co., which owned the colliery at the time of the disaster. It had been called the No. 5 mine.

The closure announcement came just three days after the second anniversary of the explosion which killed 111 miners.

Mayors of Centralia and adjacent Wamac, where the mine is situated, proclaimed yesterday as a memorial day. Community services were held Sunday afternoon in the high school.

Those attending the services stood and bowed their heads in silent prayer at 3:26 o'clock, which was the time the 1947 explosion occurred.

Anderson said there were "about 300" men on the payroll. They are members of the United Mine Workers of America (independent).

WASHINGTON, March 28 (UP) —The blossoms on Washington's famous cherry trees were bursting into bloom today, five days ahead of a festival scheduled for the weekend.

463,000 MINERS ENDING 2-WEEK WORK STOPPAGE

All UMW Members Expected to Be on Job by Nightfall — Pay Loss Put at $55,000,000.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 28 (AP)—The 463,000 members of the United Mine Workers east of the Mississippi began returning to the pits today. They acted on orders of John L. Lewis, UMW president, who called a two-week work stoppage March 14.

By tonight all 463,000 miners were expected to be on the job.

A spokesman for the Western Pennsylvania Coal Operators' Association estimated the miners lost $55,000,000 in wages during their two weeks of idleness. (A United Press story said the average miner lost about $150 in wages.)

Lewis called the stoppage as a protest against Dr. James Boyd's appointment as director of the Federal Bureau of Mines. He also termed it a memorial to miners killed and injured last year. However while the work stoppage was on, the Senate ignored Lewis and confirmed Boyd by a 50-to-11 vote.

A state-by-state survey indicated coal production would be back to normal within a few days. In Illinois 20,000 UMW miners were expected to be in the pits on schedule. In southern Illinois, normal crews were on the job except at one mine at Centralia.

When Lewis called the stoppage he permitted UMW members west of the Mississippi to stay at work. He said coal was needed there because of severe climatic conditions.

In Illinois, moreover, about 17,000 members of the Progressive Miners of America—the UMW's rival—stayed in the pits. A spokesman for the Progressive miners was highly critical of Lewis's action. The stoppage, he said, wouldn't accomplish anything but the loss of two weeks' pay for the UMW members.

The national economy didn't suffer greatly during the stoppage. Some 70,000 railroad workers were laid off but a high railroad union officer said not all of the layoffs were the result of the walkout. A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, declared in a Pittsburgh speech that many of the layoffs were "seasonable." He predicted conditions would right themselves.

The current soft-coal contract expires June 30, while the miners are slated to be idle during the annual 10-day paid vacation, starting June 25.

As the soft-coal miners went back to the pits they were faced with a four-day week. April 1 is a contract holiday for them—the date they observe John Mitchell day, honoring a UMW leader of many years ago.

Alfred Kinealy Drowns When Boat Upsets Near Grafton; Two Rescued

WILLIAM KELLY

ALFRED KINEALY

The body of Alfred Kinealy, St. Louis contractor, was discovered today by relatives and friends who dragged the Illinois river near Grafton where he drowned yesterday when a high wind capsized a small boat in which he and three others had been fishing.

Kinealy, who was 33 years old and lived at 5565 Maffitt avenue, drowned as he attempted to swim to shore after the boat overturned in midstream. The river at that point is a half to three quarters of a mile wide.

Two men in the boat with Kinealy, Edward K. Gates, 2926A Belt avenue, and Archie Brice, 5641 Maffitt, were rescued by William Kelly, 4490A Laclede avenue, who raced to the scene in a boat with an outboard motor on it.

Kelly, who is a division manager at the Famous-Barr Co. store in Clayton, told the Post-Dispatch that he was able to pull Brice aboard his boat in the high waves and strong wind, but that he and Brice were unable to drag Gates into the boat.

"Gates was in shock and almost unconscious," Kelly said. "We held on to his arms and steered for shore with him alongside the boat."

Kinealy, Gates and Brice, with Kinealy's brother, Harry, of 2922 Belt avenue, left St. Louis at 5 p.m. Saturday on the fishing trip. They had parked their automobile at Watson's Landing and had fished all night in an aluminum boat with an outboard motor on it, Harry Kinealy said.

About 7 a.m. yesterday they had decided to go home, because the water had been very rough, he added. Harry Kinealy was left by the others on the shore opposite Watson's Landing, because they did not want to overload the boat. They had decided to make two crossings, coming back for Harry Kinealy.

"They got about half way across," Harry told relatives, "when the boat bounced over a small wave. Then a big one hit it and turned it over. Alfred jumped out as it was going over and started to swim toward the other shore. He got along a little way when he called for help."

Kelly said he saw no one go under as he was racing toward the overturned boat.

STATE AUTO TAG DISTRIBUTION TO BE ENDED SOON

Every St. Louisan who applied for a 1949 state automobile license tag should have the plate by the middle of April, Del L. Bannister, in charge of the state license bureau here, announced today.

Mailing of the 30,000 plates in the September group, under the new permanent registration system, will be completed by tomorrow, Bannister said. All the 30,000 plates in the October group will be out by the first of next week and mailing of the last group—15,000 November plates—will be started by that time, he declared.

Bannister said no deadline for arrest of motorists without licenses will be fixed until all plates are mailed.

Under the new system, purchase of state automobile licenses is staggered, with the plates of about 75,000 Missouri residents expiring each month.

JOHN M. COWAN FOUND SHOT TO DEATH, PISTOL NEAR BODY

John Mortland Cowan, president of the Selden-Breck Construction Co. and a salesman for the Schreiber Real Estate Co., was found dead in bed with a bullet wound in his head in his apartment at 5354 Delmar boulevard today. A revolver was beside the body. He was 74 years old.

A brother, James Cowan, 5808 Pershing avenue, discovered the body. James Cowan told police he had been attempting to reach his brother by telephone since last Saturday without success. This morning James brought Dr. Carl G. Harford, physician and a relative, to John's apartment. They entered with a passkey obtained from the building manager.

Police found a note addressed "To those I leave behind." It said, in part, "I cannot go further. I am nervous and depressed." It was signed J. M. Cowan and dated March 26, 1949. A resident in the building told police she had heard a noise "that sounded like a shot" Saturday afternoon.

STATE MEDICAL GROUP VOTES TO ADMIT NEGROES

Drops Word 'White' From Qualifications After 99 Years — Year Must Elapse Before Action.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 28 (UP)—For the first time in 99 years, the Missouri Medical Association today opened its membership to Negro physicians.

Members of the association's House of Delegates in their annual meeting now in progress here voted to delete the word "white" from the group's constitution and to admit all physicians from "component county medical societies" who have been certified by association headquarters.

The resolution to admit Negroes passed by a vote of 60 to 16. It was introduced by Dr. Park White of St. Louis.

T. R. O'Brien of St. Louis, executive secretary of the association, estimated there are 250 Negro physicians in Missouri at present, "some of whom will not be eligible because they are not recognized by the American Medical Association."

O'Brien said there are approximately 150 Negro doctors in St. Louis, chiefly because of the Homer Phillips Negro Hospital. He said there are 40 to 50 Negro physicians in Kansas City.

The proposed change was introduced at the ninetieth annual convention last year at St. Louis. However, the association's constitution provides that any constitutional change must stay on the table for a year before action can be taken.

The meeting entered its second day today. O'Brien said 1000 general members of the association were expected to attend later sessions.

The association's membership as it began its ninety-first annual convention — meetings were not held for eight years of its 99 years—totaled 3478.

MAN WAITING FOR BUS BITTEN BY A WOLF-LIKE ANIMAL

Walter Edward, 2703 Sappington Barracks road, Lemay, was treated for a bite on the left leg at City Hospital yesterday after he told attendants he had been attacked and bitten by an animal which he described as a wolf.

He said the incident occurred when he was waiting for a bus at Gravois avenue and Tesson Ferry road. After inflicting a scratch through Edward's trousers, the animal ran off into a cemetery, Edward said.

Survey Shows Small Percentage In 19 Marshall Nations Backs Reds

Kremlin Could Probably Count on 4,000,000 in Total Population of 285,185,000.

By ROBERT C. WILSON

PARIS, March 28 (AP)—A survey showed today that Moscow probably can count on unquestioning obedience from about 4,000,000 dyed-in-the-wool Communists in the 19 Marshall plan nations and areas of western Europe.

This appraisal indicated that present anti-west threats by the Communists are far out of proportion to their ability to back them up—that their bark is worse than their bite. Marshall plan countries have a total population of 285,185,000.

Still, in time of war, the Communists, despite their numerical weakness, would be able to hamper western armies and aid the Russians by blowing up bridges and power stations and carrying out similar acts of sabotage.

But they probably would have little opportunity to carry out activities of that type. In the event of an east-west conflict, the chances are the governments of western Europe would outlaw the Communist party and jail Communist leaders in a hurry.

Correspondents Made Survey.

The survey of Communist strength was made by Associated Press correspondents. It was based on the Communists' own claims and on government estimates.

A differentation is made between the party's voting strength in elections and the number of Communists who could be expected blindly to follow orders from the Kremlin in peace, and from an occupying Soviet army in time of war.

Even the Communists do not claim that the 15,387,323 votes the party received in the last significant elections held in the 19 nations and areas represent their strength. Many leftists and workers who are not members of the party string along at the ballot box with the Communists in the hope of swelling the size of their pay envelopes.

Even assuming that the voting strength was an index of the party's size, it still would mean that the Communists have the support of only 6 per cent of the people living in the Marshall plan countries. Thus, the survey suggests there may be more holler than fight in the recent threats of western European Communist leaders to thwart the North Atlantic treaty and to side with Russia in event of war.

The Communists virtually are powerless in western Europe's legislative halls, the survey showed. They may create rowdy disturbances and make fiery speeches from the floor, but the party holds only 524 of the 5189 seats in the combined Parliaments of the 19 nations and regions.

Reds Are Strong in Italy.

The survey showed the Communists are strongest in Italy, France, and Germany.

In Italy, the Communists claim to have slightly more than 2,000,000 members. Militant strength of the party is represented mainly by the Communist partisans, estimated reliably to number 100,000 or more. The party polled 6,989,584 votes last year and has 141 of the 574 seats in the Chamber of Deputies and 75 of 334 seats in the Senate.

France's Communist party has 800,000 members, the Interior Ministry says. Probably 100,000 of these are die-hards. In the 1946 election, the party received 5,351,926 votes of a total of 19,216,375. It holds 182 of the 611 seats in the lower house of Parliament and 20 of 320 in the upper house.

Communists in the three western zones of Germany have polled 1,304,941 votes recently. They have two of the 65 seats in the parliamentary council at Bonn. Military government observers doubt the militant Communist strength will reach 1,000,000. Many votes polled by the Communists are regarded merely as protests against the occupation.

In Britain, the Communists are a feeble minority. They got 102,780 votes in 1945 and claim to have 43,000 members. They have two of the 640 seats in Parliament. Communists are practically nonexistent in Eire.

Only in Greece are Communists engaged in actual warfare against a central government. There it is said Russia could count on 15,000 armed Communist guerrillas and 50,000 Red sympathizers, virtually all in northern Greece, in case of international war. The Greek Government's recent military operations have substantially weakened the party. Three months ago there were an estimated 25,000 armed Communists in the country.

In Portugal and Turkey there is no legitimate, recognized Communist party. In the other Marshall plan countries the Communists have the status of a small minority.

KRUG SAYS COMMUNISM 'HAS FALLEN COMPLETELY FLAT' IN U.S. POSSESSIONS

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)

SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR JULIUS KRUG said yesterday that Communism "has fallen completely flat" in American overseas possessions. "Even in Puerto Rico, with its very low income standard and widespread poverty, this is the case," he said.

Krug appeared on a round-table radio broadcast with Joseph C. Satterthwaite, director of the State Department's Office of Near Eastern and African Affairs, and Francis B. Sayre, American representative on the United Nations Trusteeship Council.

Krug said there is "no evidence" of an active Communist movement in Alaska or the Virgin Islands. "There has been a little talk of a Communist group in Hawaii," he added, "but no indication whatever of dangerous infiltration."

Sayre said that in contract to this situation in American possessions, the Communists are sparing no effort to wreck the constituted authority in Indonesia, Burma and Indochina.

CHEMISTS TELL HOW TO KEEP ICE CREAM INFLATED WITH AIR

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28 (AP)—Three chemists today tipped off manufacturers on how to keep ice cream well inflated with air. Commercial ice cream usually contains about 50 per cent air. It accumulates the air by being stirred during the freezing. As long as it remains solid the air stays. If it somtens even slightly some of the air escapes and the volume shrinks. This makes soda fountain operators feel bad.

In a report to the American Chemical Society, Alfred Lachmann, E. L. Jack and D. H. Volman of the University of California College of Agriculture told how this could be prevented.

The trick is to prevent the ice cream from rising to certain critical temperatures, they said. If the temperature got as high as 14 degrees above zero a gallon of ice cream could shrink by as much as two sundaes and a cone, the chemist asserted.

Demand For Secretaries In St. Louis Is Large

MISS CLARA PALUCH

Demand for well-trained stenographers and secretaries in St. Louis is considerably greater than in most cities, according to W. F. Elliott, president of the Elliott Chain of Business Colleges.

Mr. Elliott discussed a survey of cities recently made by his organization which showed an increased demand for trained employes, especially stenographers and seretaries. The demand in St. Louis and Houston is believed by Elliott to be greater than in other cities studied in the survey.

Mr. Elliott, who was in St. Louis to check the progress of students in the Elliott Business College here, said that the Elliott Free Placement Bureau, which is sending approximately 150 persons to good-paying positions every month, could place many more on jobs if the graduates were available.

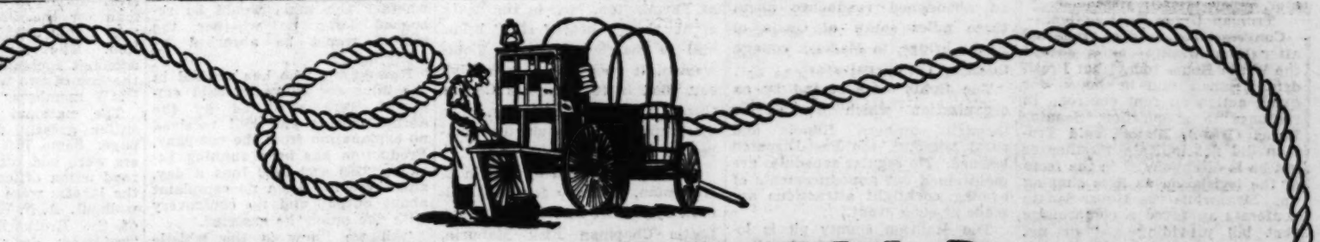

The students of the Elliott Business College in St. Louis are making excellent progress although they have been studying only six weeks. Many are taking shorthand dictation at 100 words per minute. They are expected to complete their course in the average 8 to 12 weeks required by the Elliott system.

By studying the Elliott way students are ready for good jobs six months sooner than if they had taken an ordinary 8 to 10 month business school course. A good example of this success in learning is Miss Clara Paluch who was recently graduated from the Elliott Business College in Houston and went to work on a good-paying secretarial position obtained for her by the Elliott Free Placement Bureau. She praised the thoroughness and speed of the Elliott way.

For complete first-hand information on how you can be on a good-paying position in 8 to 12 weeks, call MA. 6102, or stop in to see W. F. Elliott personally. If you live out of the city, drop a penny postal card requesting information to Elliott Business College, 505 North 7th, St. Louis, Missouri.

U.N. Deputy Here

FREDERICK H. OSBORN

OPPOSES WORLD ARMY WITH AN ARMS MONOPOLY

U.N. Atomic Energy Agent Fears Setting Up of Convenient Saddle for Dictators.

Establishment of a world army to safeguard the peace, and giving it a monopoly of effective weapons, was opposed here today by Frederick H. Osborn, deputy United States representative to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission. Such an Army, he said, might result in the "emergence of an ant-like state."

He spoke in Graham Memorial Chapel at Washington University at a meeting sponsored by the Assemblies Committee of the university and the St. Louis Citizens Committee for Atomic Energy Information.

A world army would be a convenient saddle for a future dictator who wanted to rule the world, Osborn said in indorsing the absence of an enforcement army in the United States' plan for atomic energy control.

"The world is not ready to be run by a centrally directed force of arms," he asserted.

Many plans for partial or complete world government advanced by persons who consider the present United Nations organization impotent to preserve peace include proposals for a world army with a monopoly of effective weapons.

Danger of Control Cited.

"If any group of men were ever once put in possession of a monopoly of bombs—whether high explosive or atomic—fighting airplanes, guided missiles and fighting ships, they and their successors could control the world with little effort and no danger from any oppressed peoples, so long as this group of men were tough enough in their methods," Osborn said.

"Do we think that the world today does not produce men tough enough to use highly centralized power of this sort, and in their own interest? Have we so soon forgotten the lesson of Hitler? Or do we keep our eyes closed to what is actually going on today?

"With three-quarters of the world wholly unable to take part in governing themselves, we must expect that there will be dictatorships for a long time to come.

"If there were established a centralized armed force, the dictators of the three-quarters of the peoples of the world would be dull indeed if they were unable to make use of their predominance in numbers to seize control of anything which would give them a monopoly in modern weapons.

Fears "Ant-Like" State.

"Once such a group got control, I can see nothing but a long period of darkness ahead and, finally, the emergence of an ant-like state."

He outlined the United States plan for establishment of an internal agency which would own and operate all atomic energy plants and their raw materials mines. The plan has been approved by the United Nations General Assembly, but has met intransigent opposition from Russia and its satellites.

Because of the dangers of a world armed force to police the control plan, he said, it is better to handle violations by other means.

Osborn said Russia, by its "intransigence, disregard of facts and aggressive tactics" is uniting against it all the rest of the world. Because of the iron curtain against free flow of information, however, Russia's leaders "are able to retain great armaments, falsify their position and threaten the peace in a world in which the other nations have reduced their arms to the danger point in the hope that peace was already here," he continued.

"Even were the Soviet Union to cease its methods of deceit and its aims of Communist expansion," he said, "the world would still be a dangerous place. For the Soviet dictatorship is only the present expression of problems which go much deepr.

Basic Enemies of Mankind.

"The basic enemies of mankind are poverty and ignorance and an overcrowded world. We may expect to have dictatorships over large areas for a long time to come until these basic enemies are eradicated."

Asserting that many people in the world will be controlled for many years, "by those who choose to seize power over them and whose motives will not always be good," Osborn told his audience world co-operation and "interdependence and independence" eventually will help inhabitants of the various parts of the world solve their own problems.

"If we or any other group of peoples attempt to hasten the slow and painful process of growth by coercion and the use of force," he said, "then I would fear for a survival of that great tradition of individual responsibility which is our heritage. This would be the case even if the central force were directed by won. Binaggio then pressed for appointment if Edlund as treasurer, and his wishes were followed.

TWO OF 'BIG FIVE' ARE QUESTIONED IN RIMANN KILLING

Gizzo told the detectives that he had once been in the liquor business on his own. He added that he had sold Rimann whisky in recent months. The whisky was for taverns in which Rimann had a financial interest.

Gargotta asserted he did not know Rimann and had no dealings with him of any kind. Gargotta, who could not supply the detectives with an occupation for himself, maintained that he had no plans for entering the liquor field and had not discussed getting the Schenley distributorship with anyone.

Member of "Big Five."

Gizzo, Gargotta, Tano Lacoco, James Balestrere and the late Johnny Lazia were called the "big five" in the days of wide-open Kansas City. Lazia was machine-gunned to death in 1938. Balestrere was always in the background as a shadowy figure, while Gizzo, Gargotta and Lacoco were the "enforcerers" of the gang, with Lazia the boss.

John S. Cannon, attorney for Rimann, informed police Binaggio had told Rimann not to go after the Schenley distributorship as he wanted it for a friend, John Biondo of the Superior Wine & Liquor Co., which handled several Schenley lines, but not the most lucrative ones.

Cannon told police officers and reporters that, in his opinion, Rimann's death was the outgrowth of the dispute over the Schenley distributorship.

Rimann organized the Western Wholesale Liquor Co. to handle Schenley products. When he learned the company could not qualify for a state liquor license if he was an active member, Missouri laws prohibiting a person engaged in the wholesale liquor business from having interests in retail outlets, Rimann withdrew from the firm. He remained in the background, however, as landlord of the company's premises.

Hendren Helps on License.

The wholesale firm won a state liquor license with the help of John H. Hendren, Jefferson City lawyer and chief adviser of Gov. Smith, as well as chairman of the Democratic State Committee. Hendren appeared as an attorney in the proceedings connected with issuance of the license.

A further inquiry into the Western Wholesale Liquor Co. setup is being made by Edmund Burke, state liquor control supervisor, who said that, if he found any evidence that Rimann had a financial interest in the company, or expected to gain an interest later, the firm would be cited to show cause why its license should not be revoked.

It was learned today that Rimann had underwritten a large part of the expenses when Jackson County Sheriff J. A. Purdome's "mounted posse" went to Washington to ride fancy saddle horses in the parade at President Truman's inauguration. Rimann, one of the 24 riders, advanced about $4000 to cover the cost of transporting the horses, the sheriff reported, adding that some members of the group borrowed funds from Rimann, giving him notes payable in a year.

The money was to have been repaid with funds raised through benefit affairs such as dances and a June horse show, Purdome explained.

To Open Safe Deposit Box.

In the hope Rimann might have left some clue as to the identity of his killers, authorities planned to open Rimann's safe deposit box at the Kansas City Trust Co. today. This bank was one of five Rimann dealt with. He had made loans at this bank for seven years, and the scope of his operations was indicated by the fact he recently had made and repaid a $40,000 loan there.

Meanwhile, police were unable to report any progress in their hunt for the killers of the energetic Rimann, who in addition to his many other interests, was manager and chief stockholder of the Hillcrest Country Club.

Rimann was financial "angel" of 125 taverns, holding chattel mortgages on some equipment or stock in the establishments, many of which were for Negroes. He had also a music box and pinball machine firm, being the largest single operator in Kansas City, with 250 to 300 taverns and restaurants using his machines.

No Clues in Safe.

A four-hour search of Rimann's safe at the Hillcrest club Saturday failed to uncover anything of value in the investigation. Employes of the club told detectives they recalled seeing a card on Rimann's desk a day or two before he was killed, with the notation, "meet—Fifth and Garfield." The card, however, could not be found.

A woman was seen in Rimann's automobile several hours before he was murdered. Police yesterday questioned a night club entertainer who lives in Springfield, Mo., but she convinced investigators she was in Springfield last Thursday.

She reported that Rimann had financed a restaurant and tavern she had operated, and the two frequently had conferred regarding the insurance after the establishment burned down.

The only significant thing learned from the woman related to a telephone call she overheard. She recently telephoned Rimann, she said, and while they were talking a call for Rimann came in on another telephone. She waited while he took this call and heard him heatedly declare, "No, I'll not do it!" She did not know to whom he was talking.

Threats Reported.

Rimann had told Harry W. Hundley, his loan and collection manager an anonymous caller had been threatening him by telephone. The caller declined to come to the office of the music box firm, but offered to meet Rimann at Seventh and Garfield, announcing he would be wearing a plaid coat. Hundley said he went in place of Rimann and waited on the corner for an hour, but saw no one in a plaid coat.

The automobile used by Rimann's killers, a 1948 Ford sedan, on March 23, 1948, had been sold by Robert H. Williams, St. Louis used car dealer, to a man named "Leo" who said he was from Denver, Colo. The machine bore a license plate issued to a Lee Harris of 127 West Twelfth street, Kansas City.

A draft payable to a man named Harris in Montreal was found in Rimann's safe. The similarity in names led police to ask Canadian authorities to investigate the Montreal Harris.

Rimann's funeral was held this afternoon at the Newcomer undertaking establishment, with burial in Mount Moriah Cemetery.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, N. Y., March 28—A spokesman for Schenley Distillers, Inc., told the Post-Dispatch that the firm had three distributors in the Kansas City area. He said they were the Superior Wines & Liquors Co., R. O. Stenzel & Co., and Western Wholesale Liquor Co.

"The latter two are co-distributors of part of the Schenley line, and Superior Wines & Liquors Co., is distributor for other of the company's brands," he said. "Before formation of the Western Wholesale Liquor Co., the brands now handled by that firm were distributed by Mid-Continental Liquor Co., and for a short period by R. O. Stenzel & Co., as co-distributor.

"However, telegrams were received in New York stating that Mid-Continental would no longer handle the Schenley brands it had been distributing.

"Wolf Rimann came to New York with other business men from Kansas City to discuss the setting up of a new wholesale firm. Rimann and the other satisfied the credit requirements, including personal guarantees submitted to the company.

"However, no business was transacted at that time since the Schenley policy, in conformity with the law, required that the group would first have to obtain the proper wholesale licenses.

"Later, Schenley was informed that Western Liquor Co. had obtained the regular federal and state licenses but that Rimann had withdrawn and was not a member of the firm.

"Following receipt of information that the proper licenses had been obtained, Schenley started supplying merchandise to Western Wholesale Liquor Co., and has been doing so since."

called the sheriff's office. The boys had $4.40 between them when arrested.

Miss Perry said Mary Ellen, whose mother lives at 2803 Elliot avenue, had been referred to the school by the Board of Children's Guardians three years ago. She and Betty Jo, who is 16, were students at Webster Groves High School and frequently met the boys walking to school. Scott is a former student at the high school.

Neither of the girls had ever been in trouble before, she said.

"I knew they were seeing Tom Scott and John Dattoli," Miss Perry said, "so I talked to the boys last Monday night. I warned them they could easily get into trouble running around like they did, and I advised them both to get jobs. They told me they had jobs ready for them in Chicago and were going there soon."

CHARGE OF NOISE 'LIKE EARTHQUAKE' FAILS FOR EVICTION

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Imergoot and their married daughter and son-in-law make so much noise in their flat at 5925A Horton place that it "sounds like an earthquake" at times, according to testimony today in an eviction suit before Magistrate Joseph P. Collins, but the magistrate ruled in favor of the Imergoots.

Their landlords and downstairs neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd B. Reeves, testified the Imergoots had a habit of stamping around the house noisily, and until recently had kept their radio blaring from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m. every day.

"Everybody has his rights," Mrs. Reeves said, "but my husband and I are under a doctor's care and we need peace and quiet." Mr. and Mrs. Reeves claimed also the Imergoots had, in effect, sub-let their flat illegally when the Imergoots' daughter was married last November and her husband had moved in. They did not offer any testimony in support of their contention that the flat had been sub-let without the landlords' permission.

$150 Taken from Confectionery.

A confectionery at 1229 Benton street was robbed of $150 at closing time last night by two men, one of whom carried a revolver, it was reported by Kenneth Burger, son of the owner of the store, Mrs. Marie Palermo, 4114 Fairground place. The men, who entered asking to buy cigarettes, made their escape unseen after compelling Burger and a customer to face the rear wall.

DECAY OF MORALS IN MODERN YOUTH SHOWN IN MURDER

smiled at photographers, to elope and marry Kathleen in Kalamazoo, Mich., (where the waiting period is waived for pregnancies) knowing he had killed the sister she was worrying about.

Reared in Good Families.

Most disturbing of all, the sisters and Babich were reared in good families, the kind which in normal times are expected to supply the type of citizens who make up the backbone of the nation.

The youth's father, Fabian Babich, is a clerk. He owns his own home and with his wife has saved hard so his two boys could be well-educated. Milton won honors at high school. Victor, 21, is a brilliant student at Northwestern University.

"Milton was so smart, so good," the father said. "He could not have done it . . . never."

Albert Birmingham, a machine operator, also has worked hard for his children. His wife continued part-time work until recently so that she could send both her daughters through a school of nursing.

"We tried our best," she said helplessly, "what more could we have done . . . what more?"

Kathleen, nursing her tragedy, murmured over and over: "I lived with him five days and didn't know he killed my sister."

Of deepest concern to Mayor Zeidler and civic and church leaders is that the Babich case and many of the more flagrant recent examples of juvenile delinquency have stemmed from homes which 10 years ago rarely figured in such incidents.

Decay in War Cited.

All are agreed that the decay set in during the war. In 1943, when parents were working long hours in war factories, or spending the inflated income of the period, Milwaukee had a record number of 2766 cases in its juvenile court. Last year's figure was a little lower, 2372 cases.

Fred Schwarze, superintendent of the detention home, commenting on these cases, said the percentage of teen-age girls committed last year for sex offenses was unprecedented and "staggering"—60 to 70 per cent.

Milwaukee's fight to save its youth is proceeding on many fronts, and the results will be watched in numerous other cities beset by the same modern plague. Investigators are reporting on such cases as a 14-year-old girl who staged a drunken brawl, a 15-year-old girl who used her baby-sitting sideline to tip off teen-age burglars, and another young girl who worked a confidence game so she could match her schoolmates in clothes.

STANDS MUTE WHEN ARRAIGNED

MILWAUKEE, March 28 (AP)—Milton Babich was arraigned today on a first-degree murder charge but stood mute. The 19-year-old youth is charged with killing Patricia Birmingham, 16, because the girl jested about her sister's pregnancy in a love affair with him.

Preliminary hearing was set for April 12. District Judge Harvey L. Neelen, after disputing with District Attorney William McCauley whether bail was allowable in a first-degree murder case, remanded Babich to police custody without bond.

Babich stood silently while Arthur Richter, chief defense counsel, asked for his release on bond. State law does not require a plea by a defendant until the preliminary hearing, but Richter said previously Babich would plead not guilty to the charge.

As the youth left the courtroom, his 17-year-old wife, Kathleen, with whom he eloped five weeks after Patricia was killed but two days before the body was found March 20, called and waved to him.

She rushed through the crowd to his side and cried, "Milt, when can I see you?" as he was taken away.

McCauley said police attention was focused on the youth after his mother, Mrs. Fabian Babich, identified a shirt which bound the dead girl's body as one belonging to her husband.

Kathleen's parents, the Albert T. Birminghams, have five remaining children younger than Mrs. Babich. On Saturday, after McCauley announced the youth had admitted the killing, Mrs. Birmingham joined her eldest daughter in embracing Milton and said afterward: "We won't believe this terrible thing unless it's proven."

Mr. and Mrs. Fabian Babich, Milton's parents, have withheld comment since the murder charge was filed, but their other child, Milton's 21-year-old brother Victor, said the family would stand by him.

HOUSE COMMITTEE APPROVES PUBLIC POWER FUND BILL

roads in Alaska in the year starting July 1 were recommended.

Six Major Projects.

The bulk of construction money requested by President Truman for the reclamation program would go to six major projects. Here is how they are affected by the committee's recommendations:

Davis Dam, Ariz.-Nev. — Proposed $38,739,000; recommended $32,928,150.

Central Valley, Calif. — Proposed, $63,000,000; recommended, $53,550,000.

Colorado-Big Thompson, Colo.—Proposed, $21,500,000; recommended, $18,275,000.

Hungry Horse, Mont.—Proposed $24,000,000; recommended, $20,400,000.

Columbia Basin, Wash. — Proposed, $69,500,000; recommended, $59,075,000.

Missouri River Basin — Proposed, $87,150,000; recommended, $73,822,500.

In addition to these funds, the Central Valley project will have an estimated carryover on July 1 of $2,844,800; and the Missouri basin project a carryover of $2,025,700.

The bureau's fiscal 1950 Missouri River Basin program includes completion of Enders, Medicine Creek, Superior-Courtland, Angostura, Heart Butte, and Kortes dams and completion of the Cartwright unit of the Yellowstone division.

No new construction phases of the project will be started during fiscal 1950, Assistant Interior Secretary William E. Warne told the committee during hearings. Warne said construction cost estimates had increased on all but a few of the projects now being built.

The committee did not allocate its cuts among the Missouri River Basin projects. Its report, however, specified that $300,000 was sliced off the Glendo (Wyo.) unit with instructions to the bureau not to exceed its original planned capacity for that dam.

Committee members, while reluctant to discuss their action in the Appropriations subcommittee, said there had been a sharp division on approving the public power projects. There are three Democrats and two Republicans on the interior subcommittee which wrote the bill.

One member, who would not be quoted, said that one of the Democrats had voted with the Republicans against the public power items.

Chairman Cannon (Dem.), Missouri, of the full appropriations committee, who has power to vote on all appropriations subcommittees, then stepped in and voted with the other two Democrats. This caused a 3-to-3 tie. The rules provide that when there is a tie vote in a subcommittee the budget program shall prevail. That wrote approval of the Administration's power program into the bill.

BURGLARY LOSS ESTIMATE CUT FROM $30,000 TO $5000

A revised estimate on the amount of money taken in the burglary of the home of Max Beitch, 5249 Lindenwood avenue, Feb. 27, was made to police yesterday, it was reported today. Beitch told police the amount taken was about $5000 and not the $30,000 as has been reported previously.

Asked why there was a delay in the revised estimate, Beitch said he had been emotionally upset. His home was ransacked and robbed while he attended the funeral of his son, Pvt. Morrie Beitch, who was killed in the Pacific in World War II, the body being recently returned.

He said his son, Earl, had made the original estimate. Some bonds, which were thought to have been stolen, were found later.

Telephone highlights of 1948...

From the company's annual report, copy of which may be obtained by writing the secretary of the company, 1010 Pine St., St. Louis 1, Mo.

In 1948 the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company passed the 3,000,000 mark in telephones served in its territory—Arkansas, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas, and part of Illinois. This was double the number of telephones served just ten years ago.

But, despite this growth, the company's earnings sank to a new low—4.09 per cent on the capital put into the business by investors.

REVENUES, EXPENSES AND EARNINGS PER TELEPHONE

Postwar costs, continuing to rise during the year, increased expenses to a point 68 per cent higher than in 1940 on a per telephone basis. In the same period revenues per telephone went up only 26 per cent, and earnings declined 52 per cent.

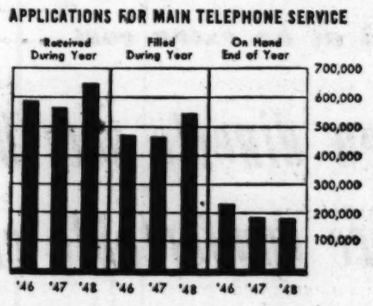

INCREASE IN PLANT INVESTMENT PER TELEPHONE GAINED

The company ended the year with 342,000 more telephones in service than at 1947's end. But those telephones, because of high postwar costs, required a permanent additional investment of $368 apiece. Before the war, the average investment per telephone was $237.

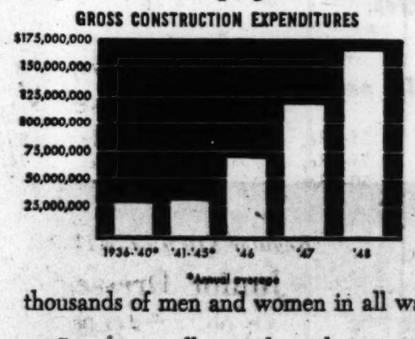

Meanwhile, demand for telephones continued at a rate even higher than in 1947, just over 50,000 a month. There were still 180,000 unfilled orders as the year ended. And about 400,000 persons had requests with us for a higher grade of service.

APPLICATIONS FOR MAIN TELEPHONE SERVICE

The company has an obligation to furnish service as promptly and as fully as it possibly can. This year we intend to continue the huge construction program needed to expand and improve service.

GROSS CONSTRUCTION EXPENDITURES

But the many millions of dollars required to continue the construction program have to come from the savings of investors—thousands of men and women in all walks of life.

Investors will not place their savings in the telephone business unless they can see prospects of earnings that will compare, all things considered, with those of other businesses. But present earnings do not meet this test. Only when earnings are sufficient to attract the necessary investment capital can the business expand and improve as the telephone users want it to.

The year 1948 was a busy one for the telephone company. Much was accomplished in improving and extending service in both urban and rural areas. In 1949, the company expects its accomplishments will be even greater; that more people than ever before will enjoy even better service than in the past.

Municipal Election, Tuesday, April 5

Facts About Nominees for Office Of Comptroller in City Election April 5; 4 Candidates in Campaign

Republican Louis Nolte Seeking Ninth Term; Reversed Decision Not to Run When Rift Loomed — Democrat Milton Carpenter in Second Try for Public Office.

FACTS about the Republican and Democratic nominees for the office of comptroller, and the nominees of two minor parties, are presented in this installment of the Post-Dispatch Voters' Guide. Future installments of the Voters' Guide will deal with candidates for the Board of Education, and other matters to be voted on at the April 5 election.

COMPTROLLER

Republican

Louis Nolte, incumbent, is seeking his ninth term as comptroller. He has held that office for the past 32 years, having been elected first in 1917. On two occasions during his years as comptroller the Democrats did not even place a candidate in opposition to him. These were the elections in 1929 and 1941.

He was the only Republican office holder who remained at City Hall during the Democratic administration of Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann, 1933-41.

Nolte had announced his plans to retire from public office on the expiration of his present term, but finally decided to file for a ninth term after one of the factions of the Republican City Committee filed a candidate in opposition to the man Nolte was backing for the nomination for Comptroller. In effect, Nolte thus became his own "unity candidate," the candidates over whom the party factions were squabbling withdrawing in his favor. He won easily over a lone opponent, who was without organization support, in the primary election.

Throughout his years as Comptroller, Nolte has been regarded as one of the most colorful, as well as able, officials the city has had. Early in his tenure of office he became known as the "Watchdog of the treasury" because of his close observance of municipal expenditures. Employes in his office also adopted the expression, "No—as in Nolte."

Opposes Tax Exemption.

In October 1945, at a time when the city administration was seeking passage of a bill by the State Legislature which would grant tax exemption for housing projects, Nolte expressed opposition to such exemption.

He said such exemption would disrupt the American system of government, would be unfair competition for private capital and would place an undue load on other property owners. However, he approved the proposed slum clearance bond issue which was defeated last fall.

Nolte has been at odds with the Civil Service Commission and the city's Department of Personnel on several occasions. He objected to the Charter Amendment's provision for a mandatory appropriation for the Department of Personnel and to the fact that the Civil Service Commission has control over the salaries and numbers of city employes. He has criticized the character of civil service examinations given city employes and at one time engaged in a prolonged fight with the department to retain a key employe in his office, who had failed a civil service examination. The fight ended only when the employe took another job. Nolte insists he believes in merit system principles.

Won St. Louis Award.

The St. Louis Award, given annually for outstanding service to the community, was presented Nolte in 1934 for his refusal to certify a public works bond issue until revenue had been provided, as required by law, to assure interest and retirement payments on the bonds. He gave the $1000 prize to charity.

Nolte served six years, 1907-13, as sheriff of St. Louis before becoming comptroller. He declined to run for assessor in 1913 and returned to the real estate business for four years.

He was born in St. Louis. He attended military school and then went to work as a messenger boy for a land title firm before going into the real estate business. He is married and lives at 1129 Penrose street. He is 77 years old.

Democrat

Milton Carpenter is district manager in St. Louis and assistant treasurer of the Patent Scaffolding Co. He formerly was a roofing and general contractor. He was the unsuccessful Democratic nominee for collector of revenue for the city in 1946.

He was born in St. Louis, is 43 years old, married and lives at 8421 Church road. He attended public grade and high schools and Washington University night school. He is a veteran of World War II in which he served three years as a technical sergeant in service and supplies, medical department; suffered injury in early Army training. He is a member of the American Legion and Amvets.

He also is a member of the board of directors of Pilgrim Lutheran Church and president of the Philia Society, a church group. He is a member of the board of directors of the Optimists' Club and a past president of the Inner Circle Club, a business organization, and of the United Roofing Contractors' Association.

Socialist-Labor

Theodore Baeff, 4908 Euclid terrace, has been his party's nominee for various state and city offices in the past. He ran for State Treasurer in 1936, for comptroller of St. Louis in 1941, for Secretary of State in 1944, for alderman in the Twenty-sixth Ward in 1947 and for State Treasurer in 1948. He has never been elected to a public office.

Communist

GRAGG AGAIN ATTACKS CLOSING OF POLICE SCHOOL

Calls Action by Board 'Proof of Intention of Machine to Throw Town Wide Open.'

J. Edward Gragg, Republican mayoral nominee, today again attacked the action of the St. Louis Board of Police Commissioners in ordering the closing of the police academy.

"Now that the newly-appointed police board has seen fit to close the nationally-famous police academy," Gragg said in a statement, "I ask the citizens of St. Louis what further proof they desire of the intention of the Democratic machine at Jefferson City to throw this town wide open to every form of organized gambling known to mankind?

"The people of St. Louis are by no means stupid. That is evidenced by the formation of the new St. Louis Crime Commission. It also will be evidenced by my election April 5 as Mayor."

Gragg reiterated his promises to co-operate with the Crime Commission and to attend meetings of the police board, of which he would be an ex-officio member, if elected Mayor, and "report to the people of the city" on every move made by the police board.

"St. Louis will be one city in Missouri that the Capone gambling mob and the Jefferson City machine will not control," Gragg said.

He was scheduled to resume his sidewalk campaign, inviting questions from passers-by, via loudspeaker, as to his plans for the city, at noon today at the intersection of Olive and Sixth streets. At 2 p.m. he is scheduled to set up the loudspeaker at Olive and Grand boulevard.

MAN SEIZED IN AUTO THEFT IS WANTED IN ATTACK CHARGE

Two Negroes arrested on suspicion when found tampering with an automobile late Saturday night admitted they had stolen the machine, and one turned out to be a man wanted for attempted criminal attack since last October. They identified themselves as Odell Washington, 5 Jameton street, identified by a Negro woman as her assailant, and Johnnie Morris Tate, 2335 Market street.

Police made the arrest at Pine street and Twelfth boulevard, where the pair said the automobile stalled. They admitted taking the machine, owned by Frank Yates of 202 North Jefferson avenue, from in front of 2344 Pine. The arresting officers were met at Central District Station by two other policemen who were returning to report the theft of the machine.

The Negroes were booked suspected of larceny of a motor vehicle, and in addition Washington was booked suspected of attempted criminal assault.

U.S. REJECTS REDS' DEMANDS TO FREE U.N. AID IN SPY CASE

WASHINGTON, March 28 (UP)—A State Department spokesman said today that the United States has rejected finally Russian demands for the release of Valentin Gubitchev, United Nations employe arrested on spy charges. The decision means Gubitchev will have to stand trial in New York.

Ambassador Alexander Panyushkin was informed Thursday that the United States holds Gubitchev does not have diplomatic immunity and that "we will proceed with legal processes." Panyushkin began protesting immediately after Gubitchev and Miss Judith Coplon, a Department of Justice employe here, were arrested in New York. Miss Coplon has been charged with passing secret information to Gubitchev.

SELECTED GROUP UP IN MIXED STOCK LIST

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—Slow selling during the afternoon chipped away most of the early gain in the stock market today leaving the list about unchanged on average.

Business was quiet. Sales of 700,000 shares compared with 630,000 Friday.

Sales first hour 150,000 shares; second, 150,000; third, 120,000; fourth, 1000,000; fifth, 180,000.

Of 932 issues traded, 341 closed off, 340 up, 251 unchanged.

Rails and a number of industrial issues lost the small fractions they were able to add, and toward the close minus signs were scattered throughout the list.

Union Pacific and Plymouth Oil, which pushed up to around 2 points, fell back to about half way below their best. Glen Martin which was down came back a little.

Air Reduction lost more than a point after a Supreme Court decision forcing higher tax payments. Goodyear stood above the rest of the rubber group on declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of $1.

The steel group retreated after the American Iron & Steel Institute estimated the current week's operations would produce 1,839,800 net tons of ingots and castings with operations at 99.8 per cent of capacity, the lowest level in 11 weeks.

Utilities were about unchanged. Consolidated Natural Gas was off most of the day, at one time more than a point. Metals and chemicals were mixed. Oils were mostly higher.

In the curb market, stocks were mixed. Higher at times were American Light & Traction, Carr Consolidated Biscuit, Cities Service, United Light & Railways, and Samson United. Lower at times were American Maracaibo, Fansteel Metalurgical, Electric Bond & Share, Le Tourneau, and Woodley Petroleum.

Railroads asked for more money. In a petition to the Interstate Commerce Commission, class 1 railroads sought a 15 per cent increase in revenue from carrying United States mail. That would bring payments to 80 per cent above the 1947 level. Railroads said they needed the money to offset the $450,000,000 annual cost of the new 40-hour week, effective Sept. 1, and other rising costs.

Overall, the National Association of Purchasing Agents said production is being maintained and in some cases improving, indicating the decline in industrial activity in late 1948 has "definitely lost momentum."

WHEAT CLOSES FIRM, CORN, OATS STEADY

CHICAGO, March 28 (AP)—Grains recovered from an early selloff on the Board of Trade today. Prices dropped rather sharply in active dealings in the first half hour, but then started a slow, persistent upturn. Before the close practically everything had gone above Saturday's finish.

Initial selling came mainly from commission houses, represented a continuation of the liquidation which got underway Saturday and appeared to be based upon doubts concerning the Government's wheat buying policy. But the Commodity Credit Corporation said it was still in the market for wheat "in-store," which some traders had doubted.

After the CCC announcement of its bid, the market started its slow climb. Wheat lead the advance. Other grains followed. Soybeans held steady. Lard, which had shown steadiness right from the start, made fair-sized gains on reports of an improved demand for loose lard.

WEST EUROPE ASKS ECA FOR $100,000,000 FOR STEEL INDUSTRY

PARIS, March 28 (AP)—Western Europe has asked the United States for $100,000,000 to modernize its steel industry. The funds, sought from the Economic Cooperative Administration, would be used to buy modern ore-mining and rolling mill equipment.

George W. Perkins, head of ECA's industry division, said the program covers Austria, Italy, United Kingdom, France, Belgium, Luxembourg, Turkey and Norway. It was written, he said, by the countries of the Organization for European Economic co-operation.

Kenneth E. Brown, head of ECA's iron and steel section said the money would be spent:

"To buy ore-mining equipment that will allow European producers of minerals to meet the demands they are facing.

LEGLESS BOY GIVEN $18,000 BY RAILROAD THOUGH BLAMELESS

Lad's Counsel Concedes There Was No Evidence, and Cuts His Fee.

PHILADELPHIA, March 28 (UP)—The judge and even Johnny Guille's attorneys admitted the railroad was not to blame for the accident in which the 7-year-old boy lost both legs.

But the Reading Co. today volunteered to give the boy $18,000 to help make up to him for the pain and the lost good times.

Judge Raymond MacNeille approved the voluntary settlement. "It is very unusual," he said, "for a corporation to give any substantial settlement in a case when the law says it doesn't have to."

Even the lad's testimony backed the railroad's contention that it was not guilty of any negligence in the accident March 12, 1948. The boy walked into court on his artificial legs, sat down on a chair and told the judge:

"We were playing wild horses. I told one boy to stop and he didn't hear me and pushed me. The next thing I knew I was under the train."

The boy's counsel, David F. Kaliner, who admitted there wasn't "a scintilla of evidence which could have sent the case to a jury," thanked the corporation. He announced his law firm would cut its fee to 25 per cent of the settlement, instead of the 33 1-3 per cent originally stipulated.

INSTRUCTIONS TO VOTERS

On receipt of his ballot the voter shall forthwith, and without leaving the enclosed space, retire alone to one of the voting booths, and shall prepare his ballot by placing cross (X) marks in the squares at the left of the names of candidates for whom he wishes to vote. A cross (X) mark is any line crossing any other line at any angle within the square, and no ballot shall be declared void because a cross (X) mark therein is irregular in form. It shall not be lawful to deface or tear a ballot in any manner, nor to erase any mark made thereon by such voter, nor to inclose in the folded ballot any other paper or any article. If the voter deface or tear a ballot, or wrongly mark the name or make an erasure therein, he may obtain one additional ballot on returning to the ballot clerk the one so defaced or wrongly marked. Ballots shall be counted only for the persons for whom the marks thereon are applicable; when a voter shall place a mark in the squares to the left of the names of more than thirteen candidates, none of the candidates shall be deemed to have been voted for. Before leaving the booth the voter shall fold his ballot in such a manner as to conceal his marks thereon. He shall mark his ballot without undue delay. He shall then hand the ballot to the judge of election selected to take ballots, who shall number the ballot, affix a black sticker to conceal the number, and deposit in the ballot box. The voter shall quit and leave the enclosed space as soon as possible. (Based upon Section 11603, R. S., Mo., 1939.)

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the undesigned, composing the Board of Election Commissioners for the City of St. Louis, Missouri, have caused this notice to be signed and the official seal of the office affixed, at office in St. Louis, this 21st day of March, 1949.

SUPREME COURT HEARS APPEAL BY EISLER

Attorneys Argue House Group Sets Up Government Calssification of Ideas.

WASHINGTON, March 28 (UP) —The Supreme Court heard arguments this afternoon by attorneys for Gerhardt Eisler, alien Communist, who seeks to have declared unconstitutional the law establishing the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

His attorneys argued that the committee "sets up a system of classification of ideas by Government."

If Eisler wins the Supreme Court to his views, he will escape serving a sentence of a year in jail and $1000 fine for contempt of Congress. He was convicted of contempt on a Government assertion that he refused to be sworn as a witness when called before the committee Feb. 6, 1947.

Attorney David Rein said the resolution establishing the committee went beyond the power of Congress. He said that, under the resolution, religious ideas could be labeled as dangerous.

Attorney Abraham J. Isserman argued that the jury was not allowed to have enough facts. He said it should have been carefully explained what Eisler wanted to say in his three-minute statement.

Isserman contended also that United States District Judge Alexander Holtzoff, who presided at the trial, should have disqualified himself because he was formerly a Federal Bureau of Investigation adviser and had participated in an investigation of Eisler.

Rein claimed the committee summoned Eisler "only to harass him." He said the committee developed a technique of "getting around the Constitution" by attaching certain ideas to individuals so they would lose their jobs and suffer in other ways.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28 (UP) — Despondent because she was out of work, Miss Marta Huber jumped from the sixth floor of her downtown hotel yetserday. A ground floor awning broke her fall. She suffered cuts on her left ankle.

VELDE URGES HOUSE INQUIRY OF RUSSIAN 'ATOM SPY RING'

CHICAGO, March 28 (UP)—Some of the most dangerous atomic spies have escaped this country, but "there still are enough left to warrant an investigation," according to Representative Harold Velde (Rep.), Illinois.

A former Federal Bureau of Investigation agent, Velde said in a radio interview last night that the House committee should reopen an investigation of the Russian "atomic spy ring" and the "scientist X" case.

He said the Department of Justice should have "stepped in and apprehended members of a Communist atomic spy ring a long time ago."

RUSSIAN HELD IN ARGENTINA SPY RING INVESTIGATION

BUENOS AIRES, March 28 (UP)—Police sources said today that a number of suspects and documents had been seized in an investigation into an alleged nationwide Communist spy ring.

The probe was touched off by the arrest yesterday of Dr. Jan Matwiejew, 52-year-old Russian, on a charge of "suspicion of smuggling." He was reported to have had in his possession plans of the public works ministry, the national sanitation department and charts of the city's principal water mains. He also was reported to have carried notebooks containing writing in code.

Police sources said existence of the spy ring was disclosed following a fight last week between Communists supporting the Cominform and those supporting Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia, who has broken with the Cominform.

INSTRUCTIONS TO VOTERS

On receipt of his ballot the voter shall forthwith, and without leaving the enclosed space, retire alone to one of the voting booths so provided, and shall prepare his ballot for voting in the following manner: Should the voter desire to vote a "straight" party ticket he shall place a cross (X) mark in the circle immediately below the party name. If the voter desires to vote for one or more candidates on more than one party ticket, by voting what is commonly called a "split ticket" he may place a cross (X) mark in the circle immediately below one party name and mark cross (X) marks in the squares at the left of the names of candidates on other tickets for whom he wishes to vote. If the voter desires to vote for one or more candidates whose name or names do not appear on the printed ballot, he may do so by drawing a line through the printed name of candidate for such office, and writing below such canceled name the name of person for whom he desires to vote, and placing a cross mark in the square at the left of such name. The squares so marked shall take precedence over the cross marked in the circle. Where there are two or more candidates for like office in a group a cross (X) mark in the square to the left of a candidate's name, automatically votes against the candidate whose name appears within the same horizontal lines in the column under the circle in which appears the cross (X) mark unless the voter indicates another candidate, to be voted against by drawing a line through such candidate's name. All candidates of the party whose circle is marked shall be counted as voted for excepting where squares are crossed preceding the names of the candidates in other columns; if two or more candidates for the same office are thus designated, neither shall be counted.

If the cross (X) is not placed in the circle immediately below the party name at the head of the column, but does appear in the squares opposite the various candidates' names, then only these names shall be counted for, and none other. A cross (X) mark is any line crossing any other line at any angle within the voting space, and no ballot shall be declared void because a cross (X) mark therein is irregular in form. It shall not be lawful to deface or tear a ballot in any manner nor to erase any printed name "except as provided above in this section," figure, word or letter therefrom, nor to erase any mark made thereon by such voter, nor inclose in the folded ballot any other paper or any article. If the voter deface or tear a ballot, or wrongly mark the name or make an erasure therein, he may obtain one additional ballot on returning to the ballot clerk the one so defaced or wrongly marked. A ballot placed in the ballot box without any marks shall not be counted. Ballots shall be counted only for the person for whom the marks thereon are applicable; when a voter shall place a mark against two or more names for the same office, and only one candidate is to be chosen for the office none of the candidates shall be deemed to have been voted for and the ballots shall not be counted for either such candidate. Before leaving the booth the voter shall fold his ballot in such a manner as to conceal his marks thereon. He shall mark his ballot without undue delay. He shall then hand the ballot to the judge of election selected to take ballots, who shall number the ballot and deposit it in the ballot box. The voter shall quit and leave said enclosed place as soon as possible. (Enacted 1933.)

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the undersigned, composing the Board of Election Commissioners for the City of St. Louis, Missouri, have caused this notice to be signed and the official seal of the office affixed at office in St. Louis, this 21st day of March, 1949.

CLAY COMMUTES THIRD MALMEDY DEATH SENTENCE

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 28 (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay today commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of a third German defendant in the Malmedy massacre and confirmed the death sentence of another.

So far, the American commander has confirmed three death sentences in the case of the 12 defendants and commuted three to life on the chance that the evidence that convicted them might have been obtained by duress.

A Senate committee recently asked President Truman to stay execution of the 12 defendants, sentenced for machine-gunning 83 captured American soldiers during the Battle of the Bulge in 1944. Investigation showed that some evidence was obtained by mock trials and other improper methods.

The sentence commuted today was that of Friedrich Christ, former S.S. lieutenant, who admitted in a sworn pre-trial statement that he took part in the shooting of United States prisoners of war during the Battle of the Bulge. Christ later retracted the statement, charging it was obtained by duress.

Clay said he believed Christ guilty, and suspected a "concerted plan" by the defendants in repudiating their confessions. But "there is no direct evidence other than that contained in the retracted statements to conclusively prove the full guilt of Christ," Clay's report said.

Clay confirmed the death sentence of Paul Zwigart because, he said, even if the repudiated confessions are ruled out, "there still remains overwhelming evidence" of his guilt.

The other six Malmedy death sentences are still under review by Clay.

Girl Fire Heroine Gets Dream Home, $10,000 and a Serenade

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

CHICAGO, March 28 (AP)—The dream house built for 14-year-old heroine Roberta Lee was presented to her yesterday to the accompaniment of music by a band and speeches by dignitaries.

The girl, who suffered severe burns in rescuing four half-brothers and sisters from their flaming home Feb. 17, was allowed to leave the hospital only long enough for the ceremonies.

Still swathed in yards of bandages, she arrived at her new home in a police car with a nurse and physicians. Michael Sexton, president of the Chicago District Council of Carpenters, presented to her a gold key symbolic of ownership of the house. Then, with a pair of scissors, she snipped a blue ribbon which had been stretched around the house and walked in while a 40-piece band played on a rostrum nearby. Speakers at the ceremonies, in which also a gold medal for heroism was presented to the girl, included Mayor Martin H. Kennelly.

"Thank you," she said in a low, shy voice. "My heart is too full to speak."

The thousands of persons watching burst into song, "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," they sang—and it sounded as if they meant it.

Then, as Roberta stepped down, her Sunday school class gravely sang a hymn.

The home, carpeted but not yet furnished, was built with money contributed by hundreds of persons who wanted to help reward Roberta for her bravery. Members of building trades unions donated the work. In addition to the home, the girl received a $10,000 cash fund.

Roberta, however, said the best gift of all came from the doctors who told her that the burns on her shoulders, arms and face will leave no scars.

WINDSTORMS END IN SOUTH, LEAVING 28 KILLED, 200 HURT

Tornado Toll Heaviest in Arkansas—Five of Injured in Missouri.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 28 (AP)—Tornadoes and lesser windstorms apparently had subsided in the South today after leaving a trail of death, injury and destruction in eight states in 48 hours.

Twenty-eight persons were killed, about 200 were injured, and scores were made homeless. Property damage was heavy, but there was no estimate of its total.

The storms, which struck mainly in sparsely populated rural areas, ranged from Texas to Kentucky. In fury they varied from Arkansas, where 17 persons died and 98 were injured, to Louisiana, where one person was hurt.

Next to Arkansas, the losses were highest in Mississippi, where eight were killed and 48 injured.

The toll in other states: Oklahoma—two dead, 20 injured; Texas—one dead, 26 injured; Tennessee—several injured; Kentucky—six injured; Missouri—five injured.

Four Firemen Are Injured When Pumper Collides With Truck — Auto Hits Building.

Sixteen persons were injured, six seriously, in traffic accidents in the St. Louis area over the weekend.

Four firemen were injured when a pumper from Engine Co. No. 6 collided with a tractor-trailer at Broadway and Chestnut street yesterday. They were: Capt. Daniel O'Keefe, 5106 Cates avenue; Joseph G. Rodriquez, 6953 Vermont avenue; Howard Rauscher, 4142A West Kossuth avenue, and Albert Hofstetter, 3456 Crittenden street.

Capt. O'Keefe suffered a sprained back; Rodriquez and Hoffstetter, bruises, and Rauscher, a severe cut on the lip. All but Rauscher returned to duty after treatment.

Ernest Cambron, 3437 Crittenden, driver of the tractor-trailer, told police he heard the fire truck's siren but was unable to stop before entering the intersection. He was booked to appear in police court April 11.

Auto Hits Restaurant.

George McCary of Kimmswick, Mo., suffered an ankle injury today when the automobile he was driving rammed into a restaurant at 269 Lemay Ferry road, St. Louis county, causing damage estimated at $300.

A fire, caused by a broken gas pipe, broke out in the restaurant after it was struck by McCary's machine. Damage by the blaze was estimated at $75. McCary, operator of a general store, told deputy sheriffs he lost control when the steering apparatus broke.

Four persons were injured, two seriously, in an automobile collision at Marmaduke and Clifton avenues yesterday.

They were: Dayton W. Lierley, 5045 Lindenwood avenue, bruises; his wife, fractured collarbone and head injury; Russell Poertner, 6014 Odell avenue, cuts; his wife, rib and head injuries. Mrs. Lierley and Mrs. Poertner remained at City Hospital.

Mrs. Carl Krauss, 5333 Jennings road, St. Louis county, suffered fractures of the left hip and leg yesterday when she and her husband were struck by an automobile in the 5300 block of Natural Bridge avenue. Kraus, a baker, was treated for bruises. His wife was taken to DePaul Hospital.

3 Youths Hurt in Crash.

Three St. Louis county youths were injured seriously Saturday night when the automobile in which they were riding struck a tree on Ladue road, south of Litzsinger road.

They were. Robert Roam, the driver, 22 years old, 3401 Airway avenue, Overland; Marvin Fieser, 22, of 618 East Argonne drive, Kirkwood, and Roy Zinn, 32 Marshall place, Webster Groves. All suffered head injuries.

Gloria Mell, 12 years old, 3502 North Broadway, and Marlene Ahlvers, 9, 5010A North Broadway, surfered cuts and bruises Saturday night when struck by an automobile while they were in a streetcar safety zone at Broadway and St. Louis avenue.

The driver, Earl E. Allen, 6338A North Broadway, said he was sleepy and did not see the two girls until it was too late to avoid striking them.

Youth Dies of Injuries After Fall From Motor Scooter.

Anthony Sandheinrich Jr., 17 years old, of St. Libory, Ill., died yesterday at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Belleville, of head injuries suffered Monday when he fell from his motor scooter in Marissa, Ill.

Sandheinrich was jolted from the scooter as he was crossing the Illinois Central Railroad tracks. He was a student at Marissa Township High School.

Flashes of Life

So Crows Are Wise.

By the Associated Press.

MONTEZUMA, N.Y., March 28 (AP) — The State Conservation Department has been forced to renege on a promise to turn over 300 dead crows to Cornell University for experimental purposes.

A 1000-acre tract had been mined with 500 dynamite charges loaded with shrapnel to destroy "thousands" of crows. The charge was detonated, but not a single dead crow was found afterward.

Out for a Long Drink.

DETROIT—The elevator operator at police headquarters recognized the prisoner he was taking down from the ninth floor. He asked the man where he was going.

"I'm going out for a drink but don't tell anybody about it," answered George J. George, ex-convict being held as a police witness in connection with a hotel holdup. The operator, thinking George must have been released, didn't tell anyone.

Red-faced police who later began a search for George are puzzled as to how he managed to unlock two doors — one leading from his cell block to the visitors' room and the other into the building corridor.

Baby Buggy Banking.

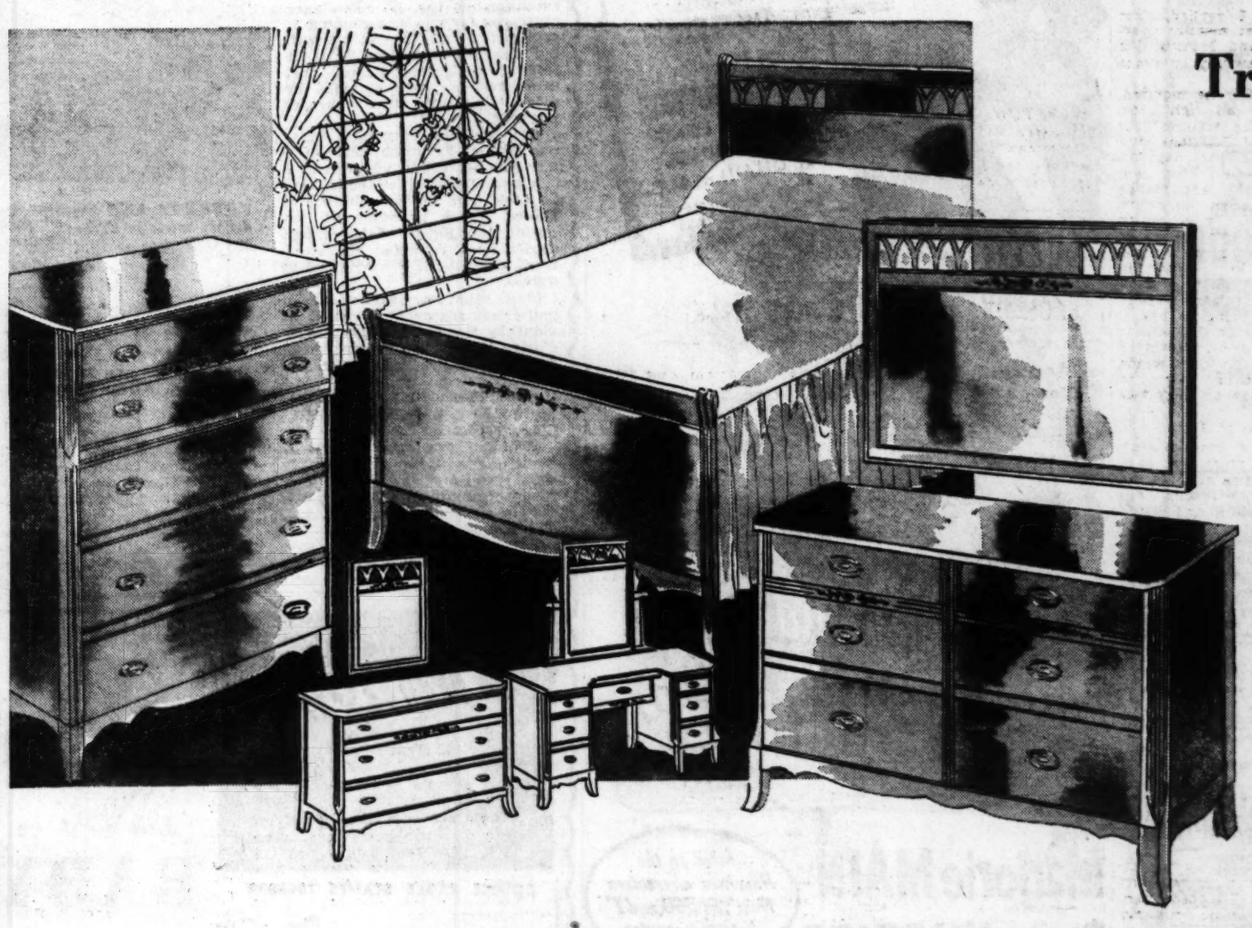

NEW YORK — Baby carriage banking is the latest wrinkle here. The Bayside National Bank in Queens will have a baby carriage window operating by April 4.

JAILED in MOSCOW

Miss Strong Tells of Isolation In Lubianka Prison, Vain Pleas To Learn the Charge Against Her

Correspondent Locked in Long, Narrow Cell, With Bright Light Constantly On — Forced to Strip as Her Clothes and Body Are Examined Closely.

By ANNA LOUISE STRONG

The New York Herald Tribune—Post-Dispatch Special Correspondence. Copyright, 1949.

SECOND OF A SERIES.

THE jail routine of Lubianka closed around me. I was put first in a tiny cell with only a table and chair and strip of carpet. Leaning my head against the wall, I tried to doze. It seemed hours. Two women entered, a wardress and a doctor.

"Strip," they said.

The doctor listened to my heart and lungs and I wondered, in panic, if she was deciding how much I could stand. They examined my body thoroughly, asking me to bend and stretch and expose various parts, but they did not touch me themselves except as they fluffed my hair back to see what might be hidden at the roots. Seeing that I was shivering, the doctor gave me some clean prison clothing to wear while they examined mine.

First the shoes, with insoles ripped out and laces removed; then the stockings, every seam of which was felt. These were returned quickly. "To keep your legs warm and off the floor," said the doctor, and my tension relaxed. They're not going to be brutes, not yet anyway, I thought.

Nerves Shoot Up and Down.

They went over every seam, every button, but tore nothing but the lining of my thick fur cap. My jerky nerves shot up again. In all the next five days my spirits were shooting way up and then way down.

I was dressed again in my own now-investigated clothing, all but my shoelaces, watch and brooch. The doctor looked at me, decided that I wouldn't strangle myself with the laces, and returned them. "You'll feel more decent with them laced," she said. I laced them, and I did.

They put me in another tiny cell that had a narrow bench in it. Again interminable ages passed.

I asked everyone, the doctor, the wardress, every person who stuck his nose inside for a moment, what I was there for. They didn't answer. It wasn't their job to know.

No Prisoner Sees Another.

I had just decided that I could sleep on that narrow bench and had lain down when they came and took me to another room. I noticed another bit of technique. No prisoner must be allowed to see another. They looked around each corner, and if anyone was there I had to step back till the corridor was clear. In the elevators I had to step to the rear, and they closed iron shutters between me and the operator, so that nobody might see me by chance as we passed various floors.

I didn't care; I didn't want to see anybody except the person who would tell me why. I was there and let me out.

From the first arrest to the end nobody laid hands on me. They pointed and I went. I began to think I must be a docile prisoner. Nobody ever called me docile before. I was scared stiff and dazed.

We went to a small, bleak office where a portly man in uniform sat behind a desk. He had two rows of battle ribbons on his chest. He motioned me to a chair with a smile on his face like the keeper of a hotel.

"I am the administrator," he said. I burst out asking what I was there for, but he said that wasn't his job. So I knew he was a kind of warden.

How Is Your Health?

His next words knocked me silly. "How is your health?" he asked. My health? For hard labor in the woods or for what? I replied as accurately as I could. "I'm 63 and not as good as once. I've had a bit of rheumatism, my nerves cut up and my legs are bad on long walks. But I get around the world pretty well."

"What do you eat? Have you any special diet?"

"But I won't be here to eat," I cried. "They'll be letting me go!" Smilingly, persistently, he learned that I needed a milk and vegetable diet with little meat.

"Are there any medicines that you have to take?"

"Only vitamins. I had a good kind in my little bag but they took it."

"What kind of vitamins?" he asked.

"Mixed ones," I replied, "but mostly B-1. I get awfully nervous without it and I know I'm going to get awfully nervous here."

"And Vitamin C?" he inquired. I said that was all right, too. Vitamin C is "the vitamin" for these north-bound Russians and they gave it to me every day, but the B-1 never came. They said they had ordered it and maybe they had. My own expensive mixed vitamins—nearly $40 worth for an expected two years in China—were never given to me. I suppose folks keep poison in little capsules. But did they think I was going to poison myself? Not me. I was going to live!

As I passed through the halls to my cell I saw a clock showing 3 in the morning. My own watch was not returned till I got to Poland, so from now on there was only empty time.

Description of Cell.

My cell was a long narrow room cut in what must once have been a hotel or office building. An ancient hardwood floor, high walls painted green below and white above, a table, a chair, strip of carpet, jug of water and, thank heaven, a bed. Not a very good one, but I've slept on worse. Flexible iron bands covered with two thin mattresses, a bit bent and bumpy. Clean sheets and an ancient but warm blanket. Two plump pillows.

All that distinguished the cell from a third-class provincial hotel room in Russia was that the big window facing a narrow court had bars outside, and the heavy door had no inside knob but was locked from outside with a peephole in it, so they could look when they liked. I didn't care who looked. I wasn't going to commit suicide or any other little misdemeanors. I was going to sleep.

They told me to tap lightly under the peephole if I had any needs in the night. I tapped often, for the nervous strain put my insides out of order.

Found Washroom Clean.

Usually they replied quickly; a man who opened my door and a woman who opened the door to the washroom. Quite decent. Once I had to wait 10 minutes; I found they had been cleaning the washroom. That place was really clean, much cleaner than in any Russian provincial hotel.

The bright light in the ceiling bothered me, glaring down in my face. Of course, I thought, they have to be able to see me, and if I can't control the switch I'd rather have it light than always dark. I drew a handkerchief over my face and slept fitfully. Despite my exhaustion the question "Why?" kept racing through my brain. I thought back over my life, years and years, all possible mistakes and errors.

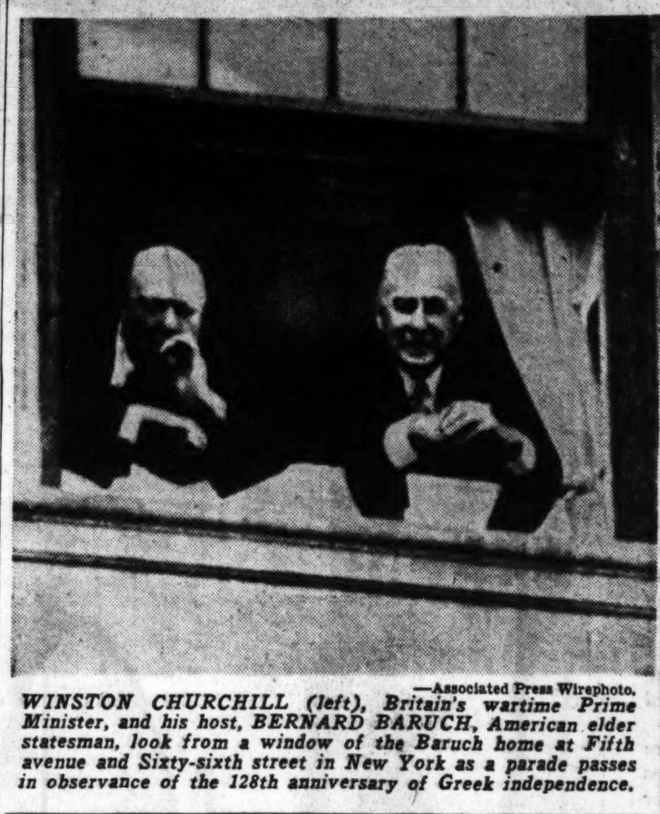

Was it the time I said: "Let the first atom bomb fall on that Press Department. I won't mind then if the second hit me." But every one knew I had a temper. They wouldn't take that seriously. But what if they had?

All night between snatches of sleep I faced my sins. They all seemed petty, not up to Lubianka standard. "It's crazy," I decided. "They'll find it out in the morning. Maybe in time for me to see that Chinese delegate and get to Manchuria yet." My spirit rose high, jesting: "I bet they just want me to write up their model jail. I'll give it a recommendation. Politest jailers I ever had."

But underneath was the sickening knowledge that you couldn't land in Lubianka without some serious charge. I did not know that already the cables carried the news to the world that I was a "spy."

Business Outlook

SEEDS OF PEACE IN NORTH ATLANTIC PACT?

By J. A. Livingston

THE North Atlantic pact may be an important economic signal: The gradual reduction of United States arms expenditures, the gradual reduction of taxes, and the gradual reduction of the national debt. It may mark the start of a fiscal era like that which followed the first World War, when Andrew Mellon was Secretary of the Treasury and the proud reducer of the federal debt.

Mellon was able to cut both the debt and taxes. And without deflation. As Mellon paid off Government bonds, holders used the money for industrial expansion and for investment in other securities, including common stocks. State and local governments built roads, sewage systems, schools, etc. As the Federal Government ceased spending, local governments expanded expenditures. It was an era of peace and prosperity.

Greater Chances for Peace.

So far, commentary on the pact has emphasized the dangers of war, the intensification of international discord. Yet the pact could have a quieting effect. As the London Economist shrewdly observes, "Hitler had in 1939 the certainty—in the black and white of the neutrality acts—that America would not intervene if he went to war. Mr. Stalin in 1949 has the certainty of the exact opposite." Hitler's certainty led to the rape of Czechoslovakia, the invasion of Poland. Stalin's certainty may lead to negotiations and peace.

A little-noticed paragraph in the recently issued State Department White Paper takes this optimistic view. It states that the pact "defines the security of the North Atlantic area and the consequences of infringement" and "should thereby enhance the likelihood of reaching peaceful solutions."

The pact hasn't worsened United States relations with Russia. It merely accepts them as they are. Nor has it increased the prospective cost of the United States military commitment. If the Kremlin decides to continue the cold war, then we'll be exactly where we were. In his budget message on January 10, President Truman indicated he would ask Congress for funds to provide military supplies to aid western European nations. The Atlantic Pact activates that statement. It doesn't add to it. And, conceivably, it could—in time—subtract from it.

Pooling Resources.

Now that a defensive alliance has been signed, the military forces of western Europe will be unified, instead of divided, independent and dispersed—as when Hitler attacked the low countries. Belgium won't be holding out, refusing consultation to the last minute. Which implies efficient use of American dollars and military assets. Not only will we have our own resources to resist a Russian violation of the Truman Doctrine, but now we can rely on the help of others, of pooled resources. Thus, the ultimate United States burden is diminished.

All the foregoing is based on an assumption that even for the Russians the cold war is too expensive to be perpetuated. The Russians have to maintain a large military establishment at the expense of civilian consumption. And they are barred from importing from the United States much-needed machinery. As a counter move, they're reducing exports of manganese to the United States and are even threatening to reduce shipments of furs. This last cut is cutting off the nose to spite the face.

The Farmer's Position.

The markets of the world may be taking an optimistic view of world conditions. The decline in lead prices followed by zinc quotations indicates that the acute shortage in nonferrous metals is at an end, that increased war needs are discounted. Copper producers foresee a drop in price before the year is out. The price of scrap steel has slipped anew, and Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corp., a leading manufacturer of alloy steels, has shut down one electric furnace and two openhearths at Brackenridge, Pa., just outside Pittsburgh. Obviously, steel is in easier supply.

Farm prices had reflected the shift in the world supply-demand position much earlier. Since January, 1948, the products farmers sell have been declining, partly because of increased production of grains in Europe. When industrial prices continued to rise, the farmer lost much of his postwar advantage in buying power. Now, as prices of metals, durable consumer goods, etc., decline, the farm dollar may begin getting a bit bigger.

Even the unhappy stock market shows some zip. That may be a belated effect of the bullish article in Life magazine, asserting that many stocks can be bought at prices far below book value. But it also may be due to a feeling that the Atlantic pact may clarify and improve United States relations with Russia. At the annual meeting of the Financial Analysts Association in New York about two weeks ago, stock market forecasters agreed on one point only: A bull market couldn't start until the outlook for peace was brighter.

West's Changes In Reich Border Called Blunder

Move Said to Give Reds Propaganda Weapon and to Stir Nationalism.

By WES GALLAGHER

BERLIN, March 28 (AP).

THE six-power agreement to snip 52 square miles off Germany in western boundary changes was viewed today by many competent sources here as a major diplomatic blunder. The informants said they felt a delicate situation was badly handled, particularly in the matter of timing.

The United States, Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg agreed to the changes. The territory Germany will lose will go to The Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg, France and the Saar.

In return for minor technical gains which cannot decisively effect the economy of any of the countries receiving German territory, the Western powers, in the opinion of the sources here, have suffered the following losses:

1. They have undermined their own position in relation with that of the Russians. Previously, the Western powers held that the seizure of a large area of eastern Germany by Russia and Poland was illegal since all border changes must wait a peace treaty. Now they have done what they criticized Russia for doing in the east.

2. They have given German Communists a new propaganda weapon with which to attack the west. Communist newspapers in Berlin charged today that the western border changes were "thievery" and "robbery."

3. The western powers have fanned German nationalists fires at the very time when every effort is being made to beat down such nationalism in favor of European union.

The informants do not question the validity of the claims of Germany's western neighbors on the territory. But, they said, they believed the handling of the problem was done in the worst possible manner.

If the changes had been made three or four years ago, there would have been little opposition. If they had come with a final German peace treaty the Germans might have been in a better mood to accept them.

Coming at the present time, the changes will provide a talking point for every potential German fuehrer to climb on the popular bandwagon of nationalism, the sources said.

Also, the changes are certain to be a major political source of irritation from now until any peace treaty is signed. No German politician, no matter how sympathetic he is to the west, will dare say a word in their favor.

Luck May Determine Life or Death For 12 Malmedy Case Defendants

Final Verdicts on Review Could Hinge on Whether SS Men Were Seen and Identified, Not on 'Confessions.'

By DAVID M. NICHOL

The Chicago Daily News—Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1949.

BERLIN, March 28

TWELVE S.S. men who participated in the Malmedy massacres apparently will live or die on the basis of luck. If they were seen and identified specifically, their death sentences imposed by the Dachau war crimes court will stand. If their guilt was determined chiefly on the basis of their own signed statements which were not repudiated during the trial but later were attributed to duress and maltreatment, their sentences likely will be commuted to life imprisonment.

This at least is the pattern set in a new review by Military Governor Gen. Lucius D. Clay of the first two of these contested cases.

All 12 of these sentences have been under stay of execution since the Simpson Commission found last summer there had been irregularities in gathering evidence.

The whole chapter is one of the sorriest in postwar American justice in occupied Germany. The massacre of captured, unarmed American troops during the first days of the Battle of Bulge was a ruthless, brutal crime. Nazi units which participated have been identified beyond doubt. So far as the actual crime was concerned, there seems to be no question of the individual guilt of the men under sentence. Yet the Army methods of interrogation were such as to cloud the whole procedure.

The Simpson Commission's language was restrained, but it termed the practices of the Army investigators "highly questionable."

Later, the Justice Review Board found evidence of mock trials, beatings, threats against relatives and other hardships imposed on S.S. prisoners.

In the first case reviewed for a second time, Gen. Clay reaffirmed the death sentence for S.S. Sgt. Hubert Huber.

Huber's own statements and the testimony of six witnesses tagged him as the man who kicked an American soldier who was feigning dead among the piled corpses of his comrades at Malmedy crossroads Dec. 17, 1944. Seventy-one unarmed American bodies were later recovered there.

When the soldier jumped up Huber took his coat, boots and watch and then fired four shots into him.

Huber didn't take the stand, but after the trial he denounced his own confession and said the soldier was armed when he leaped to his feet. He admitted the killing, but said he fired in self-defense.

One of the witnesses, also among the accused, renounced his pre-trial testimony similarly, but the other five witnesses didn't change their stories.

In the second case, the death sentence of Sgt. Paul Ochmann was commuted to life. He was accused of shooting "four or five" of eight American prisoners in Ligneuville, Belgium, about one hour after Huber's crime.

Two Belgian women confirmed the story of the shooting, but couldn't identify Ochmann. Another S.S. man who incriminated Ochmann at the trial has since renounced his pre-trial statement although there is no evidence of duress in forcing him to testify in court.

Ochmann first admitted the shootings. Like Huber, he didn't take the stand. Also like Huber he renounced his confession much later.

Gen. Clay, in a bitter commentary said:

"Ordinarily the exercise of clemency results from or is accompanied by some compassion. In this instance, while I agree with the Judge Advocate that the crime fully warrants the death sentence, I am unwilling to impose it only because of lack of sufficient corroborating evidence other than that which might have been obtained through improper methods."

AUSTRALIAN RED LEADER IS CHARGED WITH SEDITION

SYDNEY, Australia, March 28 (AP) — The general secretary of the Australian Communist party was charged with sedition today for pledging support to Russia if Soviet troops should enter Australia.

The Communist leader, Lawrence Louis Sharkey, pleaded not guilty at a special session of federal court. He elected to be tried by a jury. Sharkey faces two charges—one of uttering seditious words and one of publishing seditious words on or about March 4.

Opening of the case revealed a split within trade unions generally considered Communist-dominated. Of 23,000 men in the Wharf Laborers Union, only 5000 obeyed an order of the federal executive to strike at the hour court opened.

Taft Policy Is Geared to Vote in 1950

Lausche Likely to Be Opponent—Standpat G.O.P. Tactics May Be Issue.

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop.

WASHINGTON.

THE simple act of turning to Page 169 of the Congressional Directory is enough to disclose one of the really significant political facts of the moment. Senator Robert A. Taft is up for reelection in 1950. The directory does not add that the Senator's opponent will probably be Ohio's progressive Democratic Governor, Frank Lausche, but this is also worth remembering.

Such coming events usually cast their shadow before in rather trivial ways. Senatorial and congressional fence-building is a homely, often inglorious and seldom earth-shaking activity, having mainly to do with patronage and pork, but in this case the policy of the Eighty-First Congress and the future of the Republican party are both certain to be intimately affected by Taft's fight to hold his seat.

As for the Eighty-First Congress, it dominated by the restored coalition of Southerners and conservative Republicans; and the coalition is dominated in turn by Taft, whose superior industry, strength of character and ability daily increase his hold over his like-minded colleagues.

Taft's Eye on Election.

Taft would be inhuman if he did not trim his sails, which are also the sail of the coalition with the 1950 election always in his mind. He is frankly doing so, and on a particularly interesting principle.

The principle is simply that the last election did not represent a popular protest against the "worthless, do-nothing Eightieth Congress," and that Gov. Dewey could have won by campaigning as Taft himself would have campaigned.

Taft has elaborate figures to explain away the fact that Dewey ran far ahead of his ticket in the crucial states of Ohio and Illinois, although Gov. Herbert, Gov. Green and Senator C. Wayland Brooks all loudly took their stand as Republican conservatives.

As far as foreign policy is concerned, Taft's personal effort in this new Congress will be largely a rear guard action—he is demanding a cut of only one billion

36 BANDITS ROB RACE CLUB IN RANGOON; GET $92,000

RANGOON, March 28 (AP)—An armed gang held up the payoff room at the Rangoon Turf Club today and escaped with 300,000 rupees ($92,000)—the day's take.

The room was crowded with fans waiting to collect when the men, armed with revolvers, burst in and scooped the money into canvas bags.

Six men carried out the actual holdup while 30 others stood guard. After cutting the telephone wires and crippling all other motor cars in the neighborhood, the bandits made their escape.

ONE GUILTY, 2 FREED IN FIRST GERMAN WAR CRIMES TRIAL

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 28 (AP)—The first war crimes trial by a German court ended today with a five-year jail sentence against Dr. Gerhard Peters, German director of a chemical factory.

He was convicted of aiding in the mass murder of 300,000 concentration camp prisoners by supplying poison gas from his chemical plant for their extermination.

Two other plant directors, Hans Ulrich Kaufmann and Karl Amend, were acquitted.

FLASH FIRE HITS HIROSHIMA, 41 HURT, 155 BUILDINGS BURNED

HIROSHIMA, Japan, March 28 (AP) — Forty-one Japanese were injured yesterday in a flash fire that destroyed 155 home and shops in this first atom-bombed city. A small hospital also went up in flames. The blaze was brought under control after two hours.

Six Australian soldiers on leave pitched in and helped save the city, police said. No troops are garrisoned here.

Many of the buildings burned were small wooden structures which have sprung up since the bomb virtually destroyed the city in August 1945. An earlier incorrect report said 700 buildings had been destroyed.

The Robert J. Ambruster Mortuary

Built after a survey of the nationally known American mortuaries, the Robert J. Ambruster Mortuary presents within its distinctive exterior the most modern interior arrangements, so articulated that every service requirement proceeds without the architectural hindrances of altered residences or of less co-ordinated building plans.

This accounts in large measure for the commendations invariably received from our clients.

It is also this facility, together with the wide distribution of operating costs, that accounts for our reasonable prices, which begin at one hundred fifty dollars for a complete funeral service, including casket, concrete or metallic vault, funeral car and limousine and 39 essential items of service.

Pittances for the Needy

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In reference to your editorial on "Why the Legislature Stalls," I would like to make the following comments:

Old age recipients receive about $50 a month. Increased revenue is needed for them because their number is increasing. Whether we recognize it or not, the number of older persons in the United States is on the upgrade.

Fifty dollars a month is a pittance, barely enough to enable a person to maintain himself today, and the increase in O.A.A. seems justified. However, this group is having its needs fulfilled only because it is a political bloc and has voting strength.

Gov. Smith has cut general relief in half. G.R. recipients are now receiving 55 per cent of need. Curtailment of funds for this group would mean they would receive even less. The public tends to think of G.R. recipients as a bunch of lazy bums. This is a fallacy because the law states that to receive general relief a person must be unemployable through no fault of his own.

However, they do not have political strength and hence their needs are blithely passed over. The same is true of aid to dependent children. Should these groups be penalized because of their lack of political organization? This remains up to the people to decide.

Another controversial issue is relative responsibilty. This concept worked when we had a rural economy, because families banded together. It is neither practical nor sensible in a modern industrial society, where most families are small and barely earn enough to cover their own needs. They also pay taxes to support aged and needy persons in the state, which would certainly seem to include their own relatives.

As a social worker, I believe that the public must know the issues involved to make wise decisions, and armed with the facts they usually do just that.

JACK JOELSON.

The Senility Rule

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Congressman Cannon has his neck far out when he reverts to the philosophy of the aborigine in the jungle and proclaims that age is wisdom.

Some young hodcarrier could improve on the tactics of William Green. A reporter might even know as much as an editor. And some new Congressmen know more about government than some grown old on the job.

Praise Instead of Pay

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I am sure Patrolman Fred Grimes was gratified to read your few words of praise regarding his good police work. I am equally sure that he, along with a few hundred more police officers, would be more gratified if somebody, somewhere would get down to work and do something about the sadly neglected police pay bill.

A month or so ago it seemed that action was about to be taken and that police officers and their families could at last look forward to a standard of living equal to that of firemen or garbage collectors. Evidently this was a false alarm, as the bill has not been heard of since.

It is a deplorable state of affairs when a city the size of St. Louis and a state as large as Missouri can't get together and see that the men of the metropolitan police force at least get a living salary.

It is a well known fact that crime is on the increase—robbery, holdups, slugging, murder and rape are becoming every-day occurrences. Unless something is done soon to raise both the pay and the morale of the police, St. Louis will no longer be a safe city to live in.

TIRED OF WAITING.

Ironic Note

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

It seems the Southerners still think they are living several generations ago when their ancestors were small autocrats and had hundreds of Negro slaves. I suppose they have never considered the idea that some day these slaves' descendants might really make something of themselves.

Ironic, isn't it, that it took one of these descendants, Dr. Ralph Bunche, to negotiate the peace treaty between Israel and Egypt? If it weren't for Dr. Bunche the Southern Senators might have considerable more to worry about.

BETTY JENSEN.

Protest on the Manchester Line

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The substitution of busses for streetcars on the Manchester line isn't in the interest of the people. The fine streamlined streetcars now on the line are far superior to busses. They are larger, faster, more comfortable and do not have the obnoxious fumes that busses have.

The P.S.C. plans to place 71 busses in service for 58 streetcars in the morning rush hours. This will mean fewer seats and standing positions for the passengers, as the streetcars have a much larger capacity than busses have.

The people living along the Manchester line should protest the substitution before it is too late to do any thing about it.

H. RUSSELL CARTER.

Who Picks Up a Board?

Just as the spring building season opens, St. Louis is confronted with a strike which will hamper construction. This strike is the result of a dispute between two rival unions—the carpenters and the laborers. These unions cannot come to an agreement over which should remove wooden frames from concrete foundations, carry lumber and handle millwork. In other words, it is that least defensible of all walkouts—a jurisdictional strike.

Similar disputes have arisen in other cities between the carpenters and the laborers, and apparently St. Louis has been chosen as the guinea pig to test the issue. One would suppise that when two AFL locals cannot settle a quarrel, the matter would be decided by national headquarters, but there is no sign that national headquarters will do anything about it.

Just as the Taft-Hartley Act forbids jurisdictional strikes in matters affecting interstate commerce, so does Missouri's Madison Act provide machinery to avoid this kind of dispute. The Madison Act specifies that the contending parties should resort to arbitration. If arbitration fails, the Industrial Commission, on application of any of the parties, shall investigate and hand down a decision which will be binding.

But neither carpenters nor laborers are making an application to the Industrial Commission, and apparently the Master Builders' Association is not going to make such a move. Therefore, the Industrial Commission cannot take jurisdiction. The laborers, who have seized the initiative in walking out, prefer to use the crippling method of a strike.

A peace plan between the two unions had been worked out, but it was rejected largely because of the influence of Paul Hulahan, acting business agent of Local 42. This unsavory character is well known to St. Louis. In 1941, he was kicked out of the union with two other officers after investigation of their handling of $151,000 of union funds. Though Hulahan was acquitted of embezlement charges, he was barred from holding union office for 10 years. But the term of exile was shortened, and now Hulahan lives up to his reputation of being a trouble-maker.

Since the Madison Act is not invoked, the public stands by helplessly and, unless the strike is promptly settled, the fine spring days will go by without the contruction the community so badly needs. Here is the sort of situation made to order for the breeding of anti-union sentiment. The public does not care whether it is a carpenter or a laborer who picks up a board and carries it five, 10 or 15 feet. It does not believe it should be penalized by an inter-union quarrel.

The strike emphasizes the outmoded character of craft unionism. In these days of changing industrial methods and materials, the original functions of a craft often become blurred. For example, metal frequently replaces wood; what used to be distinctly a carpenter's work of sawing, fitting and nailing is no longer such. Hence disputes. In the CIO, where vertical unionism is practiced, such disputes are avoided, since all employes are members of the same union.

We think the master builders should invoke the Madison Act. They probably will not for fear of offending the unions. Perhaps the Legislature will take notice of the situation in which St. Louis finds itself and provide for automatic jurisdiction in such cases. Meantime, St. Louis awaits the pleasure of the carpenters' and laborers' unions.

Isn't It Romantic?

It was a lovely fight which "Miss New Orleans of 1948" and her newlywed husband had in a New Orleans hotel lobby. So true to the spirit of the Old South as portrayed by, say, Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind." Such impetuosity—tempered, of course, by the bride's precaution to have a battery of newspaper photographers in ambush with her.

We hope it will all turn out just as romantically. Moonlight. Honeysuckle. The patio of a beautiful old New Orleans home. The murmured exchange of endearments and the promise never to quarrel again. The strains of "Hearts and Flowers" floating out from the ballroom. And a fellow with a Speed Graphic squatting behind every cape jessamine bush.

Mission Accomplished

If this nation should become involved in war in the next few years, the outcome probably would depend on the speed and thoroughness with which economic mobilization could be carried out. And while the military should have a big say as to the what, where and when of the peacetime program, civilian control must be at the helm. That was the guiding thought of the two-week economic mobilization course given by the Armed Forces Industrial College to 240 business men and reserve officers at Soldiers' Memorial.

Experts in various fields told just what would have to be done and the best way of doing it if another war should come. The dangers of Communists boring from within were stressed rather heavily, but there was no hint of jingoism. As one colonel said in his lecture: "War would not be a simple solution to our differences with Russia." And a Navy commander's description of what would happen should an atomic bomb be exploded over Union Station was a good reverse of the coin that portrays the United States as the sole dropper of atomic bombs. Business men had their inning when they spoke of Army and Navy red tape they had been entangled in during World War II.

All in all, this mixing of civilians with the military must have had a salutary effect on all concerned. Successful planning for any future emergency lies in the mutual understanding of the problem and public support for all security measures.

A Badge of Distinction?

Nothing can be done about baldness. So says an A.M.A. committee, which deplores the fact that millions of dollars are wasted each year in a futile attempt to grow hair.

If hope deferred maketh the heart sick, here is good news. It means that your bald man, who has been forever experimenting with tonics and massages, now becomes a philosopher. Bowing to the inevitable and the inexorable, he is able to turn his time and talents to other things.

Indeed, the result may be to make the shining dome a badge of distinction. There have been a few attempts to do that in the past. For example, it was no doubt a bald man, stung by the taunts of his fellows, who coined the retort: "Grass never grows on a busy street."

Perhaps some scholar will thumb the pages of history to show that 99 per cent of all great men had little need for a comb and brush; and some other pundit will prove that there is a direct biological relationship between baldness and brilliance.

Toward Trade Freedom in Europe

Italy and France have taken the second step toward a customs union such as has been set up by Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. Carlo Sforza and Robert Schuman, acting as Foreign Ministers of their respective nations, have signed in Paris a treaty which lays the basis for the removal of the tariff wall which now bars the natural flow of goods across the Franco-Italian boundary.

Of course, the treaty of the Italians and the French will be subject to the same selfish manufacturing pressures which have delayed the effectiveness of the removal of tariff barriers among the Benelux countries.

But it is not necessary that economic union come full blown in Europe. Indeed, if it is to come full blown, it will never come unless under an iron-handed dictator. The way of democracy is slower—and surer. It is the way that France and Italy are now proceeding.

Foreign Minister Schuman put it well when he said that "the foundations are now laid, the building is still to be constructed." And his Italian counterpart, Carlo Sforza, bespoke the feeling of millions of people in the United States when he answered: "The Americans want us to be self-sufficient, and they are beginning to mistrust European talk-fests. Here is a hard fact for them."

Full economic union is not anticipated before 1955, but the elimination of customs collections between the two countries is set for one year from the date of ratification. At that time, France and Italy will announce an identical list of duties on goods coming in from other countries. It is intended that once this first duty is collected, there shall be no further bar to the movement of these goods either way between Italy and France.

In addition to all the reasons of trade for this treaty, and what it promises, stands the matter of movement of population. Italy is in great need of more room. France is in just as great a need of workers, many of them on a seasonal basis in the southern provinces. If thousands of people are to move about readily between the two countries, old walls must come down.

Support for Elephant Rocks Park

Missouri should preserve for posterity the remarkable formations at Graniteville, in the Ozarks, popularly known as the Elephant Rocks. It is a pleasure to record, therefore, that interest in acquiring these rock remains is growing steadily. The Southeast Missouri Sportsmen's Association at Poplar Bluff is the latest group to indorse the idea of a small state preserve and to forward its support to the State Park Board. If all the citizens who have stopped, walked among these great reddish rocks and marveled at their curious elephantine shapes were to ask for their preservation, the area would become state property in short order.

The Third Force Wins Again

That the ruling coalition in France is gaining in grass-roots popularity was indicated by Sunday's run-off elections. The middle-of-the-road parties actually displayed even more strength than they did a week ago. Then they won 316 of the 712 posts at stake. Yesterday they won 525 out of 785. That gives them a very comfortable margin over Gen. De Gaulle's adherents who filled 215 jobs yesterday and 171 on the preceding Sunday. As for the Communists, they slipped almost completely out of the picture yesterday, winning only 20 contests.

These elections, of course, will have no direct effect on the make-up of the Central Government. They were local affairs held in the cantons into which the 90 departments of France are subdivided. A fair analogy would be a county election in the United States. Many of the contests were influenced by local issues. Yet since political power in France is so much more centralized than it is in the United States, it is reasonable to attach rather more national significance to yesterday's elections than one would in this country.

Rather obviously, they reflect the increased stability which the Government has been able to bring to the country in the last year or so. They also signify a repudiation of De Gaulle's big talk of seizing power if he cannot win it. As for the Communists, Thorez washed out most of their hopes when he talked of supporting a Russian army on French soil.

So far as international affairs are concerned, the voting may be interpreted as a sign that the French people were not too much alarmed by De Gaulle's warnings against a rehabilitated Germany. Therefore the Government may cooperate a little more closely with Great Britain and the United States where Germany is concerned. There need be no guessing on that score, however, because practical tests will come up in the months immediately ahead. They will show beyond doubt just how much the French cantonal elections have contributed to Western international solidarity.

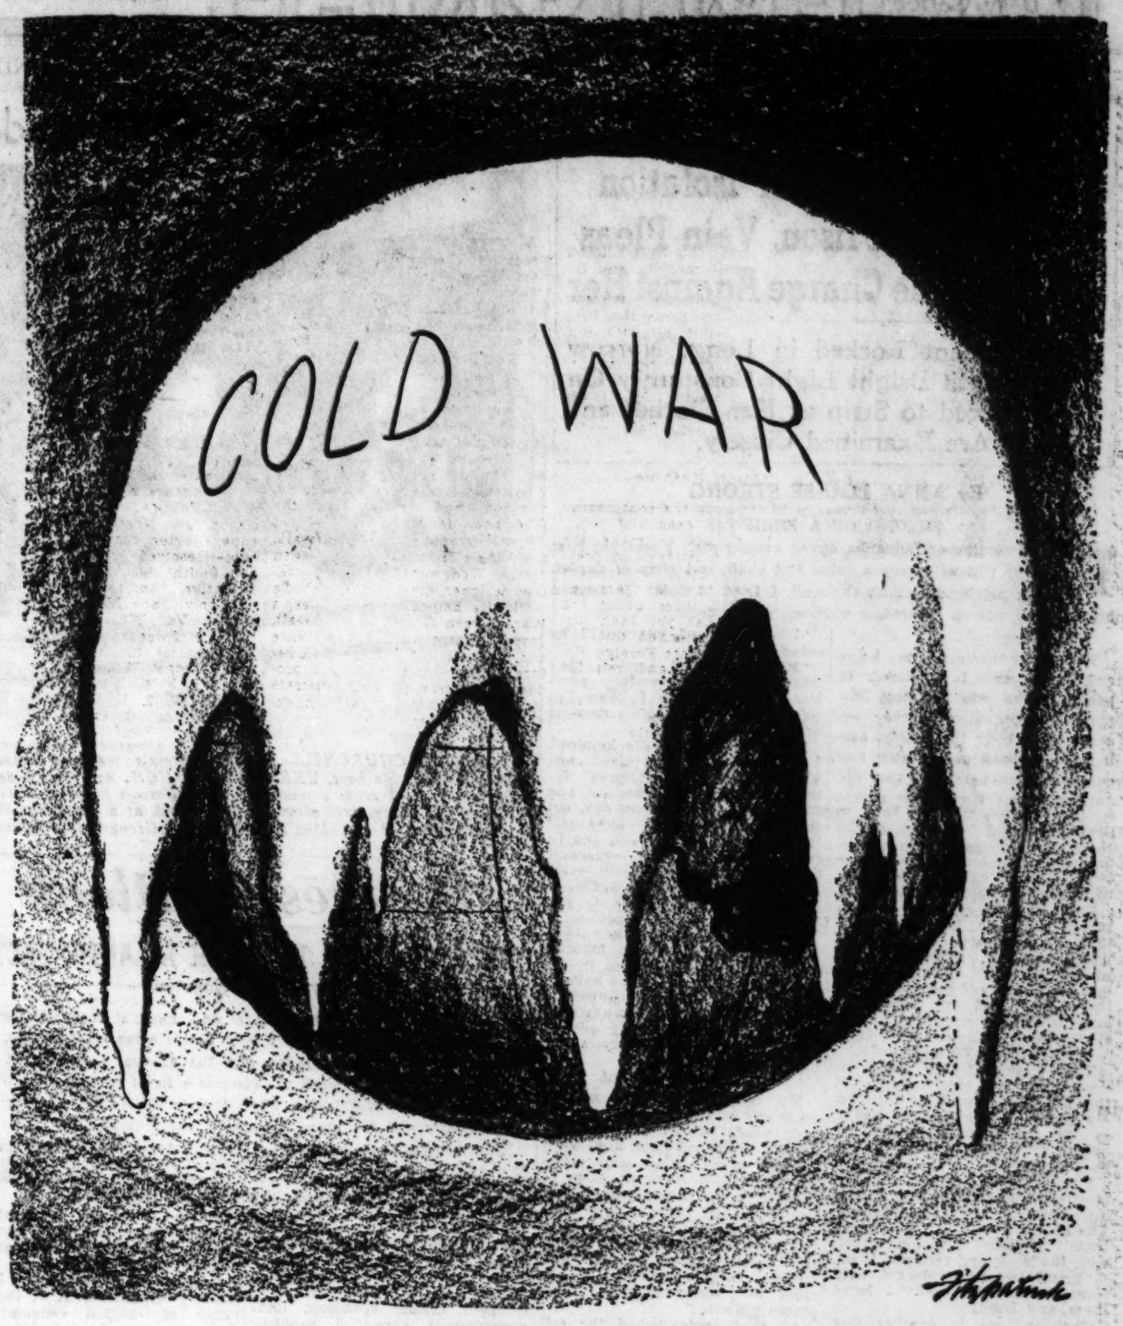

The National Labor Relations Board has just handed down a decision, but can't agree on why it decided as it did. In the interest of giving credit where credit is due, it should be pointed out that this method of deciding things was originated in Missouri by the Public Service Commission.

GQ

We are impressed by a North Dakota draftee who passed the Army's mental test, and who wouldn't be? He answered some 60 per cent of the multiple-choice questions properly, though he can neither read nor write. His system was guessing.

His GQ, or guess quotient, is fine, whatever his IQ, or intelligence quotient, proves to be. It is a refreshing approach to the question of how intelligent intelligence tests are, and a challenging one. Nobody knows how many people have flunked those things because they weakly doubted their luck and insisted on trying to get by by telling what they knew. We wouldn't want to hazard an estimate by any scientific method, but we'd guess it was plenty.

Well, the Cultural and Scientific Conference for World Peace has broken up without any more uncultured or unscientific incidents than abuse, boos and catcalls.

SPRING BUT NO THAW

Indonesia, a Blot on Democracy

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Be as stubborn in insisting on freedom for the young Republic as the Dutch are in denying it, newspaper advises; is pleased the United States, standing as almost the only barrier between The Netherlands and its ambitions, is upholding an honorable attitude.

From the Providence Evening Bulletin

United Nations Delegate Warren Austin has creditably upheld this country's position on Indonesia by his recent statement insisting once again that the Dutch must permit the youthful Indonesian Republic to resume functioning as a free state.

American opposition is now almost all that stands between the Dutch and continued implementation of their plans for the East Indies region, since they seem determined to ignore United Nations protests and resolutions. We must continue to stand firm, both for the sake of democracy in Indonesia and the prestige of the UN.

Warren Austin

There seems little doubt now that the Dutch plan to retain military control over the Indonesian Republic until they can sponsor the establishment of a United States of Indonesia closely tied to the Dutch crown.

Last December, shortly before the Dutch invaded Indonesia, a UN good offices committee attempting to arrange peace in the region filed a bluntly-phrased report with the Security Council. Dutch actions, the report declared, had strengthened the impression that "The Netherlands Government has been proceeding unilaterally to establish ultimately a United States of Indonesia on its own terms and without the Republic." Such a move, the committee warned, would "greatly complicate a negotiated settlement" and could create "serious unrest in Indonesia."

Certainly the Dutch moves since then have done nothing to discredit the committee's conclusions. After invading the Republic and imprisoning its government, they proceeded to mop up the entire region and establish firm military control. Now they have recognized a new group as "more representative" of the area and want to negotiate with them on Dutch terms and without consulting the deposed Republican Government.

We do not believe peace and order can be brought to Indonesia by a sword, particularly by a Dutch sword. The people of this troubled region have been seeking independence for nearly half a century.

In recent years they have been desperate enough to grasp at freedom no matter by whose hands it was proffered. Thus natives of the region were widely disposed to welcome the Japanese invasion of 1942, recalling a cherished legend that predicted a race of men from the north would come down to drive out the white men, remain for 100 days and then leave Indonesia to the Indonesians.

The present Dutch tactics will only serve to make the Indonesians even more receptive to promises of freedom from any quarter—including the Communists. If we wish to foster democracy in Indonesia we must see to it that independence is achieved under the aegis of the United Nations, not the Kremlin.

A modification of The Netherlands position must be the first step in that direction, and Mr. Austin's stubborn insistence may be the only influence that can budge the determined Dutch.

Juan Peron's Little Eva

From the Toronto Star

The Army of the Argentine is taking exception to the extraordinary power exercised by Madame Peron, which rivals that of her husband, the President. It has served notice on President Peron that he must send his wife out of the country or make her give up her political activities. The situation has reached the explosive stage in which anything could happen.

President Peron is 52 years old. His wife is 28. A Hollywood scout told her a few years ago: "You'll never amount to anything." Now she is the most influential woman in her native land, where her origin was humble, and one of the most important women in the world.

An outstanding quality of Mme. Peron, once known as Eva, but now called Evita, is her audacity. She is photogenic, has a good figure and possesses considerable social charm. She is a passionate speaker and professes the deepest sympathy for underpaid workers and poor people. She is credited with getting a month bonus for working people at Christmas time and reductions in rent and food prices.

Eva's showmanship had much to do with the election of Col. Peron as President in an honest election. She regularized her personal relations with the colonel in December 1945, before the voting, by marrying him. Since then she has been "the power behind the throne" and has exercised a large measure of control over industry, the movie business and the newspaper press. On a special occasion, one newspaper that printed an average of five pictures of her daily for five months published 20 pictures of her in a single issue.

Mme. Peron has thousands of dresses, hundreds of hats and bushels of jewels. Last year she visited Europe, presented gifts to the poor of Spain and France, and received decorations. She was met by the French Foreign Minister and dined by the President. She has said that Mussolini and Hitler were great men, but they had the wrong kind of mistresses.

Last year seven society women in the Argentine issued leaflets denouncing Mme. Peron's political activities and started a demonstration that was broken up by mounted police. The women were arrested and given 30 days in jail. Newspaper critics were forced to cease publication.

Peron, who is being treated more kindly than formerly by the United States, denies that militarism exists in his country. He declares that the Americas must be united to meet "a common enemy across the north pole."

The President cannot, at the demand of generals and colonels, depose or deport the wife who made him. He may find it equally hard to limit her boundless political energy.

PORTAL-TO-PORTAL IN THE CITY.
W. H. Conrad, in the Medford (Wis.) Star Times.

Friends in cities, recently discussing hours of work, emphasized to us that we have it a lot softer in the small towns. They claim that the average eight hour a day city worker puts in 10 or 11 hours when his going and coming time is included. One man in particular said his average is 11 hours, from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. Here in the small cities we even get a chance to go home to lunch and return within an hour. Some city workers do not see their homes in daylight quite a few days of the year.

Memorial to a Gallant Boy

While John Gunther was busy compiling his book "Inside U. S. A." he was also, by tragic coincidence and the ineluctable hand of fate, involuntarily preparing another book which could very aptly be entitled, "Inside Tragedy." This time the curtain would be raised, not on nations or cities, but upon the sorrow of his own heart.

"Death Be Not Proud" is an intimate and faithful account of young Johnny Gunther's valiant struggle for life while all the odds were stacked against him. At the age of 15 he was suddenly uprooted from his happy boarding school life at Deerfield and carried by ambulance to the Neurological Institute in New York. It was found that he had a tumor of the brain. Of this experience the father writes: "That building! It became the citadel of all our hopes and fears for more than a year, the prison of our dreams."

Every care was lavished upon Johnny. He was the object of unlimited attention on the part of doctors and nurses. All that medical science could think of was tried. When at last there was nothing to lose and everything to gain new cures were tried, providing brief spells of hope, a few rays of sunlight amidst the gloom. But the realization is forced upon one of how vast are the limitations of doctors in the face of this dread disease, and how pitifully little anyone can do. Yet through it all Johnny goes gallantly forward with his studies, intent on graduating and going on to Harvard.

This is a father's memorial to the personality of a very brilliant and fascinating boy. Johnny's wit and effervescent charm are recorded again and again as he makes jokes about himself and his non-existent progress. It is also the story of the parents as they stand together, though divorced, through their common ordeal.

The last chapter, "A Word From Frances," is like a lovely flower laid gently on the tomb. With deep feeling Mrs. Gunther gives a mother's picture of what her boy had meant to her before his illness, and then during it. "I never kissed him goodnight without wondering whether I should see him alive in the morning. I greeted him each morning as though he were newly born to me, a re-gift from God. Each day he lived was a blessed day of grace." And then comes her resignation to Death itself, "Only the final scene in a single act of a play that goes on forever."

John Gunther

Anyone who believes in the Easter message will lay the book down with only one regret, that its author had no personal experience of faith that could lift his sad story to a still higher level.

The publishers and author are donating all profits from the sale of this book to cancer research for children.

Well-Bred Reminiscences

MY BROTHER DENYS: A MEMOIR, by Nicholas Monserrat. (Knopf, 242 Pages, $2.75.)

In this memoir of his youth, Monserrat, an English novelist of as yet no great name but some talent, describes the life of a well-to-do professional man's family in Liverpool. The story is unexciting and entirely unsensational, as the author belongs to the well-bred school of quiet and refined writing. Nevertheless, his writing has distinct charm and there is no doubt about the typically English character and quality of the life described, a pleasant and sane life which was ended by war and depression. The author is particularly happy in his reminiscing about the vacations spent at a summer resort on the Welsh coast and the keenly experienced joys of sailing, picnicking, and especially the yacht racing. He makes the reader share his obvious nostalgia for such good days.

MARQUIS CHILDS

A Real Expert on China

THE Senate Foreign Relations Committee in a closed session the other day heard some hard facts about China. The witness, Maj. Gen. David G. Barr, was just back from stricken China where for a year he had tried to advise Chiang Kai-shek and the Nationalist generals on the conduct of the war.

Through the early months of 1948 his confidential intelligence reports to Washington had foretold the impending disaster. The advice he gave as head of the joint United States military advisory group was consistently and repeatedly ignored.

Dean Acheson.

The incompetence of the Nationalist generals went at times to fantastic lengths. Thus, in the defense of Tientsin, Chinese armies were hopelessly divided and the Communist forces took the city with comparatively little effort.

Gift to Reds.

Most startling was Gen. Barr's statement that an estimated 90 per cent of all American military aid to Nationalist China was taken by the Communist armies. At an earlier press conference he had said publicly that the Communists had got the "major proportion." But in the closed session he spelled it out more specifically.

A great part of this military material the Communists got without firing a shot. Gen. Barr told the committee, in effect, that no amount of arms from this country could have saved the Nationalist regime from disaster. He painted a picture of sprawling chaos and disorder in vast armies from which the will to fight had entirely gone.

"The troops had lost confidence in themselves," Gen. Barr said, "and there was a defeatist attitude throughout the army. That was the reason for the final collapse."

Misplaced Blame.

This testimony from a soldier who struggled at first-hand with the China dragon goes against the gospel of those Americans who blame the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations for the disaster. Their number, however, is dwindling in the face of indisputable facts that cannot be ignored even by those who want to make political capital out of the tragedy.

Confronted with Gen. Barr's realistic analysis, the old China hand reacts immediately by suggesting that he was put up to his testimony by Secretary of State Acheson. Those who know Gen. Barr will resent this as a slur on his conspicuous integrity and independence.

It happens that Mr. Acheson did suggest to the committee that Gen. Barr be called to testify. But that was because he had seen the general's intelligence reports detailing his futile struggle as head of a futile mission. Mr. Acheson did not seek in any way to influence what Gen. Barr might tell the Senators.

An Operation Rathole.

One reason for the controversy over China has been the reluctance of officials to make the facts public. A letter is in preparation in the State Department to be signed by Mr. Acheson which will tell more about the disaster than has yet been disclosed. As now planned, this will be sent to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and released at the Capitol.

When the figures are all put together, it is believed they will show the Chinese National Government received more than two billion dollars in military and economic aid since V-J day. In addition, the Chinese were allowed to buy at very low prices another billion dollars in supplies.

This, to be sure, is history. Whatever the reasons for the catastrophe, its appalling consequences are all too apparent and no one in the State Department, from Mr. Acheson on down, has any inclination to minimize them.

A Hard Choice.

Some tough decisions must be made and almost any answer is sure to be wrong. What to do, for example, about the great port cities, such as Shanghai, which the Communists apparently intend to leave alone at least until after the next harvest?

The hungry masses in those cities now exist largely on American aid. If the aid is cut off, the United States will be accused of opening the way for chaos and Communism. If it is continued, the charge will be that this country played the sucker and kept the bird alive until the Red armies were ready to capture it.

Undoubtedly the China failure, and America's share of responsibility for it, will come into the debate on ECA and the proposal to lend-lease arms to the nations of the Atlantic Pact. Quite apart from partisan politics, there are important lessons to be learned from the calamity.

WEDGWOOD CHINA EXHIBIT AT MUSEUM

A traveling exhibition of 500 pieces of Wedgwood china, the most comprehensive collection to be assembled in the United States, will open today at 8 p.m. at City Art Museum, it was announced by Perry T. Rathbone, museum director. The display illustrates trends of the last three centuries.

Charles Nagel, former St. Louisan, who was acting director of City Art Museum in wartime, organized the show for the Brooklyn Museum, of which he is director. The pieces are lent by the Wedgwood Museum, Staffordshire, England, and members of the Wedgwood family.

Special emphasis, Rathbone said, is on the 1769-to-1790 period, when Josiah Wedgwood, fourth-generation designer, did his most notable work. He helped develop Queen's Ware, Green Glaze, Black Basalt, Jasper, Rossoantico, Cane Ware and other ceramics not known before. Molds, trial pieces and production process exhibits illustrate steps in development and manufacture of varied types.

Among noteworthy works is Josiah Wedgwood's copy of the famous Portland Vase, which he made from an ancient Roman funeral urn excavated about 1630. The original is in the British Museum, London.

Other outstanding pieces are a black-and-white jasper vase which was presented to Queen Mary in 1939 and a replica of the vase that adorned the wedding cake of Princess Elizabeth. The exhibition is rounded out by both useful and ornamental pottery, such as perfume bottles, jewelry, plaques and medallions. The three downtown department stores will exhibit Wedgwood china during the museum show, which will close May 3.

An exhibition of paintings by Jane Seybold Putnam of Columbia, Mo., opened yesterday at Pen & Palette, 24 North Brentwood boulevard, Clayton. In private life the artist is the wife of Thomas Putnam of the Stephens College art department.

The show is varied in subject matter and style. It includes several landscapes of Minnesota, Missouri and Virginia, four portraits, three still life paintings, a figure composition and an abstract design called "The Moon." The favorite picture at yesterday's opening reception seemed to be "Missouri Church," a simplified, glowing landscape done in encaustic.

The artist's other media are gouache and oil. She has studied at Mills College, Oakland, Calif., and the Minneapolis Institute of Art and has had previous solo shows at Walker Art Center, Minneapolis, and in Duluth, Minn. Closing date of the display in Clayton is April 9.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

YOUNG men and women who received ballots in this morning's mail need not be under the misapprehension that they are samples to be studied for the April 5 election. The ballots are old and canceled and contain only invitations to a make-believe political rally.

Hosts and hostess will be Mr. and Mrs. William T. Kieffer; guests of honor will be their son, William T. Jr., a junior at Yale, who will attain voting age in about a week, and two of his classmates, Jack Howard and Terry McSweeney, who will visit him for the spring vacation.

The wording is somewhat different on each invitation because the hostess started writing them at 5 o'clock one morning and gained ideas as the morning progressed. Most of them are approximately as follows:

"If you are over 21 read carefully. Political Rally, Kieffers' Grove, 217 North Bemiston avenue, Clayton, 5 to 7, April 7. Debate—Resolved: that the North and South should vote solid. Affirmative, 'Ambassador' of good will only, Jack Howard of Tidewater, Va. Negative, 'Senator' Terry McSweeney of Brattleboro, Vt. Rebuttal, limited to five minutes, 'Judge' William T. Kieffer Jr., J. B. S. '45, Yale '50, we hope. Judges, W. T. Kieffer Sr., assurance life co.; Chief Fry Cook C. M. (Mrs.) Kieffer, labor party, long hours advocate just returned from the Welsh coal mines. No dates. R. S. V. P. 'Dr.' David Kieffer (younger son of the host and hostess) hamster specialist, will be on hand to administer first aid. Susie (Welsh terrier) American Kennel Club '49, will separate the wheat from the chaff or the white shoe boys from the local boys."

All the guests, including a group of young women being rounded up from this and last year's debutante groups, are to appear in costume. Prizes promised, all in fun, are round trip tickets to the Biltmore in New York, gathering place of college students, where the younger Mr. Kieffer caused a near-riot in his fraternity initiation not so long ago by loosing four homing pigeons in the lobby.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine)

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—Jimmy (Stuffy) Montgomery, 14 years old, who refused to let broken bones stand in his way, today received the "boy of the year" award.

The Hot Springs (Ark.) 85-pounder, who says his conduct is "only about average," won the title and the annual junior citizenship award of the Boys' Clubs of America. He was picked from about 300,000 boys across the country.

Eight years ago every major bone in Jimmy's body was broken in an automobile accident. Today he's a football and baseball player and is a member of his boy's club boxing team.

Jimmy was chosen "boy of the year" for service to his community, his athletic ability and sportsmanship, his hobbies, and "for his courage in winning his way back to health" after the accident.

His award carries a week-long visit here, a two-day tour of Washington, D.C., and a two-week vacation this summer on a ranch at Pagosa Springs, Colo.

The boy arrived yesterday at the throttle of the New York Central's Knickerbocker, being allowed the once-in-a-lifetime opportunity of driving the locomotive. The biggest surprise awaiting him was his mother. She had been flown here ahead of him by the citizens of Hot Springs. He had been accompanied on the trip by his father.

ST. LOUISANS RATED AS AMONG NATION'S TOP MUSIC JUDGES

St. Louisans may be mildly surprised to learn that this city, as the "continued home of the blues," is one of 10 cities whose citizens are the best judges of music in the country.

The pronouncement was made today by the Galanti Music Research Laboratory of New York which describes itself as a "50-year-old organization created to report on musical trends in the United States."

Robert Galanti, director of the organization, said the country as a whole could trace its increasing love for nostalgic tunes to the 10 cities that had consistently demonstrated the best taste in music as played over their local radio stations, at concerts, at home and in night clubs and restaurants.

The other cities were Chicago, New Orleans, Boston, Atlanta, Ga.; San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Seattle, Los Angeles and Portland, Ore.

IRENE DUNNE

IRENE DUNNE GETS LAETARE MEDAL OF U. OF NOTRE DAME

Selected as 1949's Outstanding Member of American Catholic Laity.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., March 28 (AP)—Irene Dunne, the movie actress, has been selected by the University of Notre Dame as 1949's outstanding member of the American Catholic laity.

The Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, president of Notre Dame, announced last night that Miss Dunne has been voted the university's Laetare medal. She is the sixty-seventh American to win the medal since the annual award was established in 1883.

"Miss Dunne is an example of talented Christian womanhood in a profession and community unfortunately publicized for the briefness of marriages and careers," President Cavanaugh said. "She has never subordinated her conscience to her art, but from the outset of her career has insisted on wholesome pictures.

"Throughout 15 years as a top-ranking star she has remained an exemplary wife and mother while winning the admiration and respect of high and low in the film industry and in the world at large."

The 45-year-old star is the wife of Dr. Francis Dennis Griffin, a New York dentist, and has one adopted daughter, Mary Frances.

Last year she was given the American Brotherhood award for distinguished service by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Miss Dunne, in her early years, lived in South St. Louis and attended St. Pius's Parochial School. The family removed to Louisville, where she had her first stage experience. In the 1920s she was in the Municipal Opera cast here, having singing and dancing parts.

An international peace conference at Fireworks Station, Centerville Township, on the East Side is the dream of McKinley Bell, Negro railroad laborer, of that community.

A candidate for the post of chief supervisor of Centerville Township at the election April 5, Bell has extended an invitation to Dmitri Shostakovich, Russian delegate to the "world peace conference" in New York, to visit his community and talk over the issues of peace with him and his neighbors.

"Here in Fireworks Station, we are scared by war talk," Bell told Shostakovich in a telegram yesterday. "We want to talk peace with you because you are not a politician. We know that working people can work out all the differences between our countries. They are not so big that we can't sit down in our back yard and agree on peace. Please bring other men from other countries who came to New York to meet on peace."

Bell lives at 4816 Bates avenue, Fireworks Station.

PRESIDENT WALKS 8 BLOCKS TO ATTEND BAPTIST SERVICES

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—President Truman walked eight blocks from Blair House yesterday to attend 9:45 a.m. services at the First Baptist Church.

The President sat in his usual pew on the aisle about midway in the church. The subject of the pastor, Dr. Edward Hughes Pruden, was "Our Comforter and Guide." The text was John 14:16.

A White House auto called for Truman after the service.

PRINCESS FAWZIA, WEALTHY EGYPTIAN EX-EMPRESS, WEDS

King's Sister Becomes Bride by Proxy of Press Officer for Cabinet.

CAIRO, March 28 (UP)—Princess Fawzia, former Empress of Iran and sister of Egypt's King Farouk, was married today to a wealthy Egyptian, but court circles said she did not take part in the wedding ceremony.

A cabinet announcement said the Princess was joined in marriage to Maj. Ismail Sherine Bey "under God's bounty and in consecration of His holy guidance, as well as through the kindness of the great King Farouk."

However, authoritative court sources said the usual procedure for Moslem marriages was followed, with a proxy appearing for the bride.

King Farouk stood proxy for Princess Fawzia at the ceremony in Abdin palace, these sources said, then gave a luncheon for his slender, almond-eyed sister and her 31-year-old husband. Sherine is press officer for the Egyptian cabinet.

Princess Fawzia, one of the world's most beautiful women, was divorced from the Shah of Iran last November after she failed to bear him a son to be heir to the throne. She is 27.

MORE INTERNSHIPS AVAILABLE THAN DOCTORS TO FILL THEM

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—Hospitals in this country have more internships to offer than there are medical school graduates to fill them, it is reported.

The Hospital Council of Greater New York says in its bulletin that there currently is a shortage of about 4000 internes and "this discrepancy is large enough to produce serious dislocations in the operation of many hospitals."

The council said the number of internships offered by hospitals increased 25 per cent from 1938 to 1948, but the number of medical graduates increased only about 7 per cent.

Dusak Gets 'Last Stand' Try on Mound; Browns Give Up on Biscan

Erv Can't Break In Elsewhere

ST. PETERSBURG, March 28 — Harry (The Cat) Brecheen pitched four scoreless innings for the Cardinals today against the Detroit Tigers. The Redbirds scored a run in the second off Hal Newhouser, the American Leaguers' ace lefthander.

However, Detroit pounded rookie Bob Habenicht for five runs in the seventh.

By J. Roy Stockton
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 28.

Erv Dusak, one of the finest prospects the Cardinals have brought up to the parent club in many years, will turn to pitching to try to remain in the major leagues.

Club managers and scouts always have rated Dusak high among their young players, but he has lost ground instead of improving as a hitter against big league pitching, and Manager Eddie Dyer has decided that the best chance of salvaging the athletic young man from Chicago is to shift him to the pitching staff. Dusak will start on the hill against the Boston Braves at Bradenton Wednesday afternoon.

Dusak can play a fine defensive outfield, and if he could hit around .280, a modest average for a flychaser, he would be the starting center fielder on opening day. But he batted only .209 last year. He has shown no signs of improvement this spring and he's been out of the picture in the competition for an outfield job. It's not an easy road ahead of Dusak. If he were with a second division club he could be sent to the hill every fourth day and his development as a pitcher would make a dozen or more defeats for his club, while he was learning, highly unimportant.

But the Cardinals hope to be in the pennant race all the way, so Dusak will have to show pitching skill early, if he is to get frequent chances on the hill.

It probably would be wiser to send the young man to a minor league to serve his pitching apprenticeship, but he can't be sent without getting waivers, and half a dozen clubs would be sure to claim him, considering him a bargain at the waiver price.

The Redbirds had excellent pitching and a stout defense in the pinches yesterday as they scored their tenth spring victory and took the lead, three victories to two, in the spring series with the Yankees. The score was 1 to 0, and Kurt Krieger, Al Brazle and Ted Wilks collaborated in the shutout, the third of the spring for Dyer's staff.

For the Yankees, who outhit the Cardinals 9 to 7, it was a game of muffed opportunities, just as it was a game of great fielding in the clutch for the Redbirds. The Cardinals turned three double plays in the early innings and choked threatening Yankee rallies in the sixth, seventh and eighth.

In the sixth Tommy Byrne was on third and Bobby Brown on second with one out. Red Schoendienst, playing short, grabbed Johnny Lindell's hot grounder and ran over and tagged the trapped Brown between third and home, after which Henrich popped out.

In the seventh Keller was hit by a pitched ball and Kryhoski doubled, but Wilks pitched out of that jam. Stirnweiss sent a short fly to Slaughter and Houk tapped to Wilks, who threw out Keller at the plate. Then with runners on first and third Joe DiMaggio batted for Byrne and sent a long fly to Ed Sauer in center field. One was out in the eighth when Brown singled and Lindell doubled. Buf Wilks struck out Henrich and after Keller walked, Kryhoski grounded to Glaviano.

Mataya and Pallardy Second in Pin Event

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 28 (AP)—Frank Katsali of Chicago, captured the $500 first prize of the annual midwest bowling classic last night with an 895 series. George Theel of Chicago was second with 883 and Leo Schmanski of Decatur, Ill., was third with 873.

The $600 top awards in the doubles division went to Bill Hargadon and Jack Bishop of Chicago with 1722. They were followed by Frank Mataya-Joe Pallardy of St. Louis with 1714 and Harry Lippe-Joe Sinke, Chicago, with 1670.

Buzz Tonkovich of St. Louis was the all-events winner with 1736.

Demmas Rates High.

Despite his team's failure to win, Con Demmas was named to the all-tournament team in the thirteenth district basketball meet conducted by the Order of Ahepa at Chicago over the weekend. The St. Louis U. High athlete was a member of the St. Louis Sons of Pericles team which lost two games in the Chicago event. The team nevertheless was voted an award for sportsmanship.

Goalie King Escapes the El Rey Sandwich

El Reys Prove Themselves As a Great 'Cup' Team in Overtime Title Victory

By Dent McSkimming

If sports followers could be sure of an equally entertaining show every Sunday, played under such agreeable conditions, the future of soccer would indeed be bright. For there were few in the crowd of 5568 at Sportsman's Park yesterday who would not return to see the El Reys and the Schultes put on another such pulse-quickening struggle.

And it was definitely the El Reys who made it such attractive entertainment. Eddie Begley's boys fought against heavy odds to overcome the formidable Schultes in this final game of the professional league championship series. It took 32 minutes of overtime to finally decide the issue, 4 to 3, and bring the title to the El Reys.

Beaten by the Schultes six straight times in league competition, Begley's cocky lads knocked off these heavy favorites in the first game of the playoff series three weeks ago and the next week eliminated the classy Simpkins before doubling back for this coup de grace to the Schultes. They proved themselves conclusively a great "cup" team, one that plays above its normal capabilities when the stakes are highest.

Over Their Head.

That's the only way to explain some of the dramatic incidents in this succession of victories. It explains how the rookie center forward, Mike Duffy, scored two goals with his head in that first victory over the Schultes; how Billy Cohan, playing a miserable game otherwise, rammed home a winning goal against the Simpkins last week by first-timing a high pass from Joe Spica. That's the only way, too, one can explain the superior performance of Emil Gerth, a substitute, who twice put the ball into the net yesterday, once on a long curving cross from the left wing and later tallying with his head from Cohan's corner kick.

Of course, the Duffys and the Cohans and the Gerths wouldn't have had their game-winning opportunities unless other members of the team played above par. Among these better than average performers was the goaltender, Nick Riggio, a boy who was signed by the club just as the playoffs started. With no previous major league experience, Nick handled his job as well as the man he replaced could have done it.

Eli Korer, the Chicago referee who kept the game running smoothly despite high tension, said he thinks of the El Rey goaltender as the outstanding individual performer.

"In all my 15 years of professional refereeing," added the Chicagoan, "I have never handled a game where the pace was so consistently fast. Those teams were well matched. St. Louis soccer has advanced since I last handled a game here. As compared with our soccer in Chicago your boys are terrifically fast. Of course that means that no one takes time to display nice ball control and make sure of true-to-the-mark passes. But it's the kind of soccer that should please the fans. There's only one trouble with it—too hard on the referee."

But Korer said he'd be happy to come back and handle any St. Louis game. He likes the setup here.

Dohles Press Too Much.

The long afternoon of soccer, last of the season at Sportsman's Park, opened at 12:15 p.m., with a junior class game in which the Windsor A. C. defeated Sts. Mary and Joseph, 1-0.

The victory of the Simpkins over the Dohles for third-place money in the league playoffs was no great surprise but the score, 6-3, was unexpected. When the Dohles found themselves on the short end of a 4-3 score late in the game, they gave up on their defensive tactics and pressed for goals. So it was that Frank Wallace and Charley Dubois got their opportunities to make it 6-3 at the end.

First half—Beckman from Cohan (two minutes); Muniz from Bohlman (five minutes); Spica from Cohan's corner kick (10 minutes).

Second half—Muniz from Bohlman (10 minutes); Gerth, solo (13 minutes); Keough on penalty kick (32 minutes).

First half of second overtime period—Gerth's head from Cohan's corner (seven minutes).

Eddie Linehan earned a warm hand from the crowd when he was forced to quit the field because of an oft injured knee. He and his successors at the position, Gene Silberberg, Willie Welsher and Charles Holmes, effectively smashed the Schulte's weak efforts at combination play.

Referee, Judge Suspended for Boxing Decision

NEW YORK, March 27 (UP)—Referee Harry Ebbets and Judge Harold Barnes were suspended today for an indefinite period by the New York Athletic Commission because of their much-criticized decision in Friday's Jake Lamotta-Robert Villemain fight.

Their ballots gave Lamotta the decision in a 12-rounder.

This was the first public censure of New York state ring officials since the commission was set up 29 years ago.

The third ring official in the Friday fight at Madison Square Garden, Judge Charley Shortell, voted for Villemain.

After the closed "inquiry," Eagan gave a written statement to the press, announcing the suspensions.

He pointed out that the commission would not reverse the decision. But, he added, since the scoring of Ebbets and Barnes was "contrary to the viewpoint of practically all those who witnessed the contest, especially the members of the commission," the ruling body of boxing in this state felt that some disciplinary action was called for.

The statement concluded that the commission "decided to discontinue the assignment of these two officials for an indefinite period."

Eagan stressed that the commission had no report or information "that there was any influence of any kind that might have biased an official's judgment."

Barnes, 53, has been a boxing official in New York for 28 years. He is an optometrist. Ebbets, 38, is a former middleweight fighter who now is the proprietor of a package liquor store.

Two young men from Brazil who watched the game spoke of the vigor of the play but said they were used to seeing nicer technique, more ground passing.

Conatser, Braves' Outfielder, Not Seriously Injured When Hit by Pitched Ball—Berra's Arm Ailing.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 28 (AP)—Boston Braves outfielder Clint Conatser—felled by a pitched ball in yesterday's game against Cincinnati at Tampa—is expected to rejoin the club here tomorrow.

Conatser is in Municipal Hospital, Davis Island, after being taken from the field on a stretcher. He was struck on the back of the head by a Frank Fanovich toss.

Dr. F. C. Metzger of Tampa, said the outfielder was not knocked unconscious. X-rays showed no fracture.

VERO BEACH, Fla., (UP)—Manager Burt Shotton of the Brooklyn Dodgers today handpicked five of his brightest rookies to accompany the varsity on an exhibition swing through Texas.

Named to make the trip, and apparently with a good chance to make the team, where pitchers Jack Banta and Clarence Podbielan from Montreal, Pitcher Morris Martin from St. Paul, First-baseman Dee Fondy from Fort Worth, and Outfielder Cal Abrams from St. Paul.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., (UP)—Joe DiMaggio is expected to give his ailing heel another test when the Yanks clash with the Cincinnati Reds here Wednesday.

Catcher Yogi Berra's sore arm is causing some alarm in the camp of the Yankees. Berra has played in only two games leaving Ralph Houk and Charley Silvera to do the brunt of the work. Yogi is taking light throwing exercises.

PHOENIX, Ariz., (AP) — The home run conscious New York Giants today were slightly behind their homer pace of last spring. At this time a year ago the Giants had slugged 19 homers. So far they have hit 12 including yesterday's trio in their 8-6 victory over the Chicago Cubs. Sid Gordon accounted for two and Johnny Mize the other. Mize's clout was his first of the year.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Ewell Blackwell took the wraps off his pitching arm yesterday for the first time in the Cincinnati Reds' spring training. And he reported the result was encouraging.

Blackwell, still many pounds underweight as the result of a kidney operation several weeks ago, had not done any throwing until yesterday but he served them up for about five minutes in batting practice.

"I made no effort to put much on the ball," he said. "I merely concentrated on getting it over for the fellows to hit. The most pleasing thing to me was that I felt no pain, either in my right shoulder or the small of my back where the incision was made to remove my left kidney. I'm sure that I will be able to take my regular pitching turn much sooner than most people think."

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — It looked today as if blaze-baller Bobby Feller and the venerable Satchel Paige will be ready to hurl at the start of the season for the World Champion Cleveland Indians. Feller gave up five hits in five innings, Paige two in four yesterday and the Tribe beat the San Francisco Seals, 4 to 2. Earlier in the day the Indians beat the Oakland Acorns, 1 to 0, on Dale Mitchell's home run.

Team Ends California Stay Today

By L. A. McMaster
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

BURBANK, Calif., March 28—As the Browns ended their four-week stay in California today, the club decided it would have to give up on Frank Biscan, left hand pitcher who has been in the organization 12 years.

A husky athlete with lots of stuff, Biscan went into the Navy just as it appeared he had developed into a big league pitcher. But after the war, bone chips in his elbow handicapped him. Last year after a fine start, he did the club little good.

It his most recent appearance in an exhibition game, Biscan was pounded for five hits and four runs in one inning by the Pirates. After deciding his usefulness was at an end, the Browns gave Biscan transportation to his home in Decatur, Ill. The club will try to deal him to a minor league team. All major league clubs had waived on him.

Zack Is Hopeful.

At the close of the California phase of training, Manager Zack Taylor felt pretty good about the club's record of seven victories, eight defeats and one tie. The tie was the last game in California.

At San Bernardino yesterday, Taylor's men and the Pittsburgh Pirates battled 12 innings to a 7-7 deadlock. That wasn't too good, but there were things about the game that were pleasing to Brownie officials. The club made 11 hits, one more than the Pirates.

And there were some important blows. Les Moss hit his first home run of the spring, with two men on. Lefthand batter Jack Graham smashed one off a lefthand pitcher, showing his power by driving the ball over the left field fence. And Sherman Lollar, in as a pinch-hitter, also drove the ball out of the park with a man on base. Lollar's blow, in the eighth, sent the game into overtime.

Ferrick in Good Form.

Dick Starr, Cliff Fannin and Tom Ferrick pitched for the Browns. One Pirate blow was a homer by Bockman off Starr. Elmer Riddle, Vic Lombardi and Hugh Casey hurled for Pittsburgh and Ferrick and Casey battled from the last half of the eighth without allowing a run.

The game drew 3343 paid admissions and the fans of San Bernardino, where the Browns trained last year, gave Taylor's club a fair share of applause, particularly Roy Sievers, who made three one-handed catches. The game lasted more than two and one-half hours.

Medlinger One of Reasons.

Among the young men who have helped make Taylor's stay in California a pleasant one is the Southpaw Irv Medlinger. His work in exhibition games has given promise of a fine season. Working for four clubs in three years in organized ball, Medlinger has been a better than .500 performer for three outfits and an even .500 man with the fourth.

Only 21 years old, Medlinger is a product of Lane Tech High School in his native Chicago, and he graduated there four years ago as a pitcher because his coach, the recently retired Percy Moore, had a hunch. After Irv had played three years at first base, Coach Moore asked him how he would like to try his hand at pitching. The youngster wanted to please, and went to the mound. He did pretty well—winding up the season with 20 strikeouts in a game at Peoria which gave Lane Tech the state championship in 1945.

He must have showed something as a hurler right from the start to please Coach Moore, who developed some pretty good ball players before giving up his duties at the age of 65. Among players tonight by Moore was Phil Cavaretta of the Chicago Cubs.

And while he's not a huge fellow—standing 5 feet 11 and scaling 165 pounds—Medlinger plans to give it a good try. His contract calls for service with the parent club.

First Baseman Joe Lutz has been optioned by the Browns to San Antonio. He was with the Elmira, N.Y., club last year.

Another Elmira product, pitcher Jim Bilbrey, also was sent to San Antonio. He has been troubled with a stiff arm and has seen little service this spring.

Drews Weakens, Browns 'B' Team Loses Again

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., March 28—The St. Louis Browns B squad dropped a see-saw 9-8 exhibition game to the Hollywood Stars here yesterday before 1200 spectators.

Karl Drews was coasting on a 6-3 lead going into the seventh and had allowed only four hits when he ran into trouble and was finally lifted in favor of Ralph Schwamb. Three singles and a walk were Drews's undoing. Schwamb put out the fire after four tallies scored.

The Brownies had two men on base in the ninth, but pinch hitter Joe Schultz tapped into a game-ending double play.

Grand Recs Near Title In Rugby League Play

The Grand Rec Seniors today needed one more victory to take the Missouri Rugby Football Union first-half title.

In an important game yesterday at Forest Park the Grand Recs defeated the Monkey A.C. 6 to 5. Paul Oxenfield and Bill Beck scored for the Recs, Beck counting the winning try in the last five minutes.

In the other game of the doubleheader the Ramblers won from the Black Brigade 8-0. The Grand Recs will play Black Brigade next Sunday in a game likely to secure the title. The Recs have won three, lost none, and the Monkey A.C. has a two-one record.

Two St. Louisans To Show Tonight In Gloves Meet

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—Golden Gloves champions of the East and West, who battled to a draw last year, will renew their rivalry tonight in the twenty-second annual inter-city bouts at Madison Square Garden.

Sixteen fights, matching champions and alternates of the two sections, will make up the program.

Each squad is headed by a returning champion. The eastern repeater is Johnny Saxton, a tough New Yorker who added the welterweight crown this year to the lightweight title won in 1948. The two-time winner from the West is Welterweight Richard Guerero.

The eastern squad has spent 10 days of rigorous training at Bear Mountain, N. Y., in an effort to make up some slack in the series which the Chicago fighters have won 12 of 21 times with four draws.

Last year the two squads fought to an 8-8 standstill.

From 112-pound Eugene Smith of Washington, a tiny package of punching might, through Bob Baker, the rugged heavyweight from Pittsburgh, the eastern squad is rated the best in years. Baker is co-captain of the team along with Noel Humphreys, the bantamweight from West Virginia who scored a victory as an alternate flyweight last year.

The western squad is composed of the cream of amateur talent from the Alleghenies to the Pacific Coast. The eastern fighters are survivors of eliminations in 13 Atlantic seaboard states and Puerto Rico.

Two St. Louisans, Wesbury Bascom in the 175-pound class and Bill Bangert, heavyweight, will be on the Western squad.

Bill Nelson Offered His Old Job by Thesz

Bill Nelson former matchmaker for the Mississippi Valley Sports Club, promoters of wrestling, has been offered his old job back if he agrees to the terms laid down by Martin Thesz and his son Lou.

Nelson was recently let out as matchmaker in favor of Eddie Ginsburg but the Stockham Post of the American Legion, under the auspices of which the Mississippi Valley promotes, asked that he be re-hired.

Tom Packs who sold out to Father and Son Thesz, interceded for Nelson at a meeting and then let Nelson talk with them at which time the offer to Nelson was made. Nelson wants to be matchmaker without interference.

Packs said he couldn't see why Nelson was interested in wrestling because he had been offered a place by Packs in his enterprises which promotes thrill circuses around the country.

Nelson said he would give the Thesz interests an answer within 24 hours.

St. Louis Star Retains Sooner Badminton Title

PONCA CITY, Okla., March 28 (AP)—Teddy Moehlmann, 19-year-old St. Louis star, retained his championship in the Oklahoma Badminton tournament here last night, defeating George Harman, Ponca City. Moehlmann came from behind late in the third game to win by scores of 15-12, 9-15, 15-12.

The women's singles title went to Margaret Varner, a student at Denton (Tex.) State College for Women. She defeated her instructor, Abbie Rutledge, 12-11, 11-3. It was the sixth straight time Miss Varner had beaten Miss Rutledge in a final match.

The Denton pair combined to beat Mrs. Jerrie Krey and Mrs. Ethel Horne, St. Louis, 15-0, 15-8, for the women's doubles title.

Ken Aderholt and Herpel Perkins, St. Louis, captured honors in men's doubles with a 15-8, 18-15 triumph over Nick Roberts and Pat Horn, Dallas.

The Oklahoma City pair of Ed Overholser and Billy Mayfield took the veterans doubles, defeating the Dallas team of Nelson Clabaugh and Roy Harrison. The scores were 15-18, 15-3, 15-1.

Jo Reger and Mrs. Krey won the women's veterans doubles with a 15-3, 17-15 verdict over Margaret Morley and Elaine Archer, Ponca City.

Mangrum, Snead In Play-Off in Greensboro Open

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 28 (UP)—Lloyd Mangrum, one of the professional golf's finest putters, and Sammy Snead, who has most of his tournament trouble on the greens will meet in an 18-hole playoff today for the Greensboro open championship at the Starmount Country Club course.

The two veterans ended the regulation 72-hole contest yesterday with 276's.

Mangrum, the slim defending champion from Chicago, appeared to have his second straight Greensboro title clinched yesterday when he shot a three-under-par 68 on the morning 18 to take a two-stroke lead. Snead, however, also likes the local course. The White Sulphur Springs (W. Va.) golfer has won two championships here and he put together a one-under-par 70 in the afternoon to deadlock Mangrum who posted 72 for the final 18.

Each had a 272 when they teed off for the last hole. Both holed out with birdie fours, but Snead's putter cost him a chance to break the deadlock. His second shot stopped 18 feet from the hole and his putt was just two inches short.

Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa., and amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., finished two strokes behind the leaders with 278s. Stranahan, who set the pace in the first two rounds, dropped behind in the third when he shot 73. Worsham had the best final round, a sizzling four-under-par 67.

Bobby Locke of South Africa, making his first 1949 appearance in America, shot 279 to deadlock Dick Metz of Virginia Beach, Va. Lock was under par in each of the first three rounds, but faded to a three-over-par 73 on the last 18.

Cary Middlecoff, who had dominated the PGA tournament circuit since mid-February, proved the biggest disappointment to the spectators. The Memphis dentist finished in a tie for thirteenth place with 284. He had won three of the last five tournaments and finished second in the other two.

Meramecs Take Title.

Keith Bangert scored 13 points to lead the Meramec Caverns to a 54-48 triumph over Owensville, Mo., and the championship of the Central Missouri invitational tournament at New Haven, Mo., yesterday.

Flyer Checks Bounce Reds Into 2-1 Defeat; Redheads Almas, Doran Star

Big Goal In Second Overtime

By Harold Flachsbart

There was a wild celebration on the Arena ice rink last night after the Flyers really let their hair down in backslapping two redheaded heroes of a tense hockey playoff victory. Lloyd (Red) Doran, the forward who shot the winning goal in a second, sudden-death overtime period, and Ralph (Red) Almas, goaltender who time after time repulsed the Providence Reds, were the central figures.

The Flyers had gained a big 2-1 victory over the Eastern champions of the American Hockey League, and it was the kind of game that you won't see once in many years. The rugged body-checking in the tight duel would have made National League officials proud to have their teams involved in such a playoff.

It took more than 15 minutes of overtime play for the Flyers to score their first victory over Providence in the best of seven series, and they dished out a lot of jolting body checks on the way. That's why they pounded the lanky Doran, slim 27-year-old center from South Porcupine, Ont., down to the ice after his winning goal. And that's why Almas, the other hero of the gruelling duel between two great ice teams, rushed up to Doran and hugged him and hugged and hugged some more. Almas, making 42 stops against the fast-rushing Providence forwards, was happy to gain the edge.

Don't Forget Bennett!

In the other goal was an equally brilliant defender in Harvey Bennett, 23-year-old native of Regina, Sask. Because the Flyers had the better chances to score, Bennett's goaltending had to be tops to come out with only two tallies made against him in 38 Flyer efforts. Many other St. Louis chances missed the cage and were not registered as stops.

It had been nine years since St. Louis had an overtime hockey game in playoff competition, and that one in the spring of 1940 was against Omaha. A crowd of 10,425 fans last night saw much better hockey, the kind they'll long remember.

Coach Ebbie Goodfellow, a 15-year veteran of National League play with Detroit, said he never saw another better duel in either league — National or American. The Flyers, a team without the name performers included on the Providence roster, battled tooth and nail.

Jean Paul Gladu, the top St. Louis point-getter during a season of many ups and downs scored the first Flyer goal in the first three minutes of play. It was the result of nice team play climaxing a power play in which Tony Licari passed from the corner.

Flyers Ahead in Penalties, Too.

From there on the Flyers really gave the Reds a dose of the same medicine they had received in Providence in two earlier defeats. They banged the Reds into the boards on one side or the other, and that's why five of the eight penalties in the bone-crushing game were charged against St. Louis. The Flyers probably deserved them. But the Reds were pretty tough last Tuesday in Providence, too.

Never a fight developed, but that was by the grace of Providence. The boys went at it hammer and tongs, and there were minor pushing matches, quite a few high sticks, and if you would list all involved, it would mean going down the roster, name for name.

The Reds, with their great little right winger, Roger Bedard, in the spotlight, just as he was in the game in Rhode Island, scored a tying goal for Providence in the second period while the Flyers' hard-hitting man of the night, Johnny Mariucci, was penalized for tripping. He probably made numerous other rules violations, but they weren't called.

This time the Rhode Island team went into one of its famous power formations, with Bedard and Carl Liscombe as extra forwards added to a regular forward line as a unit, and it paid off. Bedard tallied the equalizer, with Johnny Chad and Jackie Hamilton getting assists.

The third period was one of those cautious affairs, because of the tense play. The Flyers needed the game to stay in the running; the Reds wanted this one to all but seal the $14,000 winners' share of the series.

Almas made one brilliant stop on Harvey Fraser, a former Flyer who took a thorough going-over in all body-contact encounters, but Bennett saved the marbles with miraculous saves on Billy McComb and Gladu in the last minute before the overtime started.

Jim Ellery, American Hockey League representative at the game, said, as the overtime started, "there aren't likely be any penalties called from now on—unless somebody pulls a murder act." He was right. The Flyers, and chifely Mr. Mariucci, let the Reds have it from all sides. McComb, aggressive Flyer center who figured in the deal that sent Liscombe from St. Louis to Providence, used elbows with only the McComb care-free attitude.

Pozzo Nearly Wins It.

One 10-minute regular overtime period (to play to conclusion even if a team scores) was uneventful except for a few little player fracases. It was in the second overtime, scheduled to go as long as 20 minutes if needed, that Doran whipped home the back-handed shot that won the game.

Hard-pressing Hec Pozzo had missed an excellent scoring opportunity before Mariucci passed from the corner to Doran, who just caught the disc on the end of his stick and back-handed it into the cage. The Flyers jubilantly rubbed the red-head's red hair and the Reds saw red.

The series resumes at The Arena here tomorrow night, after which the fifth game is scheduled at Providence Thursday. . . . There were about 10 visiting Rhode Island scribes and radio men, all very much impressed with the Arena building—by far the best in the circuit. . . . Winner of the Flyers' season-long favorite player contest was Steve Black, the big boy playing a whale of a game of left wing. Congratulations, Steve!

In the second overtime session two Flyer casualties were Pozzo and Ernie Trigg. Pozzo was nailed with a high stick going in for a good scoring chance, and several stitches were taken to close a wound over his eye. Trigg, struck by the puck, had three stitches taken on his lip, 2 on his tongue.

Wife of Russian Hero's Owner Held Mutuel Win, Place Ticket

AINTREE, England, March 28 (AP)—Who wins on those fabulous odds in the Grand National Steeplechase?

Choice multiplying factors they were—if you had a few shillings on them. But who knew about this unsung underdog who shocked 300,000 spectators?

We found one woman with a win and place ticket to cash at tote. They would earn her 125 pounds ($500) for a total risk of one pound ($4).

Aintree was a ghost track when the newsmen closed up their typewriters hours after the race and stepped into the paddock snow white with torn-up betting tickets.

Were there no winners beside Williamson. From a small bar came sounds of revelry. We peeked in and found Russian Hero fans singing the Volga Boatman.

"I won 3000 pounds," he said. "Have a drink."

He was George Leech, a farmer neighbor of Williamson and he had backed Russian Hero and Fair Judgment, winner of the Lincolnshire Handicap, on a "spring double."

He produced a pal, who had won the same sum. That made four winners.

Stewart Granger, British film star playing a Russian hero in a Tolstoy play at Liverpool, was on the winner.

In the Totalisator "spring double" there were 30 winning tickets. The payoff on each is 986 pounds ($3,980). Tickets cost five shillings ($1) if bought before March 8 and 10 shillings ($2) if bought from then until March 17.

But for most Englishmen there was no such happy outcome. They just ripped up losing tickets and, optimistic gamblers they are, began searching for a "dark horse" for next year.

Macauley Begins Practice With All-West Squad

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—First practices were called today for the all-star basketball squads which meet here Saturday night in the New York Herald Tribune's annual east-west game.

Nine of the 20 players checked in last night along with Coach Adolph Rupp of Kentucky, who will guide the eastern stars. The remaining 11, plus coach Val Peterson of Utah, the western mentor were due this morning.

Rupp and his four senior stars who form the nucleus of the eastern team flew here from Seattle, Wash., where Kentucky won the N.C.A.A. finals Saturday night. The Wildcat players are Ralph Beard, Alex Groza, Wallace Jones and Cliff Barker

Other members of the eastern squad are Tony Lavelli of Yale; Ernie Vandeweghe, Colgate; Dick McGuire, St. John's; Warren Perkins, Tulane; Ed Leede, Dartmouth, and Frank Saul, Seton Hall.

Ed Macauley, the St. Louis stringbean, heads the western contingent which will have a height advantage in the contest. Macauley stands 6 feet 8 inches and will have as teammates Vern Mikkelsen (6-7) of Hamline and Vern Gardner (6-4) of Utah. Others from the west will be Slater Martin, Texas; Bill Evans, Drake; J. L. Parks, Oklahoma A. & M.; Cliff Crandall, Oregon State; Leo Barnhorst, Notre Dame; Bob Harrison, Michigan and Paul Courty, Oklahoma.

Two New Records in Ozark Weight-Lifting

Fred Thumin, who was presented the "outstanding competitor" award, and Haroid Recard set new marks in the Ozark A.A.U. weight-lifting tournament at the Boys Club yesterday.

By lifting 230 pounds in the military press, Thumin bettered by 10 pounds the record set by Warren Sandidge in 1947. In the two-hand clean-and-jerk. Recard lifted 305 pounds, five more than he did in 1947 when he established the record.

Loeffler Out Again; Quits at Providence

By Bob Broeg

Ken Loeffler, who a year ago quit as coach of the St. Louis Bombers, now has resigned his second job in the Basketball Association of America as coach of the Providence Steamrollers, it was learned here last night.

Lou Pieri, Providence basketball and hockey club owner attending the American Hockey League playoff series here, said that he had been informed of Loeffler's resignation by a club official in Providence.

Pieri said that he would accept the resignation of the coach under whom the Steamrollers won only 12 of 60 games during the season just finished.

"Ken couldn't stand losing and for that I don't blame him," Pieri said at the Providence hockey game with the Flyers at the Arena last night. The club owner added that he doesn't like losing either after dropping $90,000 in basketball.

Loeffler had two years to go on a three year contract which he signed upon leaving the Bombers a year ago after directing the St. Louis team to a western division championship playoff and title in the first two seasons of the B.A.A. in St. Louis.

Quit Here in Row.

The former Yale University coach quit the Bombers protesting failure of the owners to pay a bonus he claimed due him from the Arena management. The action was tantamount to dismissal when the Bombers refused to acknowledge his claim.

When in St. Louis last, Loeffler indicated that he would like to get out of the coaching game. He apparently felt that it was too rough on him. He had lost weight and suffered in general health.

In tossing in the towel at Providence Loeffler probably was influenced by the short end of a deal that the Steamrollers believe they got from the B.A.A. in the recent draft selections.

Contending that it is entitled to the rights to Kentucky's famous Alex Groza, Providence has protested the draft procedure that allowed Groza to go to Indianapolis. Providence also claimed priority on Ernie Vandeweghe of Colgate who was assigned to the New York Knickerbockers.

Squeezed Out on Both Ends.

Indianapolis, which finished last in the B.A.A. western division but with a better won and lost record than Providence, obtained the draft rights to Groza when Providence was denied first choice in the regular draft. The denial apparently was made because Providence had obtained Howard Shannon of Kansas State after the draft a year ago.

Pieri said here that Providence had been ordered to relinquish either its territorial draft opportunity or its regular draft turn. Pieri said, however, that in the instance of Groza, an "extra-territorial" player, Providence got neither choice.

In addition to this, Providence was refused the right to draft Vandeweghe when, by a vote of 11 to 1, B.A.A. clubs gave the Colgate player to New York. Pieri said Ned Irish of New York had insisted the Knickerbockers must have Vandeweghe, a good big man, in order to continue in the league. New York originally had taken St. John's Dick McGuire as territorial choice in order to placate metropolitan basketball writers, Pieri said.

A Two-Town League.

"New York and Chicago run this league," Pieri asserted, "and something has got to be done about it. I'm going to see that it is."

Pieri has demanded another B.A.A. session be called to consider the Providence complaints. He pointed out that Irish and the Knickerbockers received extra consideration in the Vandeweghe selection even after New York had obtained Harry Gallatin subsequent to the draft a year ago. New York finished in second place in the eastern division.

Open to Offer.

Acknowledging that he had resigned, Loeffler said at Providence, "Just say the situation is untenable. I have nothing definite in mind, though I like the professional game and would like to stay in it and am open to offers."

YOUR KEY TO GREATER VALUE GM

STOP-LOOK-and LISTEN to the price story

YOU'RE only human if Buick style and size and bearing stop you on the street for a second admiring appraisal.

And we knew you'd like the broader 1949 outlook that results from higher, wider windshields, narrower corner posts, and expanded "seeing area" all around.

But let's be practical a minute and talk price.

Here are ours, published for public examination. You see exactly what they include before you buy — and get an itemized, fully-detailed bill of sale on delivery.

But ask yourself —

Where else at any price do you get valve-in-head engine design — plus Fireball's extra wallop?

Where else at any price do you get soft, level-going all-coil springing — plus low-pressure tires on the widest rims in the industry?

Where else can you find the silken magic of Dynaflow Drive*—hailed by outside authorities as the biggest thing since the self-starter and probably the coming thing in car transmission?

Where else can you get so many "extras" at no extra cost whatever — direction signals, oil filters, rear wheel shields, flexible steering wheel, air cleaner — all part and parcel of this smart, sizable, steady-going Buick package!

And we might add — where do you find a better, clearer, fairer deal than Buick dealers offer? Pricing according to normal pre-war practice — extras as you want them — trade-ins or not, as you desire — here's clean dealing for anyone's money.

But — come see for yourself. Satisfy yourself that Buick's the buy. You won't take long getting a firm order in!

Penalty Kicks Win for Zenthoefers

St. Louisans Stop Dallas Eleven, 2-1

DALLAS, Tex., March 28 (AP)—Warren Smith converted two penalty kicks to give Zenthoefers of St. Louis a 2-1 victory over Ralph J. Mulhauser of Dallas yesterday in the quarter-final round of the National Amateur Soccer Cup matches.

Smith made his first penalty shot in the opening minute of play and his second five minutes after the second half started. Frankie Mongaras scored Mulhauser's goal early in the first half.

Both teams stressed speed, but St. Louis' superior ball control proved the difference. The Zenthoefers were on the attack most of the time. Mulhauser could not cope with the short accurate passes.

Billy Morantes, Mulhauser net tender, was the outstanding player of the day as he came out of the goal to clear shots. The final kicks of Ed Mongaras and Al Castro, Dallas fullbacks, led the defensive play.

John Molina, Smith, Richard Link and Bill Meier functioned smoothly in the St. Louis forward line, rifling shots at the Mulhauser net only to see Morantes clear.

The Zenthoefer's goalie, Al Pidgeon, received a hard kick on the left ankle late in the game. He went out for about eight minutes, but returned for the final five minutes.

Zenthoefer meets the Chicago Maroons at St. Louis next Sunday in the Western semifinals of the National Open. On April 10, the club goes to Chicago to face the Vikings in the Western semifinals of the National Amateur.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Speaking of Horse Races, This Is Tops!

THE Kentucky Derby, did you say? . . . Phooey on that one. . . . It's not really a top horse race — just a nice little pasear at 10 furlongs, for three-year olds that are hardly dry behind the ears.

The Derby isn't even run over the accepted Derby distance. . . . It comes at a time of year when horses of derby age are not even tightened up for a gruelling race, unless we except winter-raced thoroughbreds.

But if you care to mention the Grand National Steeplechase, such as the one won by Russian Hero at Aintree, Liverpool, last weekend, you can command our attention. . . . That, in this writer's opinion, is the fullest test of a thoroughbred at the height of his maturity and power.

Unless a contender can shoulder from 140 to 175 pounds, carrying the weight for four miles and 856 yards, taking 30 of the world's nastiest jumps on the way, the Grand National is no place for him.

* * *

In this country our Kentucky Derby eligibles carry 126 pounds one and one-quarter miles. . . . The Epsom Derby, from which all derbies derive, is a mile and one-half—one yard more to be exact.

Thus the Kentucky Derby candidates, comparatively speaking, have a mere infant's task as compared to that of the older horses who compete at Aintree annually.

The jumpers of the Grand National are seasoned. . . . It takes six years to gain the form needed for the Liverpool heartbreaker. . . . Some of the winners of this race have been quite old. . . . The son of Man O' War, Battleship, was 11 when he carried 160 pounds and won at 40 to 1, winning $35,000 for his American owner. . . . Sargeant Murphy, also American owned, was even older when he won.

* * *

Grand National Tougher Than the Epsom Derby.

FEW Americans have been privileged to view the Aintree Grand National Steeplechase. . . . It's a spectacle, aside from the race itself. . . . More persons annually view this event probably than any other racing feature in the world. . . . Possibly we might except the Epsom Derby. . . . But of these two great classics developed in the British Isles, the Grand National supplies the severer test. . . . The horse than can win this event is no accident. . . . He has the goods.

* * *

A study of the Aintree course with its 30 hazards is almost enough to make a novice conclude that no normal jumper could carry 170 pounds and complete that four and one-half mile epic.

RUSSIAN HERO (right) leads a group of contenders at "Becher's Brook," one of the most formidable jumps of the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree, England, which Russian Hero won by eight lengths Saturday. Russian Hero did not take the lead over the entire field until the last obstacle of 30 hurdles in this four-and-one-half-mile event was reached.

The following list describes the jumping hazards the Aintree contender confronts. . . . Read 'em and weep for the daredevils who attempt them:

1—Thorn fence 4 feet 6 inches high, 2 feet 9 inches wide.
2—Thorn fence 4 feet 7 inches high, 3 feet 6 inches wide.
3—Thorn fence 4 feet 11 inches high, 3 feet wide, with ditch on take-off side 6 feet wide, with guard rail, 1½ feet high, in front of ditch.
4—Thorn fence 4 feet 10 inches high, 3 feet wide.
5—Thorn fence 5 feet high, 3 feet 6 inches wide.
6—"Becher's Brook," a thorn fence 4 feet 10 inches high, 3 feet 3 inches wide, with natural brook on far side 5 feet 6 inches wide.
7—Thorn fence 5 feet high, 2 feet 9 inches wide.
8—"Canal Turn," a thorn fence 5 feet high, 3 feet 3 inches wide.
9—Valentine's Brook, a thorn fence 5 feet high, 3 feet 3 inches wide.
10—Thorn fence 5 feet high, 3 feet wide.
11—Thorn fence 5 feet high, 3 feet wide, ditch on take-off side 6 feet wide, 2 feet deep, banked to 1½ foot guard rail in front of ditch.
12—Thorn fence 5 feet high, 3 feet wide, with ditch 5 feet 6 inches wide and 4 feet deep on far side.
13—Thorn fence 4 feet 7 inches high 3 feet wide.
14—Thorn fence 4 feet 7 inches high, 3 feet wide.
15—"Open Ditch," a thorn fence 5 feet 2 inches high, 3 feet 9 inches wide, ditch on take-off side 6 feet wide, 2 feet 6 inches deep, banked to guard rail 1½ feet high in front of ditch.
16—"Water Jump," 14 feet 9 inches wide over all, with thorn fence 2 feet 6 inches high, 2 feet 6 inches wide, 12 feet 3 inches of water, 2 feet 6 inches deep.

* * *

Fourteen of these jumps are taken twice during the race, with No. 13 and No. 14 being eliminated on the final round. . . . Two of the most difficult jumps, 15 and 16, are thus encountered near the finish of the struggle.

* * *

Big Capital Prizes Increase Interest.

INTERNATIONAL interest in this event was enhanced by the sweepstakes operated in connection with it, whereby several millions of dollars, divided into capital prizes of $150,000 each, were distributed in various countries to the lucky holders of tickets. . . . The Dublin Hospital annually is the principal beneficiary of the sweep.

* * *

In this country we have a Grand National Steeplechase, too. . . . And it too is a very difficult jumping race. . . . Its hurdles are almost as severe as the British event. . . . But it has yet to acquire the prestige that attaches to the Liverpool race, which has a century-old background, in a country where "jumpers" are even more popular than flat racers among the squires of landed estates.

The Grand National attracts large fields. . . . In 1929, when the 100 to 1 shot Gregalach won, the field included 66 horses. . . . In 1947 Caughoo, another 100 to 1 shot, defeated a field of 57. . . . The average number of starters will be close to 30, through the long years this event has been continued.

* * *

Casualties? They happen, of course, but not many have been fatal to man or beast. . . . On occasion, even the horses that finished in the money suffered falls and were remounted.

* * *

And, are you again asking why do they call it a "steeple chase?". . . The answer goes back to earlier days when the young bloods were all cross-country riders. . . . On occasion they'd risk a bet on their mounts. . . . They'd arrange a point-to-point contest. . . . "See that church steeple over there?" one might exclaim. "Well, five guineas says my horse will beat yours to that steeple."

And the steeplechase was on believe it or not.

Kentucky Sets Seven Records In Defeating Oklahoma A. & M. For Second N.C.A.A. Crown

SEATTLE, March 28 (AP)—Alex Groza — basketball's magic mountain—and four spellbinding Kentucky teammates worked their sorcery on Oklahoma A. & M. and set seven playoff records as they captured their second straight N.C.A.A. championship Saturday.

Before an overflow crowd of 12,500 at the University of Washington's Edmundson Pavilion, Coach Adolph Rupp's hoopsters outgalloped and out-shot the valiant Aggies, 46-36.

Earlier in the evening, hard-driving Illinois mounted a powerful late-game surge to edge Oregon State College, 57-53, and snatch third place in the tournament.

In the keenly awaited clash between offense and defense, Coach Henry Iba's gifted shackle-makers were able to fit handcuffs for all the Wildcats but Groza. The 6-foot-7-inch center rammed in 25 points, however, before fouling out five minutes before the final gun. And Bob Harris, the equally altitudinous Aggie pivotman, fouled out early in the second half trying to truss him up.

Groza cracked three NCAA scoring records before taking his final canter to the bench and was voted by attending sportswriters the most valuable man in the playoffs.

His three-game totals of 82 points, 31 field goals and 20 foul points all set new standards. The old marks, 76 points and 30 field goals, were set by Bob Kurland, Oklahoma A. & M., in 1945, and the former record of 18 foul points by Jack Underman, Ohio State, in 1946.

The Wildcats as a team held three new scoring records and a half-interest in a fourth.

Playing against Villanova, the Wildcats helped pile up a 157-point two-team total, breaking by one field goal the previous high established by Arkansas and Oregon in 1945.

It was Kentucky virtually all the way Saturday night. The Aggies jumped to a 5-2 margin in the opening minutes, but Groza began to find his range and the Wildcats worked up a 25-20 intermission bulge.

The Kentuckians gradually widened the lead through the second, despite the fact Rupp pulled Groza and kept him in reserve for several minutes after the big fellow registered his fourth foul.

The Aggies had hard luck on several shots in the early going, and in the second half seemed unable to set up their plays with their customary precision.

For Groza, guards Ralph Beard and Cliff Barker and Forward Wallace (Wah-Wah) Jones it was the final college game. The four will play in the east-west game in New York Saturday. They left by plane with Coach Rupp yesterday.

St. Louis Fives Fail In A.B.C. Pin Event

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., March 28—The Als rolled 2636 and the Kassing-Goosens 2512 last night as two more St. Louis teams failed in the American Bowling Congress tournament.

The present leaders seemed to have a tight grasp on the American Bowling Congress tournament today as the tourney went into its final 10 days of play.

The torney leaders withstood yesterday's bombardment with the top performance of the day, a doubles total of 1256 rolled by Albert Hersenberg and Werner Doephker of Cincinnati, O., falling far short of breaking into the top ranks. Other high scores for the day were rolled by Jimmy Weigand of Rochester, N. Y., with a 659 in the singles, and by Charles Wilkinson of Redkley, Ind., who tallied 1841 in the all-events.

Rolfes and Scharf Win In Y.M.C.A. Bowling

John Scharf Jr.'s 1766 total was good for first place in the all-events in the Y.M.C.A. Industrial Bowling tournament which ended yesterday. George Rolfes was No. 1 in singles with 695 and F. Baker and E. Penning topped the doubles with 1301.

The leaders:

DOUBLES — F. Baker-E. Penning, 1301; F. Schaab-E. Yungermann, 1287; J. Buckner-V. Reynaud, 1287; A. Menendez-R. Bielecki, 1278; J. Beitz-M. Heim, 1260; J. Mathias-J. Mantych, 1255; A. Altihnether-S. Pfeiffer, 1255.

Winch Named Inspector

CHICAGO, March 28 (AP)—Art Winch, well-known fight manager and trainer, yesterday was named chief inspector for the Illinois State Athletic Commission. Winch, who with Sam Pian handled Tony Zale and Barney Ross, replaces Harold Ryan. Ryan was appointed administrative assistant to the commission.

32 Points for Mikan; Lakers Defeat Royals

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—The Minneapolis Lakers, who couldn't catch up with Rochester during the regular season, need only one more victory over the Royals to enter the final round of the Basketball Association of American Playoffs.

The Lakers got the jump on the Rochester crew last night, winning the first game of their best of three series, 80-79. It was a hair-raising contest, decided on a free throw by Arnie Ferrin in the final six seconds.

Minneapolis led all the way until the final minute when Rochester grabbed a 79-77 edge. Then Tony Jaros dribbled in for a basket and Ferrin dropped in the winning point after being fouled by Arnie Risen. George Mikan scored 32 points for the Lakers.

New York goes to Washington tomorrow night for the opening game of the other best of three semifinal series. The Knicks disposed of Baltimore, 103 to 99, in overtime Saturday night in the final of their quarterfinal series. Baltimore won the first game, the Knicks the last two.

Globetrotters Wallop Philadelphia Sphas

The final score of 80 to 54, Harlem Globetrotters on top, indicated the Sphas from Philadelphia were extended little in the way of brotherly love in their game at Kiel Auditorium last night. Attendance was announced as 8105.

In the preliminaries the House of David team defeated the Kansas City Stars, 32 to 31, and Helen Stephens's Olympic Coeds won from the Records Administration Center men, 26 to 24. In other weekend games the Coeds beat the Independents at Hayworth, Ill., 47 to 41, with Helen Stephens scoring 16 points, and defeated the El Roa team at Maroa, Ill., 75 to 64. Laverne Hempen led in that game with 20 points.

Italy Defeats Spain.

MADRID, March 28 (AP)—Italy defeated Spain, 3 to 1, in soccer yesterday before more than 85,000 spectators in Chamartin Stadium.

GEN. EISENHOWER FLIES TO FLORIDA TO RECUPERATE

WASHINGTON, March 28 (UP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, pale and weak from a stomach ailment, flew to Key West, Fla., today at President Truman's invitation to rest and recover.

Before he took off in Truman's plane, the Independence, the General said he was still hopeful of the future because this is a "strong country and we still have some damn good men."

Gen. Eisenhower, who has taken the temporary job of temporary chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said he hoped the armed forces chiefs could go to the "Winter White House" at Key West soon for weekend conferences.

He pooh-poohed ideas of big differences among the chiefs of staff. He said the wonder is actually that there had been so few.

Gen. Eisenhower praised retiring Secretary of Defense Forrestal and said he was confident the new Secretary, Louis Johnson, would "do a good job."

He said that differences among the chiefs of staff had been exaggerated. He said that in the areas for honest differences "the wonder is that there has been so few."

He praised each of the Chiefs of Staff—Gen. Omar N. Bradley of the Army, Adm. Louis Denfeld of the Navy and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg of the Air Force.

"I do not believe that our true worry is to be traced to any particular human or professional difference of these three men," he said. He said the main "trouble is in our system."

Sitting in a reclining chair in the plane and dressed in a brown civilian suit, Eisenhower appeared pale and weak.. But, he said, "I'm really not as puny as I look."

He said he hadn't had "a bite to eat for a long time." He said "the President was very nice" to send him to Key West.

$179,000,000 LOANS BACKED BY VA OFFICE HERE IN 4 YEARS

Government credit aids were used by more than 82,000 World War II veterans of Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas and Oklahoma to buy homes in the postwar period, a Veterans Administration official reported here today.

J. C. Atterbury, chief of the loan guaranty division of the VA district office in St. Louis, said home loans totaling $348,000,000 have been received by veterans in the four-state area within the last four years. Of this amount, VA guaranteed or insured lenders up to $179,000,000, he said.

Homes bought by veterans in 1948 cost an average $8300 on a national basis, a figure about $1000 higher than the 1947 national average. About 40 per cent of the loans guaranteed in 1948 were for the purchase of newly built homes costing an average of $9100. Another 49 per cent were to finance purchase of olders houses averaging $7600 in price, he said.

GEN. WALTER BEDELL SMITH TO COMMAND FIRST ARMY

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, who has just resigned as Ambassador to Russia, has been given command of the First Army.

Announcing this today, the Army Department said Smith will have headquarters at Governors Island, N.Y. He succeeds Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, who retired Jan. 31.

Smith became Ambassador to Russia in February 1946. He returned from Moscow a few months ago. He underwent treatment at Walter Reed Hospital and spent some time convalescing in Florida. His resignation as Ambassador was accepted by President Truman last week. He was chief of staff to Gen. Dwight D. 'OLD CROP' LAMBS BRING RECORD PRICE FOR MARCH

A record March price for "old crop" lambs — those born last spring—was recorded today at the National Stockyards. A top of $30.50 a hundred pounds was paid for a shipment of animals averaging 105 pounds.

This was 50 cents higher than last Monday, and the highest since last Aug. 3, when the top was $30.25. The record high was $33.50, paid last July 13 and 14.

Today's rise marked the opening of the seventh week of continuous increases. Stockyards spokesmen attributed to the new top to light shipments. Seven hundred lambs were received, as compared with 1100 last Monday and 1650 a year ago. "New crop" lambs—those born last fall—will begin arriving on the market in two or three weeks.

The society will observe April as cancer month in Missouri. Dr. Ernst said the continuation and broadening of cancer research and education must be based on public support. It requires public support, he said, because cancer today strikes one of every two families in this country.

SALESMEN WANTED

A BUSINESS OF YOUR OWN
Men will be chosen soon to handle protected territories in out-state Missouri and Illinois for a new product made and sold by Holcomb & Hoke Mfg. Co., Inc., who are rated AAA-1 and have been in business for over 50 years in Indianapolis, Ind.
This new product is a machine to be sold to filling stations, garages, fleet owners and automobile dealers to perform a service described by "Automotive News" as the most neglected vital automotive service today.
We have hired over 100 salesmen to date and most of them have produced. Commission paid is 25%. The commission per sale is $83.48.
The sale is made by demonstrating the machine, which usually clinches the sale. Because of this, it is necessary that each man selected make an investment of $250 for demonstrating equipment.
Each man selected must have had successful sales experience, have a car and furnish good references.
This is not the mine-run commission salesman's job. It is a rare opportunity for the right men to get into business for themselves which will continue because the sale of each machine insures continuing income from supplies used by the machine on which a 25% commission is paid.
Phone, wire or write John Domian, 4103 Bowen St., St. Louis 16, Mo. PLateau 4414.

SUPREME COURT TO HEAR ALLEGED RED PERJURER

Grants Review to Labor Leader Harold Christoffel Who Denied He Was Communist.

WASHINGTON, March 28 (AP) —Harold R. Christoffel, Milwaukee labor leader, today was granted a Supreme Court review of his conviction on a charge that he lied in telling the House labor committee he never had been a Communist.

Christoffel was convicted in United States District Court here and was sentenced to two to six years. The United States Court of Appeals upheld the conviction. The Supreme Court set the week of April 18 for hearing the case.

Christoffel was questioned by the committee on March 1, 1947. At that time the union he headed —Local 248 of the CIO United Auto Workers — was striking against the Milwaukee plant of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. The strike was unsuccessful and Christoffel later was ousted as union president.

In appealing to the Supreme Court Christoffel contended a majority of the 25-member committee was not present when he testified. Therefore, he argued, he could not have committed perjury within the meaning of the District of Columbia law. He also protested that the trial jury panel had been investigated by the FBI.

In another action of general interest, the court declared unanimously that "benefits to organized labor cannot be utilized as a cat's-paw to pull employers' chestnuts out of the anti-trust fires."

The decision was in a case holding the Women's Sportswear Manufacturing Association of Boston had violated the Sherman anti-trust act. The Government had charged the association with restraining trade through an agreement with jobbers.

Under this agreement the jobbers were to give all their work to association members in good standing with the International Ladies Garment Workers Union. The Government said the union did not appear to be a party to the agreement.

The court's quote about a "cat's-paw" was in answer to the association's contention that inclusion of the labor union provision made the agreement immune from attack under the anti-trust laws.

The court turned down an appeal by Justice Gunn who seeks recovery of taxes paid to the Federal Government during the years 1939 through 1944. He has been a justice of the State Supreme Court since 1938. He brought his suit in the United States District Court in Chicago which dismissed his claim. He appealed after the seventh United States Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed that action. More than 10 years ago, the Supreme Court ruled that state officials, including judges, are not immune from federal taxation.

UE GROUP URGES CIO PARLEY ON 'PROGRESSIVE LEGISLATION'

A resolution urging the CIO to call a national legislative conference to consider methods of securing passage of "progressive legislation," including rent control, housing, extended social security, and repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, was adopted at the semi-annual convention of District 8, CIO United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, at Hotel Claridge yesterday.

Other resolutions adopted included a warning that unemployment is steadily increasing in the electrical manufacturing industry and a recommendation that the CIO call a national conference to discuss industrial wages. Local unions of the Electrical Workers were instructed to draw up their own wage demands.

The convention also condemned the CIO United Auto Workers for what it called "raiding" of UE Local 813 in Evansville, Ind., and urged UE members to sign petitions asking CIO president Philip Murray to stop the "raiding."

DR. RUTLEDGE DELAYS PLEA ON MURDER CHARGE IN IOWA

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., March 28 (AP)—Dr. Robert C. Rutledge Jr. of St. Louis made his first appearance in an Iowa courtroom today in the case charging him with the murder of his wife's bachelor admirer.

Although Dr. Rutledge was brought into the court for purpose of entering a plea to a first degree murder indictment, the first move of his attorneys was to ask for a bill of particulars. The effect of this was to delay until at least April 1 his entering of a plea in the knife-slaying of Byron C. Hattman, St. Louis aircraft expert in Cedar Rapids last Dec. 14.

Legal maneuvers in Missouri had delayed the pediatrician's surrender into Iowa custody until his surprise appearance last week. As Dr. Rutledge appeared in the courtroom, he was dressed in a dark blue suit with a polka dot tie. The state had permitted him to change from jail denims for the arraignment.

MIRIAM M'KINNIE PICTURES TO BE EXHIBITED IN NEW YORK

Miriam McKinnie of Edwardsville, who teaches art at Washington University, was notified today that her work will be included in forthcoming exhibitions at the Whitney Museum and the National Academy of Design, New York.

Her water color, "Evening," has been accepted for the Whitney's April water color and sculpture show. A lithograph, "The Scarf," will be in the National Academy's annual exhibition of prints and water colors, which will open Wednesday.

The artist, who previously taught at Mary Institute, is a member of Group 15 and the Artists' Guild and has won numerous awards in St. Louis.

MRS. THELMA CANFIELD, who was slightly wounded Saturday night by a bullet fired through the front door of her home at 6546 Tholozan avenue. The bullet grazed her left hip. ITU HEAD URGES STRIKERS TO HOLD OUT

Woodruff Randolph Reported as Telling Chicago Printers 'In Time You Will Win.'

CHICAGO, March 28 (AP)—Woodruff Randolph, AFL International Typographical Union president, is reported to have told striking Chicago newspaper printers yesterday to "hold out because in time you will win."

Union sources told of his remarks. Randolph addressed a closed meeting of Chicago ITU Local 16, which has been on strike against the city's five major daily newspapers since Nov. 24, 1947.

After the meeting Randolph declined to say what he told the strikers. However, other union sources said Randolph had said eight provisions of a proposed contract offered by the publishers "did not conform with NTU laws."

However, Pilch was reported to have told the meeting that in view of the ITU's executive council's objections, local 16's negotiating committee also was recommending that the publishers' proposals be rejected.

Union members said they were told they would vote next Sunday on whether to approve the local committee's reported rejection.

The publishers' proposals included a $10 weekly pay boost and a contract to run for 16 months. The union had sought a $15 weekly increase.

JEWS POURING OUT OF CZECHOSLOVAKIA TO LIVE IN ISRAEL

By A. I. GOLDBERG

PRAGUE, March 28 (AP) — Jews are streaming out of Czechoslovakia to Israel by the thousands.

Their going is disquieting to the Government and the Czech people, but thus far no obstacles have been placed in the way of their leaving.

Jews of Hungary and Romania would go if they could. Hungary up to now has refused to issue visas for any sizable group to leave. Romania sharply restricted the number of Jewish emigrants. On the other hand, Jews are allowed to leave Bulgaria.

By May 15, a date set by the Israeli Government to control its immigration, 20,000 Jews will have left this country since Jan. 1. Their going contributes to the uneasiness of the Czechoslovakia population, which finds it almost impossible to get visas to visit even nearby sister "people's democracies," let alone to emigrate to another country.

But the fact that shopkeepers, doctors, lawyers and dentists are leaving the country spells big question marks to the Czechs living in the neighborhoods from which they leave. Why, these Czechs ask, do so many want to leave this republic?

Recently when it was announced that May 15 was the deadline for groups to leave, a rumor spread that it was a Czech Government order and that after May 15 Jews would be forced to remain here. However, Israel, which gave the order, said Jews may apply after May 15 for travel to Palestine, but will not be guaranteed accommodation. By that time about 42,000 of Bulgaria's 47,000 Jews will have left, according to American officials aiding the exodus.

WORK BEGUN ON CONSTITUTION FOR THE COUNCIL OF EUROPE

LONDON, March 28 (UP)—Diplomats from 10 countries sat down today to write a constitution for the Council of Europe as a first step toward a possible United States of Europe.

The delegates were ambassadors and ministers from Italy, Ireland, Sweden, Denmark, Norway and the five Western Union powers—Britain, France, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. They have been assigned the job of working out details of procedure for the committee of ministers and the consultative assembly which will make up the Council of Europe.

Today's meeting was held behind closed doors at the British Foreign Office. One of the first problems to be thrashed out was the question of whether to issue any press reports before the meetings end in about 10 days.

Joan Crawford Reports Burglary.

LOS ANGELES, March 28 (AP) —Movie Actress Joan Crawford today reported a $2250 burglary of her Brentwood home. She told police the intruder or intruders cut through a screen of a second-story bathroom window to rifle her dressing room of $1450 in jewelry and $800 in cash. She discovered the loss on returning from a trip to Palm Springs.

Negro G.I.s 'Defeated in Spirit During Training,' Official Charges

New York Commissioner of Correction Tells of Conditions at Arizona Camp at Meeting Protesting Against Discrimination.

Detailed testimony of discriminatory treatment of Negro soldiers in the recent war was given yesterday by three veterans at a public hearing at City Hall.

Grant Reynolds, Negro commissioner of correction for the state of New York and co-organizer of the national Committee Against Jim Crow in Military Service and Training, declared that the Negro soldiers of the Ninety-second Division "made a poor showing in Italy because they were defeated in spirit during their training in Arizona."

The audience of about 150 persons, most of them Negroes, applauded Reynolds's remark, made near the end of the hearing sponsored here by a St. Louis Commission of Inquiry Into the Wartime Treatment of Negro G.Is, formed for the meeting.

Reynolds said the commanding general of an Arizona training post publicly stated that his task was "to teach 18,000 Negro troops how to eat green vegetables," and also encouraged operation of a vice row because "he believed it would improve the behavior of Negro soldiers." He told of his efforts to free Negroes he said were kept in a stockade without protection from the elements after they were apprehended when absent without leave.

"The Army even carried segregation to Harvard University, where we Negro chaplain students were forced to live six in a room in the space allotted to us," he said. "I'm sorry to say that Negro chaplains in general did not have guts enough to stand up for their charges when they were mistreated, but Negro officers were more courageous."

Theodore Sanders, 4739 McMillan avenue, a shipping helper at Monsanto Chemical Co. and former Army sergeant in Burma, said his fellow Negro troops faced a color line in that country "which white American troops introduced before our arrival." He described inferior food and transportation accomodations given Negroes in this country and abroad, and difficulty of advancement in rank.

Richard Clark, 1222 North Eighth street, a former Army medical technician, said the English people at first considered Negro troops "the best behaved and humblest of the Americans," but "learned the color line from white Americans like me."

An evening session had been scheduled but was abandoned because seven white and Negro witnesses failed to appear. Reynolds said he was informed that the missing witnesses "were afraid to come out in the open." Bishop William Scarlett of the Episcopal Church, a member of the panel, said the curtailing of the hearing was unfortunate, "but its good purpose has been served."

A. Philip Randolph, president of the AFL International Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, said the testimony was "hardly a sample of the Negro soldier's story."

TAFT POLICY IS GEARED TO VOTE IN 1950

As usual, his main scene of action will be domestic policy. Here he feels very confident that he will be able to pull his own program through. Fairly thorough modification, but emphatically no repeal, of the Taft-Hartley act is the main point on the program. The Democratic leadership already privately concedes that Taft has the votes to win this one.

For the rest, Taft hopes to pass his own housing act, to secure acceptance of a moderate plan for aid to education, and to do something, again rather moderate, about minimum wages.

He is determined to ignore completely President Truman's requests for new taxes and economic controls.

In accordance with the Taft principle, this represents no more than the completion of the job Taft undertook when the Republicans carried the House and Senate in 1946. The voters may think the Eighty-First Congress a little different from the Eightieth. It will deal with more welfare legislation and be a little less of a lobbyist's carnival ground. But it is still true that where many Senators would have run hard for cover after the voting last Nov. 2, Taft is standing pat.

Since Truman won the election by a slender margin and then threw the initiative away with both hands, it is not at all surprising, that Taft should lead this Congress. What is much more interesting is the fact, frankly acknowledged by Taft himself, that "1952 will depend on 1950." In other words, in Ohio in the Taft-Lausche contest, and to a lesser degree in the other states where there are other contests, the voters will at least be squarely presented with the issue Dewey ducked. Now the voters will be bluntly asked whether they are for or against Republican orthodoxy, isolationism included. This is what Taft consciously desires.

Obviously, Taft will be the central figure in this drama. If he is beaten as a result of the record of the Eighty-First Congress, stand-pat Republican orthodoxy will instantly cease to be a serious political factor. If he wins, he quite clearly means to have a fourth try for the Republican presidential nomination. Since the majority of organization Republicans share his view that Truman's victory was Dewey's fault, he will have a good chance of getting the prize he has sought so often.

Morgan Is Back, Courtesy of Allen

By John Crosby

N.B.C., still casting about on Sunday nights, now has Fred Allen and Henry Morgan back-to-back, as they say in the trade, from 7 to 8 p.m. (C.S.T.). It's a very informal arrangement. The two comedians wander back and forth on each other's programs—at least they have so far—in such a way you get the impression it's one hour-long show.

HENRY MORGAN

Even the gags sound a lot alike, as if the gag-writers had been working in adjoining rooms and couldn't help overhearing one another. One way to distinguish between the shows, the only sure way to know that Allen is off and Morgan is on, is the fact that Mr. Allen is still selling Fords. Mr. Morgan isn't selling anything in particular, though, I imagine, he hopes to.

★ ★ ★

RIGHT NOW HE REFERS every five minutes or so to Mr. Allen as his sponsor. He is too. It was Allen who persuaded a rather hesitant N.B.C. to hire Morgan and attach him, as it were, to his rear. It's a very logical coupling but it's too early to say whether it will pay off or not, Mr. Hooper not yet having inspected the bottom of his birdcage.

★ ★ ★

THERE WERE SOME PRETTY good reasons for N.B.C.'s hesitation in having Morgan. The comedian, who has won more publicity and prizes than many entertainers half again his age, kicks his sponsors in the teeth more freely than is generally allowed in this business. Of course, he isn't the only one who takes liberties with commercials. Arthur Godfrey was perhaps the first man in this field but Godfrey at least sounds as if he likes Chesterfields, while Morgan used to discuss the virtues of Rayve Cream Shampoo in terms of the utmost distaste.

Abe Burrows once made a shrewd observation about Morgan's advertising technique. "If you're a Morgan fan," said Burrows, "you feel ashamed to buy the product. You feel Henry wouldn't approve."

★ ★ ★

THIS IS CARRYING SPONSOR hatred too far. It's bad enough if a program doesn't push sales to any degree but it's unreasonable to try to put the sponsor out of business. Funny thing about Morgan, though. When he was sponsored by that push-pull, click-click razor outfit, he used to kid the life out of it on the air but he was its stanchest defender off the air. Said it was the best razor in the business. He thrust one of the things on me once, but I've never used it. I'm not a push-pull, click-click man; I'm an unscrew-take-apart-and-put-back-together-again man and I've always been that way and there's no sense in trying to change me at my age.

★ ★ ★

THE REASON I BRING ALL this up is that Morgan now sounds as if he had been subdued by inactivity (and possibly some good advice from Fred Allen). He sounds as if he'd be real nice to a sponsor if he had one. The Morgan show is a rambling, loosely organized affair of decidedly uneven texture. There are periods of great satiric brilliance, periods of not so much brilliance and some spots which are just downright puzzling. (I ought to explain that I'm notoriously slow-witted and you may know what Mr. Morgan is getting at in these puzzling interludes but I'm darned if I do.)

★ ★ ★

MORGAN IS STILL accompanied by his sidekick Arnold Stang, the best stooge in the business, and since Fred Allen drops in from time to time, bringing along his guest stars, the stage is alive with extremely capable people. Anyway, the return of Morgan will be greeted with happy cries by the Morgan worshippers and with dismay by the non-Morgan crowd.

There is, I realize, quite a sizable non-Morgan crowd who write me letters asking me what I see in that preposterous fellow. Well, I don't know. He just makes me laugh. That's all.

Birthday Trouble

By Christopher Billopp

MOST husbands have quite a flock of relatives in the persons of aunts, uncles, brothers, sisters, nieces, nephews and cousins. And these relatives have birthdays which ought to be remembered.

A conscientious wife will want her husband to stand in well with his relatives. She will, therefore, assume the responsibility of listing the birthdays of his relatives so that they will not be overlooked.

Furthermore she will put her mind to the task of selecting suitable presents. She will suggest to her husband that he discuss the matter with her. But he will point out that he is too busy to discuss it now. Besides, he has perfect confidence in her judgment and will willingly leave the choice of gifts to her.

★ ★ ★

THE UPSHOT OF IT is that she alone decides what the presents are to be. It is she alone who scours the shops to find them. It is she who collects string and wrapping paper and cotton, or excelsior, and wraps the presents with great care so that they will not be smashed in transit.

It is she who figures out the exact time it will take the presents to reach their destinations and arranges the mailing so that they will arrive neither too early nor a day late.

It is she who takes the packages to the post office, sees to the weighing and pays the postage and insurance out of her market money. When she is all through she makes a full and comprehensive report to her husband who glances up from his newspaper long enough to remark, "Swell."

★ ★ ★

BUT WHAT ARE A WIFE'S feelings when the letters of thanks arrive and are addressed to the husband and declare the presents are just what they wanted, ask how did he know, and exclaim on how remarkable that he never forgets their birthdays when he has so much else to do.

What Am I Saying!

A noted dietitian claims that a man's ability to rise to heights of success depends a lot on the food he eats as a child. I wonder. It seems to me that most men rise to heights because they stay on the level. After all, the child raised on marble-cake, rock-candy and brick ice-cream doesn't necessarily grow up to be hard hearted. He becomes a heel only when he hasn't got a soul.

New Chapter in Legend of Taum Sauk

State to Build First Road and Fire Tower to Top of Missouri's Highest Point

By Don Cullimore

Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

SOMEWHERE in the remote heights of St. Francois mountains the ghost drums of Piankishaw warriors may beat anew; for the white man is coming again to Mount Taum Sauk, and this time he is coming to stay.

The beat of spirit drums may carry the word that the highest eminence of America's oldest mountain range is to be brought face up with civilization—that another bit of Missouri's Ozark wildlands is to lose its pristine detachment from the motorized Twentieth Century. For announcement that the Conservation Commission plans a fire lookout tower on the summit of Taum Sauk, and a road leading thereto, means that for the first time the mightiest mountain of the state will be brought within reach of the casual traveler.

No longer will the great scenic sweep from Taum Sauk's 1772-foot peak, and the awesome beauty of its granite-bound high waterfall, be reserved for the eyes of those willing to travel miles by foot over a tortuous terrain.

The drums may tell more, if they wish. They may tell the story of Taum Sauk, the mighty Piankishaw chief, and that of his beauteous daughter Mina whose death so enraged the Great Spirit that the mountain was cleft so a spring of great flow burst open to pour unceasingly on the scene of a lovers' tragedy. They may tell of bitter wars with the Osages, of the disappearance of a tribe, of the first despoliation of a mountain by the white man, and of how it thereafter lapsed into decades of obscurity except to local folk.

Taum Sauk is not the highest of all the Ozarks. Some peaks in Arkansas top it by upward of a thousand feet. But it is of the St. Francois range, whose red, gray and black granite comprises the oldest exposed mountain rock of the continent and possibly of the world. Its origin goes back a billion or so years—the Rockies by contrast are a mere 55 million years of age, the Alps 35.

Lying a bit more than a hundred miles south of St. Louis, Taum Sauk is reached over a traffic-way rich in geological and historical significance. That route lies down State Highway 21, past Potosi and its 170-year-old lead mines and its tomb of Moses Austin; across the Belleview Valley and the somber massiveness of Buford Mountain; past Graniteville and the picturesque Elephant Rocks, and through the Pilot Knob-Shepard Mountain pass where the earthworks of Fort Davidson still bear witness to the Civil War battle that saved St. Louis for the Union and turned Sterling Price's gray-clad regiments to the west. Then through the Arcadia Valley and Ironton, and up over the high switchback on Tip-top, and down again through Missouri's Royal Gorge to the hamlet of Hogan.

Taum Sauk is not far from Highway 21, as distances go, but that 12 miles or so might well have been a hundred so far as tourists of these motorized days are concerned. A gravel road runs briefly west from Hogan, then tapers into an intraversible deep-gullied lane that drops down past Round Mountain and fades from sight finally in the streambed of a mountain-rimmed vale.

Here one is at the base of Wildcat, the eastern spur of Taum Sauk's twin-humped extremities. Three trails branch off; one goes downstream to the left to a granite defile called the Devil's Toll Gate; the center path rises up over a low slope and goes on backcountry to the site of an old lumber camp. The third trail twists sharply to the right and ascends a path which could be lost in summer foliage were it not for local markers—occasional tin cans nailed to bordering trees.

This trail is steep but not long. At something less than a mile the underbrush breaks abruptly into the open rim of a canyon and the brink of Mina Sauk Falls, which plunge downward for 200 feet in a gorge so tortuous that in spots the cascading waters are semi-concealed by rock enfoldments.

This is the legend of Taum Sauk and of the Piankishaws: Mina, the chieftain's daughter, was discovered in her love for a captive brave of the Osages. The enraged father ordered the Osage hurled from the mountain, and so it was done; but as her lover fell Mina broke from the women holding her and leaped after him. When the girl's body crashed on the rocks there was a flash of lightning and a thunderous roar, and the canyon split and a stream of clear water poured from its crest down over the bodies of the lovers. Thus was created magnificent Mina Sauk falls, and the scars of Taum Sauk Mountain.

Wildcat and Taum Sauk proper are connected by a broad saddle; the falls burst from the top of the saddle, and its stream separates the mountains in a broadening valley until it sweeps past the Devil's Toll Gate at the canyon's mouth and turns toward Black river.

Sixty years or so ago the loggers stripped Taum Sauk of its great trees, as so much of the Ozarks was despoiled after the Civil War. Now scrub oak and thick underbrush grows where high pines once stood. It has suffered, as has all of that area, from uncontrolled burning-over of the land.

The Piankishaw drums may recall this, with an angry roll at the vandalism of the white man. But they may record, also, that a different type of white is coming this time; coming to protect the land and not denude it, to quench the backcountry fires and to nurture and rebuild its stands of timber.

Taum Sauk came briefly into the news in 1937 when a proposal was made for a road to its summit, financed by tolls collected from tourists. The Post-Dispatch at that time editorially opposed the project, in these words: "The rugged natural beauty of Missouri's greatest elevation must not be ruined by a signboard-and-hot-dog-stand highway. It should remain what it has been through the ages, a delight to hikers, ancient and modern."

Even though its shield of inaccessibility will be lifted, Taum Sauk through wise conservation and restraint may this time retain the primeval splendor which makes it one of Missouri's outstanding attractions.

TAUM SAUK MOUNTAIN STANDS 1772 FEET HIGH. IT WAS THE LEGENDARY HOME OF THE PIANKISHAW WARRIORS, WHOSE CHIEF WAS TAUM SAUK.

HYDE PARK

THE first real glimpses of spring could be seen in our swamps this morning — the red, curled-over heads of the Jack-in-the-pulpits were well above the ground. Spring is an exciting time. Every time you go out you see some little new green blade pressing upwards to greet the sun.

My two little dogs got spring fever the other night when I was away and bolted even before they had their supper. They never returned the whole night through, despite whistling and calling.

Two of my little grandsons are staying with me, and the younger one, when he heard that the dogs had been out all night, remarked: "They did not mean to stay out all night, Granny; no one remembers to give them a key."

At six o'clock in the morning the dogs returned safe and sound, but I am glad I was away and did not know about this case of spring fever.

THE ORGANIZATION known as CARE has just undertaken a new form of distribution in Europe. In addition to food for the body, that is, they are now going to distribute food for the mind, in the form of books from the United States. They will do this in co-operation with the U.S. National Commission for UNESCO, the Library of Congress, the American library association and others.

Anyone who has been abroad knows that countries invaded by the Nazis lost thousands of books from their libraries. The plan is to get from the needy European universities, technical schools or professional groups a list of their most urgent needs, and as funds are made available, CARE will buy, ship and distribute the books.

Any of us who are interested may take part in this undertaking. If we give more than 10 books, it will be made possible for us to designate which country we would like our books to be sent for distribution. This activity is going to start on May 15, so if you have any way of informing more people of this program, CARE will be grateful for your co-operation.

WITHOUT a distribution of books through which people in other parts of the world can acquire an understanding of this country, it will be difficult to promote the cause of peace or to increase the knowledge which one group of people has about another group. These books, of course, will be American books and it may well be that they will not cover all the needs of any group of people. But at least a very general list can be compiled and made available for choice.

I cannot imagine anything more difficult than facing the empty shelves in the schools and libraries of Europe, where they used to be so rich in reference material and where, I think, people on the whole kept more abreast of the times along many lines than in any other area of the world. I am glad, therefore, to bring this new activity to the attention of the public and hope that many of us will have a share in the books that go from here to other parts of the world.

Shrimp a la King

Five tablespoons butter or margarine, one-fourth pound sliced mushrooms or one three-ounce can mushrooms, drained; one-fourth cup chopped green pepper, four tablespoons flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, two cups milk, one five-ounce can shrimp, drained, one pimiento, chopped.

Melt butter, add mushrooms and green pepper, and cook over medium heat five minutes. Blend in flour, salt and pepper; add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and boils. Add shrimp and pimiento; heat. Serve on toast or hot biscuits. Six servings.

If you fry foods frequently, a frying basket that fits into a deep iron or aluminum pan is a good investment. Do not crowd the basket in frying.

Keep on Trying

By Angelo Patri

BOYS and girls, when you are face to face with a job that seems too hard for you, try it. If someone else has done it, you can do it if you really want to and it is always better to add a success to your record than a failure. Try with all your might and you will succeed.

Maybe somebody said you could not make the grade. Don't take that. Try. Nobody knows what you can do, not even yourself. Your strength is within you, in the strength of your spirit, and that has not been measured by anybody, by any scale, yet. It never will be, for the strength of the spirit is beyond understanding. Keep trying.

★ ★ ★

UNTIL YOU HAVE FACED the hard job and, pecking away at it, succeeded in taking it over completely, you cannot know, you can have no idea of the joy of living, of working and achieving. Doing the easy routine things adds little to your spiritual height and weight. And it is the power of your spirit that is going to be the measure of your worthiness to be counted among the honored ones of your time.

Each of us faces a different task. For one it may be learning to love truth and to do battle for it. For another it may be learning to think away from self toward others. Maybe it is overcoming a bad habit like laziness, or putting off a duty, or finishing a task that is begun. Whatever it is, it is the Giant Difficulty which must be overcome to win the shining sword of the valiant in spirit. Try and try again.

Perhaps you find arithmetic difficult. The teacher dislikes you and you him. The problems he gives are too hard? Do them. They have been done before so you can do them, too.

PAINTS.

Once, not so long ago, there was just paint. Plain, ordinary paint that you applied with a brush and that came in colors. Now there are so many different kinds of paint that it's enough to discourage the amateur from ever going near a brush.

For example, we have special paints for stucco, special paints for asbestos shingles and any number of special paints for masonry. Some of these are synthetic oil paints, others are cement paints. Both are good. Of course, when it comes to concrete floors, you have special synthetic floor enamels that are made to resist the lime in concrete as well as the footsteps of humans. If you want to paint a concrete driveway or walk, then there are special stains you can get.

Even paints for wood are complex. There is exterior or outside paint for items that are going to be exposed to the weather, interior paints for woodwork that has to be washed but is not going to take a bad beating, floor paints and enamels for inside floors and deck paints for outside floors.

As far as transparent finishes go, there is spar varnish for outside work, interior varnish for inside trim, floor varnish for floors and furniture varnish for furniture. Then there are shellac, lacquer and plastics. It's hard to decide which one is best.

Get into the subject of wall paints for plaster or wallboard and you'll go nuts. There are oil paints, synthetic oil paints, water-thinned paints, calcimine and even whitewash.

RIDING AROUND TOWN

with BOB WOLFSON

A lot of people will tell you "so and so's a lucky guy. Everything he touches turns out well." Personally, I've always looked rather objectively on "good" or "bad" luck. Statistics show that the over-all picture is about divided evenly into good or bad breaks and the use of charms, lucky pieces, rabbits' feet, etc., means little in affecting said breaks. This, of course, excludes the lucky golf ball I carry in my bag. Holed an approach shot with it five years ago.

Funny though how people whose knowledge of odds, and scientific knowledge approaches wizardry will also make obeisance to Lady Luck. Experts with the dice—the boys who can figure the odds on rolling a seven down to the finest degree, will be heard at the same time admitting that "left-handers and red heads are lucky shooters." Or take the gamblers at the track—they invariably buy an apple.

Superstitions in the sports realm are legion. Adolf Rupp, who along with our own Eddie Hickey, is known as the tops in science-applied-to basketball, always wears a brown suit when his team's in competition. In my own family, Pop Feld has one of the keenest minds I've ever encountered — an almost uncanny ability to size up a situation and figure the odds for or against. Pop's often chuckled when someone remarked about "being pretty lucky," and maintained that there's no such thing, that we make our own breaks. So, how come, Pop, you always carry those two silver dollars around with you? Could be for good luck?

Up until the day I bumped into Dave (I call him Dave because it's his name) I hadn't been brilliantly successful in the various media for mild wagering possible in Miami.

Dave, a Kansas Citian, shook hands and asked to be brought up to date on my activities in St. Louis. We chewed the fat a while and then Dave reached into his pocket and pulled out a $2 bill—crisp and crackling. "Take this, Bob," he said. "I want you to have it as a good luck charm. Don't spend it, just keep it around in your billfold. It's my way of wishing good luck to the guys I know and like. (At that time, just returned from the races, I didn't need two bucks more than I need my left arm.) But it wasn't the fact that it was dough that put this gesture across to me—it was the sincerity, personal regard for my welfare, and good wishes that went with it. "That's a pretty swell guy, that Dave," I thought, "and this stunt of his seems to me a friendly way of wishing the other fellow luck."

Now B. Rose or any short short story writer would probably figure out a double twist to wind up this yarn on luck. The double twist in my case happens to be the true finale. So you think I came home C.O.D. after losing my shirt? Not on your life! That deuce is the most efficient charm I ever carried. From that day on for the duration of our Miami visit, I couldn't lose. Where the nags had been running backwards, or coming in sideways anxious for their oats and my hay, the post-charm wagering for instance resulted in a 15 to 1 shot romping home for Robert as obediently as a mechanical rabbit.

The more I think about Dave's gesture of friendship and good will, the more I like it. In fact I like it so well that I'm instituting the very same thing here at Feld Chevrolet.

So every Feld Chevrolet driver—from here on—will receive a $2 bill with our handshake and the warm, sincere wish that this token of Feld Chevrolet's friendship will bring him good luck. I'm still skeptical enough not to believe entirely in the efficacy of tokens, charms, etc., etc., but I do believe in the pleasant feeling engendered through one person's friendly wish of "good luck to you." And, too, it's just possible that the Feld Chevrolet "lucky $2" might do the trick for you.

The incident of Dave's wishing me good luck recalled another highlight of my recent vacation down Miami way. Time has a way of doing only a once-over-lightly to some people and they look and act the same whether it's yesterday, or 15 or 20 years ago since you've seen them. This is particularly true in the case of Elf Giller whom I encountered in Miami.

Elf ran the neighborhood drug-store and my first acquaintance with him began when I was about 7 or 8 years old, which would place the era in the days of "two scoops of ice cream on a nickel cone." I had no difficulty in recognizing Elf despite the twenty odd years. But how the dickens could he reach out his hand quickly to shake mine and say "Hello, Bob, are you still having difficulty choosing three chocolate soldiers for a penny? Or is your problem black or red licorice?

I know now, if I didn't realize it then, that Elf Giller was a great merchandiser. Undoubtedly many times when a bunch of us would troop into his store after school, Elf must have had weightier problems of business on his mind than the financial transaction of exchanging a specified amount of candy for a school kid's penny. But he invariably paid us the courtesy of discussing man to man the relative values and benefits to be derived from the expenditure of this important penny. He permitted us our right of selection and the getting full value for our investment. These business dealings, involving the sum of perhaps five cents, were conducted under the friendliest of conditions. The seller was concerned to see that we were satisfied with our purchase. The purchaser had the feeling that he had been well treated, given consideration and he carried his purchase outside se[illegible] in the belief of full value.

A school kid and his penny for candy—a man with his money to buy a new car. Lot of difference in cash investment of course, but fundamentally the same principles of consideration, fair dealing, full value. Perhaps this childhood memory subconsciously dictated our policies here at Feld Chevrolet—we're proud that our staff always takes the same attitude as friend Elf Giller.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I HAVE two sisters. We live several hundred miles apart and see each other only about every two or three years. One of my sisters is very negligent about letter-writing. She phones the second sister frequently, or resorts to occasional visits our way. I have been very faithful about writing both my sisters, usually twice each month, until a few weeks ago, when I decided to stop writing either. I simply got fed up. One sister insists her days are so full she simply has no time to write anyone. I got tired of the one-sided business. After all, I consider her busy-ness a pretty lame excuse. I work a full week, have numerous other duties and activities and yet manage my correspondence, too. I dropped her first. Then the second one began to take her part and reproach me for being so hard on the gal when she's so busy. Suddenly I began to hear from the negligent sister again, and to my surprise it was apparent the letters I wrote the other were being forwarded to her, as she would comment on things I had said. I told my sister to stop this, that if the first one could not keep up a correspondence with me there was no reason why she was entitled to know what was going on. She paid no heed, so now I don't write her either. Don't you think I am justified in taking this stand? There are really no hard feelings, they simply need a lesson. I lost patience with the first sister, feel she is lazy, don't want her to hear from me either actually or second hand through the other one. What do you think of a situation like this? —BUD.

Some people like to write letters, others are by nature very poor correspondents. Also, some people are much more methodical than others and probably your first sister thinks herself the busiest person in the world mainly because she has never learned how to systematize and budget her time. A one-sided correspondence can get pretty tiresome, I grant, but it seems to me you are taking rather drastic measures with regard to this matter. In many families when all are busy people with little time for letter writing, round robins are resorted to. In that way all get the family news but only one letter has to be written. So instead of penalizing both sisters for the dereliction of one, why not instead of being so uncompromising, continue as your second sister has started? Write to her and let her pass the letter on to the other sister. Then if you like, do this turn about—write to one for several months, then to the other. The second sister can write the first, who can add her bit of news and the letter be sent to you, etc. How about trying this awhile instead of everybody being a little mad at everybody else, as at present?

THE GREATEST STORY EVER TOLD

By FULTON OURSLER

CHAPTER 23.

SALLOW - FACED Judas slouched through the door at the farther end of the red-walled apartment and approached the two elders with graceless steps. He was a red-bearded man with tough curly hair, thick with ringlets, and his eyes chronically swollen. His straw sandals squeaked on the marble floor as he made a stiff, perfunctory bow to Annas.

"Your name, my son?"

"Judas, son of Simon."

Annas scribbled on a piece of parchment with a goose-quill pen. His next question was asked with the utmost casualness:

"How long have you been a friend of this Jesus of Capernaum?"

"Jesus of Nazareth, Lord — I have been His friend for three years."

"I believed in Jesus," replied Judas.

"Then why do you offer to betray Him, now, in His hiding place for the night?"

"Understand me clearly," exclaimed Judas in a voice deepening with indignation. "I am not a common informer. What I do, I do—and why, is my affair and I do not wish Him to come to any harm."

"You do not intend any harm to Jesus, do you?" persisted Judas.

"No, I believe in the Sanhedrin as the true judges of the Lord."

"I believe," said Annas acidly, "that you are a revolutionist. Do you know that I could send you to prison?"

"No, Lord Annas! You have no evidence against me."

"I found evidence enough only yesterday against a conspirator called Barabbas! Another fellow trying to stir up trouble and bring us all to ruin. What did you do all these three years with Jesus?"

"I carried the bag; I was His treasurer; that is how much He trusted me."

"Did you have much money to handle?" asked Annas.

"Are you sure Jesus didn't keep some back for Himself?"

"Yes, I am sure of that!" shouted Judas. "How can you—"

"Judas!" snapped Caiaphas. "You forget yourself."

"I am truly sorry," he muttered. "Please forgive me. I was under His spell—that was it—and now the scales have fallen from my eyes and I see Him as He really is. He charms you, and the thoughts He puts into words sound wonderful. But these are violent times, and He talks soft words. If anybody slaps you on a cheek, turn your head around so he can slap the other one. Give in to everybody. Never resist anybody."

"UNDERSTAND ME CLEARLY," EXCLAIMED JUDAS, "I AM NOT A COMMON INFORMER."

★ ★ ★

"I THINK I begin to see," interrupted Annas. "You thought the important thing was for Him to rally our people. Well, he had his chance last Sunday when He rode into this city and the whole multitude fell at His feet. Why, He could have done anything to that mob that He wanted. What did He want?"

"Nothing. He was preaching some pacifist madness about the Kingdom of God. He needs to be placed under arrest—"

"Yes, Lord," agreed Judas.

"Another question," went on Annas in a musing tone. "Did you ever hear your Jesus attack—the priesthood?"

"Lord, He has told more than a dozen parables that would blast you all out of the Temple."

Annas sucked his tooth noisily as he turned blankly toward Caiphas. "Then Jesus is a dangerous man," he grunted. "You have done well to come to me."

He seized his pen.

"Who are the principal supporters of this fellow?"

As Judas began to enumerate, Annas wrote down the names of sixteen persons; the eleven other Apostles and Mary, the mother of Jesus; Mary, the wife of Cleophas; Salome, the wife of Zebedee, Mary Magdalene and Joanna, the wife of Chuza, who was Herod's steward. These, Judas declared, together with Mary and Martha of Bethany and their brother Lazarus, formed what might be called the inner group of the followers of Jesus.

"But does He not hobnob also with men of a much higher social class?" asked Annas.

"Why not? While they have not openly avowed their membership, they are strongly sympathetic. They are Joseph of Arimathea and the counselor Nicodemus."

"Now, Judas, one thing more and we shall be finished. I believe you told the high priest that tonight above any other time was the best to take Jesus. Why was that?"

"Riddles again."

"No riddle—a simple fact, Lord Annas. Jesus could escape from your guard, disappear before your very eyes if He had a mind to. I saw Him do that when the mob tried to kill Him in His home town of Nazareth. But He expects to be taken tonight."

"Because He believes He must die. He keeps saying He must die to save the world. Take him now—while He is in that mood—and he will not resist you—so you," Judas added with heavy mockery, "will be well off."

★ ★ ★

FOR a moment Annas and Caiphus talked together in low tones. Annas suddenly stood up.

"Listen to these special instructions. Get for us their certain plans for where they will spend tonight."

"No harm will come to Him?" reiterated Judas.

"What I do, I must do quickly."

"I am not doing this for hire," he blurted out.

The old man glanced at him witheringly.

"I have had too much experience in life ever to take anything for nothing. Tomorrow you will not come back to me with new demands—you will be paid off now. Thirty pieces of silver!"

The conspirators, Annas and Caiphas, knew they had to hurry. Now that the old leader believed in the real danger of the situation, he was far more stirred than Caiphas, although outwardly still calm and lordly. No one knew better than Annas what the consequences would be to him, to his family, to his class, if Jesus prevailed. It would mean the ultimate eclipse of the Temple aristocracy. But Annas was resolved also that the illicit plan must be put through with the utmost appearance of legality. The heart of Annas was elated now; even at his extreme age he relished politics, intrigue, secret action. Obstacles had always hardened the resolve of Annas; in the excitement he forgot his weariness and felt young again. He tasted victory in advance.

IT was nightfall when Annas set forth upon his errand. Boys with torches went before and behind his litter as he was carried through the narrow, crowded streets to the castle of Antonia, where Pontius Pilate stayed when in town.

Annas was well aware how deeply Pilate hated all Jews, avoiding every possible contact with them, even while living among them and governing them; he would certainly not be pleased at this late call by Annas. But this errand was an urgent political consideration, by which the old man knew he could justify the intrusion and hold Pilate's ear long enough.

Annas was in the castle of Antonia less than half an hour, but when he came out, his eyes held the gleam of a man who has won.

"When the case of Jesus comes before Pilate, the Nazarene will die," he was thinking. "And that will be the end of it—He will never be heard of again."

By the time Annas reached home, a crowd had gathered before his front door—laborers, hired mobmen, shouters, screamers, fist-shakers, noisy professional pickets who would rail against any person or any cause—for pay. Tonight Caiphas would be their foreman.

Caiphas had worked swiftly. Not only had he assembled these hirelings to sound as if they were the voice of all Judea, howling for blood, he had also assembled a troop of Temple guards, sentinels without weapons.

Presently they would be joined by Roman soldiers with armor and swords, who would give empire authority to the arrest.

"You have acted quickly, Caiphas," said Annas.

"Better than you realize," replied Caiphas, showing teeth through his beard. "I have sent personal word to every single member of the council, telling them all that the Sanhedrin must be prepared to meet tonight and to stay in session until the case of this fellow is disposed of. They will recognize how serious the emergency is in the way I worded the call. Meanwhile, Judas is back."

"Judas?"

"Judas Iscariot, Lord — the man who will take us to Jesus. He has learned exactly where to lead us."

"Then are you ready?"

"At once!"

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

IT is a strange truth that many of the most profitable penalty doubles are unjustified doubles, or at least very "close" ones. Today's deal, which occurred in a high stake rubber bridge game in New York, is simply one more illustration of this point.

North dealer.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♦	Pass	1♠	Pass
2♠	Pass	4♠	Double
Pass	Pass	Red'ble	Pass
Pass	Pass

North started out with one diamond so that he could comfortably bid two clubs if South's response happened to be a heart.

It should be observed that both West's double of four spades and South's redouble of that contract were almost equally "sporting." Discussing the hand later, West admitted that he had heard the redouble with a sinking feeling, and would gladly have called the whole thing off! As for the redouble, South obviously lacked the high cards for this action, but felt that his distribution would be effective.

West opened his singleton club. The king won and declarer returned a heart. West won with the eight and, to stop heart ruffs, shifted to a low spade. Dummy's seven held this trick and now South cashed the club ace in order to discard a diamond. He was severely shocked when West ruffed the trick and returned another trump.

Even though South could now shut out West's trump king, he was in a horrible position! Dummy was reduced to the blank ace of trumps, and South still had four hearts to handle. It made very little difference how South played from this point—actually, he went down three tricks for a 1600-point penalty!

This was a rather luscious plum for West and his partner, particularly since West had been entirely willing to call off the double and redouble.

CASE RECORDS

By Dr. George W. Crane

CASE T-231: When Judy, our only daughter, was 5 years old, she entered kindergarten. "Do you know the names of any other children in your room?" her mother asked her at lunch that first day. "I know Jerry," Judy replied. "And who is Jerry?" I inquired. "Oh, he's my boy friend," she pertly retorted. "Why do you think he is your boy friend," her mother countered. "'Cause he is," Judy reaffirmed. "He likes me. One of the other little girls gave him four pieces of candy and he gave them all to me. And he's my protector." "Your protector?" I asked, doubtfully. "Yes, he keeps the others from hitting me. He stands in front of me and makes them leave me alone."

★ ★ ★

THIS EPISODE FROM childhood is cited primarily to show that children acquire many psychological attitudes relative to marriage long before they even approach puberty. Marriage demands both psychological as well as physical adjustments. These psychological viewpoints can be well developed even before a child leaves grammar school. In fact, by the age of 3 or 4 years, the average child learns that this is a two-sex world and begins to think in terms of the opposite sex regarding later marriage. A little boy will thus state that when he grows up he is going to marry his mama. When told that this is impossible, he may decide to marry his sister. But this, too, he finds is taboo, so he may then select some little girl among his playmates or in the nursery school.

★ ★ ★

THE BOY RARELY STATES that he is going to marry his daddy or one of his brothers. Without being consciously taught that marriage is a union of two different sexes, he has nevertheless absorbed that essential fact from his own home surroundings. Similarly, the little girl will tell you she is planning to marry her daddy. She may next choose her brother, and finally switch to a little boy playmate. These are wholesome emotional attitudes which are developing.

★ ★ ★

JUDY'S REMARK MAY impress some of you readers as being evidence of precocious emotional development, but they aren't. If you are familiar with children, you will realize that her attitude is duplicated in other kindergarten youngsters. Next year Judy may have forgotten Jerry. But the important element in this psychological situation will persist; namely, her expectation of having a boy friend instead of a girl friend as a romantic partner. It is foolish to show a squeamish prudery regarding the behavior of children in the matter of sex. They are usually quite scientific in their attitude and need playmates of both sexes so they can acquire the normal emotional viewpoint necessary for later happy marriage.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A DIVORCEE ASKS: "Is it right for my ex-relatives-in-law to write direct to the children instead of to me when inviting them to come to visit? A second question about these same relatives. Would it be out of place, now that I am divorced, to invite them to stay in my house?"

The answer is decidedly yes to your first question. From your second question it is evident that your personal feelings toward your ex-relatives have remained friendly and keeping them so is greatly to the advantage of the children. This fact certainly should outweigh the former conventional rules of propriety which did not tolerate the friendly approach of either family toward the no-man's land where the children lived alone. Today, and happily, we have come to realize that avoiding as much distress as possible for the children is of first importance, and that when ex-relations-in-law can remain on good terms, it is certainly best for all concerned that they do so.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A VIENNESE PUBLISHER, visiting America for the first time, confessed that he never had seen a game of golf. The late Frank Crowninshield took him to his Long Island club where they followed a crack foursome. One of the players landed in a deep trap just short of the first green. "He'll have to blast out of that one," said Crowninshield. "It must be impossible," added the Viennese. The player, however, executed a perfect explosion shot. The ball landed on the green and trickled into the cup for a birdie three. The Viennese clucked sympathetically and said (This is Crowninshield's story) "Ach, what a time he'll have getting out of that one!"

In 1910 the average American ate 195 pounds of potatoes. In 1948 the potato's popularity slipped to about 118 pounds per person, according to the Department of Agriculture.

'Maybe' Becomes Promise

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

AS far as his wife is concerned, Mr. M. is just about ready to take the vow of silence.

"I told her casually," he explained, "that I might have to go to Chicago before the winter is over, and that if I did, maybe she could go with me."

"She didn't object to that?" I supposed.

"On the contrary, she took it as a fact, Dr. Popenoe. When I told her yesterday that another man was going to make the trip, she cried. She said I had promised her the trip, and she had already written her aunt that we were coming. What do you think is the matter with her?"

★ ★ ★

"YOU FEEL it isn't natural for her to behave that way?"

"According to her idea, you did."

"But it simply isn't so, Dr. Popenoe."

"Not if she were a man," I replied. "But she's a woman . . ."

"Well, even a woman ought to be able to understand the English language."

"Yes, but her language isn't your language, Mr. M. Ask any married man you meet—I think most of them will tell you the same story. I knew a man who traveled frequently, and who had so much trouble on this point that he finally adopted the policy of telling his wife only after he had actually bought the tickets. It was sometimes inconvenient for her to start on such short notice, but he claimed it was even more inconvenient to him to make a vague suggestion, as you did, and later virtually be called a liar!"

"How do you explain it?"

★ ★ ★

"JUST another of those peculiarities of the female sex. The average woman has a tendency to grab any idea that attracts her, and make it part of herself. Because her attention is turned inward, more than is that of a man, and because she is fundamentally possessive she absorbs the idea, turns it over and around in her mind, and begins to believe it is true. When she finds it isn't true, she doesn't blame herself, but someone else. She has been cheated!"

"What can you . . ."

"So the experts say that, whether you are a husband, a salesman, or an advertiser, you should never seem to promise any pleasant experience to a woman, unless you go through with it. And remember that a very slight hint is something enough to constitute, for your wife, a promise!"

A SLIGHT HINT IS SOMETIMES ENOUGH TO HER, TO CONSTITUTE A PROMISE.

QUESTION: Why do parents find it so hard to understand a teen-ager?

Answer: Partly because he finds it so hard to understand himself. He's continually in conflict between wanting to be independent, and wanting to be taken care of.

Q. Publicity man for the house trailer manufacturers says divorce rate of families living in trailers is only half as high as average. Can that be possible?

A. No evidence, to my knowledge; but the fact that there are now 5000 trailer parks in the United States, representing an investment of $100,000,000, certainly points to a new type of family life!

How It Started

By Jean Newton

"Carpet Knight."

THE epithet "carpet knight" is the sixteenth century equivalent of "armchair brass" as the latter was used in the second World War. Our correspondent suggests that its meaning is the same—an allusion to military officers who keep out of the danger zone.

"Carpet knight" is susceptible of two meanings. It once alluded to a knight who had received his rank for other than military distinction. Thus the English scholar, Gervase Markham, wrote in his "Booke of Honour," which dates 1625:

"Carpet knights are men who are by the prince's grace and favor made knights at home. . . . They are called carpet knights because they receive their honours in the court and upon carpets."

For the expression's second shade of meaning, which our reader suggests and which is its usual significance as a metaphor in modern speech, there are repeated examples in literature from its early history. We find the following in the "Divine Weekes and Workes" of Du Bartas, as it appears in the English translation made in 1606:

There you have the sixteenth century French portrait of the officer who sees no service in the field! Also, the great French essayist and contemporary of Du Bartas, Montaigne, made this allusion to the subject: "Accustom him to everything, that he may not be a Sir Paris, a carpet-knight, but a sinewy, hardy and vigorous young man."

Attachments for Sewing Machine

HAVE you taken a look at your sewing machine attachments lately? Better dust 'em off and see that they're working perfectly. Otherwise with current styles calling for as much decoration as they do, you'll let yourself in for a lot of tedious handwork.

Take that matter of ruffles — lingerie blouses frothy with jabots, ruffles on pinafores, skirts, dresses, often trimmed with lace edging. Rows of lace insertion used in blouses or in summer evening dress skirts. The gadget that makes this easy is an edge stitcher. With it you can zip along with your machine, catching the edges securely, yet neatly enough to eliminate too much overlap.

Quilting is used everywhere — especially on dresses and aprons made of those charming prints that are a revival of patterns more than a century old. Quilting also is beautifully effective on couch-beds, pillows, bedspreads, headboards and other decorative fabrics. With your quilting attachment on your machine you make these rows of stitching in perfect spacing—and fast.

Solution of Saturday's Puzzle

Economical Menus for Tomorrow

By Meta Given

A TEMPERATURE between 40 to 45 degrees on the inside of your refrigerator does not guarantee that the food you have in it is going to keep perfectly. The refrigerator must be clean as well as the foods. The inside of the refrigerator needs a thorough weekly washing with a baking soda solution. Never use soap. It is more difficult to remove every trace of soap and its odor than soda. And be sure to dry the shelves and inside walls of the refrigerator before replacing foods. Defrost before cleaning to keep the refrigerator working efficiently. Consult your instruction book to learn the correct method of defrosting. Perishable food that is put in a refrigerator, is the kind that bacteria, yeast and molds love to feast upon. While they can't multiply as fast in the refrigerator as at room temperature, they struggle along and do some multiplying anyway. So trim off clean any spoiled parts from vegetables such as cabbage, lettuce and celery and see that all other food put into refrigerator is as clean as you can make it. Wash and dry cucumbers and tomatoes. Remove leaves from radishes and carrots, then wash and dry before putting into the hydrator. Remove wrapping paper from meat because it is not thoroughly clean, it serves as insulation and also absorbs meat juice. Cover meat loosely with waxed paper and place in the coldest spot—the trap just under the freezing compartment. Put dairy products in the next coldest spot. Wipe milk bottles or containers off clean. Remove eggs from cartons or bags and place in a covered metal or glass container. Remove all left-over cooked food to clean dishes of the proper size. If the refrigerator is of the old type, cover the dish. Cover cooked foods having a strong odor, even in the new type of refrigerator. When food spills, clean the refrigerator immediately.

Lobster-Avocado Sandwich

Combine one-half cup lobster meat, diced, two tablespoons slivered radishes, two tablespoons minced celery, one hard cooked egg, chopped, one-fourth cup mayonnaise, two teaspoons lemon juice, one teaspoon salt and one-fourth cup diced avocado. Spread on three slices of buttered bread. Top with three remaining pieces of bread. Makes three sandwiches or one cup filling.

Cheese Pudding With Spanish Sauce.

Spread eight slices toast with one-fourth cup margarine, cube and toss with one teaspoon minced chives. In a greased six-cup casserole, make alternate layers of bread and two cups grated sharp cheese (one-half pound), topping with bread cubes. Beat three eggs; add two and one-fourth cups milk and one teaspoon salt and pour over the layers. Bake at 325 degrees Fahrenheit for one hour. Serve with Spanish Sauce. Four generous servings.

Sauce: Melt three tablespoons shortening. Add two tablespoons onion, chopped fine and saute until they are soft. Add one tablespoon flour and blend. Add one-half green pepper, chopped, one-half cup celery, diced, two cups tomatoes, pureed, one-fourth teaspoon prepared mustard, one teaspoon salt and pepper and cook with constant stirring until mixture boils and thickens. Serve hot.

Menus for Tuesday.

New Term Being Used In Furniture Markets

IF you're interested in buying even a single piece of furniture there's a new term in the retail air that may save you money. That's K-D, trade abbreviation for "knocked down."

This means that the given piece, usually one of several types of chairs or tables of relatively simple construction, comes packed flat, and you assemble it at home. This assembly ordinarily means only setting legs or tops or other simple parts in place, adjusting screws or bolts, and then tightening them. It's the sort of thing that the man of the house can do in a few minutes—or the housewife, since no single piece is very heavy.

The K-D practice has been used for years in the Adirondack and similar styles of wood lawn furniture. Now it also has been adopted for wrought iron furniture that is used for indoors, terrace or lawn. Probably its newest application is for living room chairs, especially those new, lighter weight chairs that are coming in for dining-living room use.

The important feature to you as the purchaser of K-D furniture is the real saving it effects. In the first place, there's an average saving of more than one-third in freight rates from the manufacturer to the retailer, for the flat cartons of K-D pieces take up far less room. In addition, there's a minor saving in packing costs, not only at the factory end but also with the store, since there's no repacking for delivery to you. And there's a considerable saving in the amount of space the package occupies in the retailer's warehouse.

SOME FAMILIAR WORDS OFTEN MISPRONOUNCED

HEARD on a radio forum: "Our constant aim must be the main-TAIN-ance of peace in Europe." The word used is maintenance, "act of maintaining." Note that the second syllable of main-te-nance is not "tain." There is no such word as "maintainance." Correct pronunciation: MAIN-tuh-n'nss.

Heard during an after-dinner speech: "So we must write FINN-iss to the whole proposal." The word used is finis, Latin for "boundary, limit, border," hence in English "an end; conclusion." The first syllable should rhyme with "by, my." Be sure to say: FY-niss.

Overheard on a bus: "The cold has settled in his LAHR-niks and BRON-i-kull tubes." The first word is larynx, "the organ of voice." Note that the "n" comes after, not before, the vowel "y." LAR-ingks.

Heard on a radio crime program: "And he will pay the supreme penalty for his HEE-neeuss crime." The word is heinous, "odious, hateful, reprehensible." Note that heinous is not spelled "he-ni-ous." Be sure to give the word two syllables only, thus: HAY-nuss.
